GERMANS TO RECONSIDER IF FOOD BAN IS LIFTED

RALSTON NOT MIFFED AT LEGISLATURE'S PROGRESS

NOW PUTS IT UP TO BRITON

Germany Will Recede if England Allows Food to Come Through.

BERNSTORFF HANDS NOTE TO MR. BRYAN

Declares German War Zone Plan Mere Retaliatory Measure.

ENGLAND TO HOLD OUT, SAYS CHURCHILL.

London, Feb. 15.—(5:05 p. m.)—In a statement to the house of commons today, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, intimated that further action would be taken by the allies to prevent the importation of foodstuffs in neutral ships to Germany.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, today presented to the state department a note from his government announcing that Germany stands ready to consider receding from its announced intention of attacking British merchantmen, if Great Britain will withdraw its efforts to prevent foodstuffs from going to Germany for the civilian population.

The note declares that Germany's plan to attack British merchantmen was a retaliatory measure adopted because of the alleged violation of international law by Great Britain in trying to starve the non-combatant population of Germany and that the latter government is ready to withdraw from its purpose as expressed in the naval war zone decree as far as it applies to merchant vessels as soon as Great Britain either of its own volition or as a result of representations from the neutrals expresses her willingness to return to the usual practices of international law on the question of foodstuffs.

Now Held to Be Warships.

The German note adds that the Berlin government has information that the English merchant vessels are being armed and have orders to sail in groups for protection and further that they would try to sink submarines. It declared that there was now no question of searching them, but the result would be that German ships would fight them because they are now held to be warships.

The note declared further that Great Britain, according to information of Germany, intended to use neutral flags and that therefore neutral shipping would be in danger in the war zone. It was urged, therefore, that meanwhile neutral shipping observe the request of Germany and go around the north of Scotland in the course which had been declared outside the war zone.

BLOOMINGTON HOPES TO SAVE UNIVERSITY

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—A delegation of eighty Bloomington citizens, headed by Mayor John G. Harris, invaded the state capitol today to work against the Van Auken bill to move Indiana university to Lafayette. The bill provides that Indiana university shall be consolidated with Purdue and shall be known as the University of Purdue. Senator Van Auken, author of the bill, and chairman of the finance committee to which the bill was referred, said this morning that a majority of his committee favored reporting the bill out of committee with a recommendation that it pass. He said he would call a public hearing on the measure some time this week.

GOVERNOR RALSTON GIVES FLAT DENIAL

Rumor of His Displeasure With Legislature is Untrue, He says

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Governor Ralston today entered a denial of the story circulated that he was displeased with the progress made by the legislature thus far. The fact that this legislature has not enacted as many laws as the body two years ago did for a corresponding period, does not necessarily mean that this body is behind in its work nor can it be taken as a criterion of the record that the present legislature will make for itself, declared the governor.

"Any statement printed to the effect that I am displeased with the work of this legislature is unwarranted," said the governor. "I have at no time given out any such statement. I believe that the record this legislature will establish will generally please the people of the state," he added.

The governor also expressed his approval of the manner in which the anti-lobby law has operated since going into effect. He said that he felt that the only persons who were displeased with it were a few lawyers representing corporations and who were forced to register.

He asserted that he would urge no matters of legislation at this time to the law making body, as he felt that the leaders there were capable of handling the important measures that have endorsement of the administration.

TOUGH DANCE GETS A BLOW

New Bill Bars Suggestive Language on Stage or in Audience.

LEGISLATURE IS AT WORK AGAIN

House Gets Big Start Over Senate by Mornng Session

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—Indecent dances in any public gathering place, and the use of obscene or suggestive language either on the stage or in the audience would be made a misdemeanor in Indiana if the bill which Representative Mendenhall, of Hendricks county, introduced in the lower house today is enacted into law.

Twelve other measures were presented, including the Griffith "land bank" bill, while five bills were passed and ordered sent to the senate. The senate was not in session this morning, this body having adjourned Saturday until this afternoon.

The Cleary bill, providing for the preservation of used and unused ballots, and the destruction of blue pencils immediately upon the close of polls at primary and general elections, was the most important of the measures passed. The Strange bill to simplify elections by provisions for voting a straight party ticket as is now done and also for candidates of other parties, without invalidating the ballot, was the only measure killed.

The Dance Bill.

The person promoting an exhibition at which a lewd dance is on the program would upon conviction be fined from $10 to $250 and the amusement license, which he holds would be revoked by the provisions of the Mendenhall bill, which also makes provision for prosecution of individuals giving the dance and those offending against common decency by use of obscene or suggestive language. The bill was referred to the public morals committee.

Some Other Bills.

Other bills presented provide for two or more persons incorporating railway employes insurance companies and to indemnify individuals up to $1,000 for loss of position; to permit members of fire departments, when in uniform, to ride on street cars free; to compel operation of cars over the Fort Wayne

THREE MORE COME IN AND CONFESS GUILT

New Trio in Terre Haute Mess Change Pleas to Guilty.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—Three more names were added today to the list of those pleading guilty to the federal indictment charging conspiracy to corrupt the election of November 3, 1913 in Terre Haute.

Thomas Brady and Jack Stingley appeared before Judge A. B. Anderson and changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty, and Harry Hickman, who was indicted December 24, 1914, but has evaded arrest until yesterday when he was taken in custody at Mecca, Ind., was the third to plead guilty.

This makes a total of 87 who have pleaded guilty and 29 not guilty.

The five republicans arrested on a separate indictment on February 10 will be arraigned on February 25. The trial of the twenty-nine, including Mayor Donn M. Roberts, and other city and county officials is set for March 8.

LAST MINUTE NEWS.

TEN BILLION DOLLARS EXPENSES OF ALLIES

London, Feb. 15.—In a statement explanatory of the arrangement made at the recent conference between the finance ministers of France and Russia and himself in Paris, David Lloyd George told the house of commons this afternoon that the expenditures of the allies of the war would be two billion pounds sterling, ten billion dollars, of which Great Britain was spending more money than were her two allies. The present war, Mr Lloyd-George said was the most expensive in material, men and money that had ever been waged

VIOLENT EXCHANGE OF CANNON FIRE

French Troops Use Skis in Attack on Germans on Mountain Side.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

German troops are advancing rapidly everywhere in East Prussia, the Berlin war office says in its statement today. In northern Poland also considerable gains are reported.

Petrograd military commentators assert that Russia will gain an advantage in falling back to her own territory by depriving Germany of the use of the railroads which she employed effectively in transporting troops along the front when the fighting was on German soil.

In French Lorraine the Germans achieved a local victory, occupying positions which the allies were able to recover only in part by a counter attack. Trench warfare continues with varying degrees of intensity elsewhere along the front and both the French and German war offices, in today's communications, claim small victories.

Berlin, Feb. 15.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—Winning of trenches by the Germans south of Ypres and near Sudelkopf are reported in the German official statement today. Several dozen prisoners were captured in the fighting near La Basse. In East Prussia, the Germans occupied Hiktupoenen, after driving out the enemy.

"German troops are advancing rapidly everywhere," says the statement.

Besides a number of prisoners, six guns were captured in the Vistula district, but in Poland there were no important changes.

8:00 p. m.—Sermon by Dr. Lyon on "The Christian Soldier."

With only a few days remaining of the greatest religious campaign in the history of Fort Wayne, Dr. Lyon Sunday night in speaking to the Christians who remained for an after meeting, urged them to do their best work during the final week. Great results are anticipated. Christians were asked to take rear seats in the tabernacle that the sinner and unbeliever might have the best seats in the house.

There was a total of 127 decisions Sunday, twenty-two in the morning; forty-three in the afternoon and 127 in the evening. Dr. Lyon was greatly pleased with the day's work and is striving hard to bring the grand total up to the 5,000 mark. To accomplish this a total of 1,063 persons must take the stand during the next seven days.

"I repeat that I would be willing to drop dead on this platform if I could bring every unsaved soul in Fort Wayne to Christ," he declared. "Some of the most wicked men in this city have come out. There was a 'boozer' who took the stand the other night and I am told a saloonkeeper praised him for it and told him he had done the right thing. Tell that saloonkeeper I would like to grasp his hand."

Pupils Are Ridiculed.

"It pains my heart to hear of two or three teachers who have actually ridiculed pupils who have taken the stand for Christ," the evangelist exclaimed. "Such teachers are not fit to teach a sick cat. If I find that thing happens again, so help me God, I'll call out the names of those teachers from this platform."

Preliminary to the sermon Rev. D. H. Guild, pastor of the First M. E. church, made a plea for a liberal offering next Sunday, which will go to the evangelist. Rev. Guild explained that Dr. Lyon came to Fort Wayne without a guarantee and assumed half of the salaries of his helpers.

"I am sure every one who has come under the influence of this meeting will agree that Dr. Lyon should be well remunerated for his services," he said. "We pastors feel that the work he has done will last for years to come."

Overflow Meeting.

Hundreds were turned away from the tabernacle Sunday evening and it was necessary to hold an overflow meeting at the First Baptist church, which was presided over by Rev. H. H. Pitzer, assisted by Messrs. Upson and Sutton, who furnished the music. There was an attendance of about 400, which did not near represent the great number who could not gain admittance to the tabernacle.

There were a great many who went to the tabernacle early Sunday morning and remained throughout the entire day, taking their dinners and suppers with them.

The Unanswerable Question.

Dr. Lyon spoke Sunday evening on the subject of "The Unanswerable Question."

"I have a question that I cannot answer," he said. "It is a question you cannot answer. It is a question no soul on this earth nor the angels in heaven could answer. It is found in the words of our text, from Hebrews, 'How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?' A German rationalist lately gave as the fruit of his investigation for forty years of the Christian religion, not from the spiritual, but from the rational standpoint, that there was more evidence to substantiate the facts of the birth, the teachings, the works, the death and [illegible]

SOME FLASHES FROM DR. LYON'S SERMONS

* * *

If the devil can't get a man any other way he packs him over with engagements.

* * *

If you are saved it will not be through force, but it will be through willingness.

* * *

You've got to come down off your high perch.

* * *

* * *

Isn't it strange you must be urged to do the thing you know you ought to do?

Your sins are not so much sins of commission as the sins of omission.

Gold is so cheap in heaven that they even pave the streets with it.

You don't need to antagonize the gospel of Jesus Christ to be lost; all you need to do is to neglect salvation.

Why don't you apply the same common sense to religion as you do to business?

FIREWORKS BALLOONS; NOT HOSTILE AIRMEN

But Canadians Refuse to Accept Explanation as Cause of Panic

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Young men, living in Morristown, on the American side of the international line, opposite Brockville, said today that shortly after 9 o'clock last night they sent up three fireworks balloons, each of which exploded high in the air above Brockville.

Ottawa, Ont., Canada., Feb. 15.—Reports today from Morristown were to the effect that it was believed there that these balloons were mistaken for aeroplanes by persons living across the line in Canada.

Residents of Brockville refuse to accept the statements made by young men of Morristown, N. Y., that balloons sent up by them last night were responsible for the report that aeroplanes had crossed the border at that point and were headed toward Ottawa. The Canadian press today received dispatches to the effect that responsible residents claimed they saw the aeroplanes cross the St. Lawrence from the United States last night and that they also saw them homeward bound at 1:30 a. m. today. The incident, it was said by the Dominion police, would be reported to the state department at Washington.

The chief of police of Ogdensburg, N. Y., twelve miles down the St. Lawrence from Brockville, had heard nothing of the passage of the aeroplanes over Brockville, or of excitement incident thereto. He said, however, that on Friday last a farmer living five miles from Ogdensburg had reported the passage of an aeroplane over his farm traveling in the direction of the Canadian border.

After receiving the report last night Premier Borden notified Col. A. P. Sherwood, commissioner of the dominion police. The lights around the parliament building, the royal mint and the residence of the governor-general were immediately ordered extinguished. This was the first time in its history that the mint has been darkened. Sharp-

Senate Orders Probe of Ship Bill Fight

Washington, Feb. 15.—Investigation of all charges of influence at work for and against the administration ship bill was ordered today by the senate.

Administration democrats and filibustering republicans voted for an investigation of the charges of lobbying by the so-called shipping trust and to inquire into any negotiations by administration officials to buy belligerent ships.

Vice President Marshall at once appointed Senators Walsh, Simmons, Reed, Burton and Weeks, three democrats and two republicans, to make the inquiry.

There are only fifteen working days left to the sixty-third congress. Some members were of the opinion that such an investigation [illegible] before March 4 and practically assured an extra session, if the president adhered to his determination to press the measure.

Talk of an extra session of congress was uppermost at the capital today, even overshadowing the administration ship bill. It seemed to be agreed on all sides that the developments of this week will decide. While the house democrats worked earnestly to clear the way for the caucus approval of the compromise ship bill tonight the senate waited and discussed processes for limiting debate. It seemed probable that a senate rule for speedy consideration of the compromise as it comes from the house [illegible]

CHRISTIANS URGED TO TAKE REAR SEATS

Many people have room for business, society, politics and other things, but no room for the Christian life, he said.

"If you are going to rise religiously you've got to put forth the proper effort," he continued. "If some business men didn't pay any more attention to their business than they do to religion they would be bankrupt within thirty days. Why don't you apply the same common sense to religion as you do to business. You don't need to antagonize the gospel of Jesus Christ to be lost, all you need to do is to neglect salvation."

He said that salvation is for rich and poor; old and young; wise and ignorant; good and evil.

"Some of you people who are striving for gold will find when you get over to heaven that gold is so cheap that they even pave the streets with it," he declared.

At this point in the sermon Dr. Lyon stopped suddenly and exclaimed: "Don't let anyone go up and down these aisles and disturb this service for souls are at stake tonight."

Tells of Sister's Death.

Dr. Lyon told the following story of the death of his sister, which brought tears to many eyes:

"I tell this with reluctance, but it may help to bring some soul to Christ. While I was a growing boy at home, and not a Christian, my sister, three years older than myself, used to ask me to go to services with her. One Sunday evening she came in and said, 'Won't you go to church with me tonight?' I said, 'No, I won't go to church.' She replied, 'All right, Milford, I have asked you several times lately to go with me to different places, but you have refused; I'll never ask you to go again.' God knows the dear girl never did. Ten days later she was stricken with pneumonia and that dear soul went out. Many a time since that I have stood by that hillside grave and wept bitter tears."

Dr. Zartman Refused Admittance.

During the services Dr. Parley E. Zartman, extension secretary of the organization of evangelists, was refused admittance. "Let that fellow in," shouted Dr. Lyon stopping suddenly in his sermon. "He's a friend of mine." Dr. Zartman went around to the rear door and took a seat on the platform.

During the song service [illegible] sang as special numbers: "Wonderful for Our Transgressions" and "All Hail Immanuel."

"I wish I could take this choir with me to the next stand," Mr. Jones told the members of the chorus at the close of the song service. One of the features of the song service was Mr. Jones' manipulation of his traps and drums.

Delegations of Business Men.

The business men of the city will meet at the court house Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock and will march to the tabernacle in a body, where seats will be reserved for them. If it is raining the court house will be opened for them and they can stand in the lobby. The business men are asked to meet at the north entrance to the court house.

A meeting will be held at the Bowser plant Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 2 o'clock on the time of the institution, at full pay for the men.

Sunday Afternoon.

At the meeting Sunday afternoon Rev. A. K. Zartman announced the names of the members of the committee which will have charge of the offering that will be taken next Sunday for Dr. Lyon. The committee is composed of the following: S. F. Bowser, chairman; A. H. Perfect, E. A. K. Hackett, Dr. S. H. Havice, J. O. Brown, William Lewis, L. H. Moore, J. M. McKay, C. H. Werden, E. F. Yarnelle, Morton S. Willson, William N. Salliz, Dr. William Easton, George Shiller, M. Williams, A. G. Burry, Dr. G. S. Bliss, H. E. Noble, J. W. Brewer, W. N. Bechtold and the ministers.

Rev. Zartman said that for the last three years the Ministerial association had been looking around for an evangelist to conduct a campaign in Fort Wayne. The association wanted to make no mistake and did not act hastily. Finally, he declared, a man was found who had the courage to come to Fort Wayne.

The minister declared that on Saturday night about 11 o'clock he saw an intoxicated man on the street. The fellow was mumbling to himself the word tabernacle over and over. He said he heard another man say that "if this thing continues much longer all saloons in Fort Wayne will have to go to hell."

The evangelist was praised for the great work he has been doing in Fort Wayne. He said Dr. Lyon had been working hard, as well as every member of his party, and is deserving of a liberal offering.

"We will never be able to repay Dr. Lyon and the members of his party for the work they have done in Fort Wayne," Rev. Zartman said in closing.

Story of a Business Man.

Dr. Lyon told the story of a business man's conversion Sunday afternoon, closing with a number of touching incidents that brought tears to the eyes of the majority of those in the audience. The evangelist took his text from the nineteenth chapter of Luke, the ninth and tenth verses: "And Jesus said unto him, this day is salvation come to this house for so much as he also is a son of Abraham.

"For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Conversion of Zacchaeus.

The speaker told of the great conversion of Zacchaeus, the business man. He was a busy man, but yet he had time to throw himself in the way of Christ and receive the great blessing which the Heavenly Father alone can give.

"I would rather have ten minutes of the busy man's time than a week's time of a lazy, listless man," the evangelist declared. "Sooner than you expect the cold, clammy hand of death will be laid on your shoulder and take you from your office, store or home." He told of one little girl saying: "Papa couldn't go to heaven for he couldn't leave the store long enough."

The evangelist declared it was a great thing when one realized his massive littleness. "You have got to come down off of your high perch," he said. "If you are saved it will not be through force but it will be through willingness."

It was a wonderfully convincing sermon and resulted in many going forward after the invitation was given.

"You folks who are sitting in front of me don't do a thing," the evangelist shouted while he was pleading for converts. "You don't ever cheer. Do something or hit the trail. What does it mean to you to be a Christian to stand there and soak up like a sponge?"

A wonderful testimony was given by a traveling man.

"I used to carry a whisky bottle around in my pocket the day before I would smoke from fifteen to twenty cigars a day," he said. "Since becoming a Christian I have no desire for these things. I have found there is a lot I can do."

Song Service.

Mr. Jones called two little girls and a little boy to the platform to sing alone. They were Evelyn Miller, 7 years old, daughter of Cyrus Miller, residing on rural route 9 out of Fort Wayne; Christina Moore, 5 years old, daughter of Olie Moore, residing at 231 East Woodland avenue, and Frederick Werremeyer, 8 years old, son of Prof. Daniel Werremeyer, 315 Federal place. Messrs. Sutton and Upson sang a duet, and Mr. Jones, in memory of the late Fanny Crosby, the blind song writer who died last week, sang "I Shall Know Him." Prayer was offered by Rev. Edward Montgomery.

Sunday Morning.

Dr. Lyon delivered one of the greatest sermons of the campaign Sunday morning at the union mass meeting at the tabernacle. He spoke on the subject, "The Deity of Christ." It was regarded by many as his masterpiece. The evangelist was to have delivered this sermon earlier in the campaign, but for some reason did not have the opportunity. It will be found in full in another part of The Sentinel. There were twenty-two decisions at this service.

Saturday Evening.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather there was another large attendance at the tabernacle Saturday night. Thirty-seven responded to the invitation.

Dr. Lyon delivered a short sermon on "Demas, the Deserter." He declared that the next ten years would decide whether America is to continue on the path of education, with its industries and culture, or fall by the wayside like all the great nations of the past.

The evangelist told the story of Demas' desertion of Paul, which was caused by his spiritual short-sightedness. Those living in cities are in great danger, he said. Too many people have a formal religion, a sort of a superficial one. They go to church on Sunday, go through a certain form of worship and expect that to last them during the remainder of the week.

"Why, friends, some care more for the things of the world than for Jesus Christ," he continued. "For instance, the girl the other night who said if she had to choose between the dance and Jesus Christ, she would take the dance."

The speaker said that in another city where he was conducting a series of meetings several society people warned him that if he didn't stop speaking so plainly they would see that he did not get much money.

"When it comes to choosing between what I am to get and the good I can do, you can take your money and go plumb to Cincinnati with it before I will stop saying what I think is right."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS, TAKE CASCARETS

No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Cold or Constipation by Morning.

Geat a 10-cent box now.

Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good gentle cleansing, too.—Adv.

KEEP URIC AICD OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Adv.

Decatur, Ind., Feb. 15.—A letter received by Charles S. Niblick, president of the Old Adams county bank, brought the first news of the tragic death of M. A. Jackson, a former resident of Decatur, at Lockwood, Cal., on Feb. 6. Death was by accident, but no details have been received here. Mr. Jackson resided in Decatur for many years. He was a son of the late Peter Jackson, and when here was one of the best known men in the city. At one time he was employed in the Decatur municipal plant. Some years ago he went to California and located in the vicinity of Lockwood, where he engaged in ranching, and the raising of fine horses. In this business he is said to have been very successful, and to have amassed a considerable fortune.

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 15.—Mrs. Lavina Scott, widow of the late George Scott, of Lagro township, expired at her home five miles east of this city on the Dora pike, after suffering for the past several weeks with cancer of the stomach and a complication of diseases. Mrs. Scott submitted to the knife several weeks ago and it was thought for some time that she would recover. A complication developed, however, and the woman became immediately worse, growing weaker and weaker until death relieved her suffering. The deceased was born near the place of her death, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fall, 60 years ago.

OBITUARY.

Alexander Stanger was born in this city July 10, 1866. At the customary time he was baptized by Rev. Bowmann, of St. John's Lutheran church. He spent his boyhood days in and around Fort Wayne and after receiving the regular catechetical instruction was confirmed, when 17 years of age, by Rev. Dreyer, of Zion's Lutheran church, April 20, 1884. He learned the trade of masonry, and while at this occupation he is believed to have received the injury which brought on his demise. Four years ago he was hurt while helping in the erection of the James Smart school building. From that time on he had been ailing. Four weeks before his death he took pneumonia, and though he seemed at one time to recover, yet on last Thursday afternoon he suffered a relapse and passed quickly away Thursday evening, February 4, at 6 o'clock, just as the bells were ringing, to stand before his Creator and his Maker, at the age of 48 years, 6 months and 24 days, leaving to mourn him his mother, four sisters, four brothers and relatives. He was laid away in St. John's cemetery on Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. P. Meyer officiating.

A loved one from our home has gone,
The brother's voice now is stilled.
A chair is vacant in our home

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and straggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.—Adv.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Luke 8:40-52.

40 And it came to pass, that, when Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him.

41 And, behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue; and he fell down at Jesus' fee, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying. But as he went the people thronged him.

43 And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neithercould be healed of any,

45 And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me.

47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace.

49 While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept, and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth.

The Legislature's Progress.

With less than four weeks of the present legislative session remaining, it is apparent that a good deal more speed than has yet been shown will have to be developed if the legislative calendar is to be cleared and if serious and intelligent consideration is to be given to measures already awaiting attention. Desks are now piled so high that there is small show for the passage of any bills that may be introduced hereafter.

In the two houses there has been a total of 789 bills introduced since the session began, and of this vast volume but five have been passed and sent to the governor for his signature. The Davis anti-lobby measure holds first place in popular interest among this number. The senate has passed 71 measures, while the house has sent up but 53 bills for the concurrence of the senate. Considerably more than half the grand total of bills still remains in the hands of committees to which they were referred, and upon the slowness with which the committees are reporting is placed blame for delay. Among those still hanging in the balance are those regarding direct primary, registration, workmen's compensation, legislative apportionment, proposed amendments to the constitution and others of like importance. Nothing but speed and continuous attention to business will enable the legislature to complete its task within the constitutional limit of time yet remaining.

Rev. Dr. Milford H. Lyon and his party of evangelistic workers have launched into the seventh and final week of the remarkable union evangelistic campaign in Fort Wayne, and the uniformly large audiences and the widespread interest show how deeply Fort Wayne has been stirred religiously by the tabernacle services. Rev. Dr. Lyon is at the head of a wonderful organization, but more than that the evangelist's individual efforts in Fort Wayne have shown him to be a preacher of unusual power and force, a student, a thinker, a logician and a pulpit orator of marked versatility and resourcefulness. He hits hard, and behind every blow is all the force and earnestness of a soul that has been militantly consecrated to the exalted work in which it is engaged.

Senator Adams charges that in voting to kill the bill of Senator Ballou, of Lagrange, reducing the salary and number of deputy game wardens some of the democrats in the Indiana legislature were merely performing in accordance with orders received from "higher up." The public is indulging in the hope that Senator Adams will be a little more specific. Just who "higher up" is giving orders to Indiana legislators nowadays?

Happily the rivers have begun to recede without touching the top notch in Fort Wayne, but another time the streams may not be so considerate. And a stage of 16.8 feet is ample to emphasize the fact that flood prevention is still a very live issue, however much we may have been lulled into fancied security.

Predictions are freely made in some quarters that Governor Ralston has a bludgeon in pickle for that racing commission bill legalizing betting in Indiana if it ever reaches his desk for signature. Once in awhile it is still possible to find a good guesser. Let us hope; let us hope.

GETTING THE HABIT.

(New York Press.)

"Buy It Now" doesn't mean buy it next month or next spring or next summer. It means buy at once, and get the benefits in better business next month, next spring and next summer. It needs no argument to demonstrate that the country loses a vast amount of wealth by failing to produce it. The man who is idle consumes, but does not produce; consumes less than he otherwise would, but yet consumes. If his labor is worth $2 a day he adds $2 a day to the wealth of the community every day he works, and as employment and necessary, natural, proper condition of the working community it is apparent that every day of extensive unemployment means a vast loss in wealth, a loss which must be met by drawing upon existing stores.

If there are 5,000,000 unemployed workers in the country whose potential daily contribution of wealth is only $1.25 a day it means more than $6,000,000 a day sacrificed by reason of their idleness.

The point about "Buy It Now" is that employment is the most contagious thing in the world—except perhaps unemployment. Set a man at work laying brick, and he sets another man at work manufacturing and another transporting them. These set others at work producing the things they consume; and the endless chain is immediately pulling with ever-increasing power for prosperity.

Nobody doubts that times are going to be better, that new stocks of goods will be demanded, new buildings occupied, more materials required. It is just a question whether we shall wait a year for things to improve themselves or shall go to work now and improve them on the spot. There is only one answer. Prosperity would be here a week after everybody agreed that it was here.

Buy it now! Do it now! Build it now! Hire him now!

MOTOR CARS AND COST OF LIVING.

(Toledo Blade.)

It is estimated that 80,000,000 acres of farmland are devoted exclusively to raising feed for horses and mules. Though population is increasing, though more and more land is put to use, these 80,000,000 acres may prove the high mark for that particular purpose.

Many things have tended to keep up the demand for horseflesh throughout a period in which substitutes for horseflesh, the automobile and the auto-truck, have been in course of development. But there must come a point where the demand begins to decrease. For horse and mule traction cannot long maintain itself against motor traction. The competition is too strong. Invention is too ingenious and too determined and too successful. The automobile is supplanting horses in a thousand places for light and rapid transportation. The auto-truck, less rapidly, but no less surely, is being applied to the heavier transport of industry. It is inevitable that most of the carrying and hauling for which horses and mules are now depended upon, will some day and not far distant, be performed by engine-driven vehicles.

As the competition begins to make itself felt in the horse and mule markets, there will be less breeding of these animals. In turn, there will be less raising of feed for them. But the acres will not lie idle. They will be put to raising food for human beings. Thus the automobile and the auto-truck will play no small part in solving the cost of living.

Thomas Greer has resigned his position in the county treasurer's office to take effect tomorrow. He will be succeeded by Christian Piepenbrink.

The invitations and bill of fare for the grand opening of the C. L. Centlivre new brewery Thursday afternoon were without doubt the most elaborate cards for that purpose ever issued by a Fort Wayne concern. It is said that $500 was spent on this feature alone.

COMMENT IS BIT CAUSTIC

German Press Continues to Discuss Recent American Notes.

MONTAG ZEITUNG RATHER DEFIANT

Belittles Army and Calls American Threats Ridiculous.

Amsterdam, Feb. 15.—The Montag Zeitung of Berlin, according to a dispatch reaching here from the German capital, in an article referring to the stand of the United States asks what harm America can do to Germany.

"She has no army," this paper says, "and her fleet would not dare to approach nearer our shores than does the English. The expulsion of Germans from America would mean her ruin. America's threats are simply ridiculous and it is more than ridiculous for us to take them in earnest."

This paper says it is the intention of Emperor William to be at Cuxhaven, on the North sea, on the 18th of February.

COMMENT IN BERLIN.

Berlin, Feb. 15.—The newspapers of Berlin continue commenting today upon the recent diplomatic exchanges by the United States and Great Britain and Germany concerning the protection of American shipping on the coast of the British isles. Generally they characterize the American note to Great Britain as too mild when compared with the note to Germany, but they make use of this note to support their contention that Great Britain is to blame for the situation. The Kreuz Zeitung says:

"The American note properly takes the British government to task for the contemptuous misuse of the American flag, a course which menaces the safety of neutral shipping. Therefore it is more difficult to understand what the American government wants of us. The German people will not be able to forget the questions addressed to us or the form of their asking. Our position has not changed in the slightest degree since February 4. The United States has two ways to protect herself from harm. The first is to stop Great Britain's misuse of the American flag and the second is to keep her ships and people and contraband of war out of the war zone. If she adopts this method she will not only avoid harm, but bring a quick end to the war."

The Lokal Anzeiger says: "It is evident that the United States is pressing the matter with the same forcibleness in London as in Berlin. The British have now been told fairly and squarely that the entire responsibility is upon them if American lives or property are sacrificed through misuse of the flag. There is no difference in the tone of the two notes."

On the other hand, the Morgen Post has a different opinion and calls the American note to Great Britain notably different from the German "in its soft and flute-like tone."

The Tages Zeitung says that the United States in its note to Great Britain with "helpful care" leaves England a "convenient door of escape." This paper says it does not understand why neutral powers will not see they are sawing off the branch on which they sit when they do not protest with all the means at their disposal at this disgrace of neutrality which foreshadows their destruction.

"Why do not the neutrals, with the United States at their head, demand of all the warring parties that they follow the London declaration in all its particulars. In that event the British North sea blockade would become inoperative; the contraband question would be controlled internationally and the course of action Germany intends to pursue after February 18 would no longer be necessary. "The United States should take this step," the Tages Zeitung says in conclusion, "for the reason that the expressed purpose of the declaration of London is the protection of the rights of neutrals."

Herb Tellev, of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Chicago this morning to see his aunt, Mrs. E. J. Burns, who is said to be dangerously sick. The patient was formerly a resident of Fort Wayne, going to Chicago a dozen or more years ago when her husband became the manager of the Ogden Gas company.

BULLETS FALL VERY NEAR KING NICHOLAS

Cettinje, Montenegro, Feb. 15.—The members of the royal family of Montenegro were subjected yesterday in their residence at Rieka to machine gun fire from two Austrian aeroplanes. Rieka is a village near Lake Scutari, where the royal family passes the winter. King Nicholas, the queen and the princesses watched the aerial raiders from their palace windows. Several of the bullets fired from the aeroplanes fell near them.

The Austrian fleet on Sunday morning made a sortie from the gulf of Cattaro and commenced the bombardment of the port of Antivari, Montenegro.

INVITES GERARD TO FRONT

German Emperor Would Discuss Note With American Ambassador.

Berlin (via London), Feb. 15.—Emperor William, it is reported, has summoned James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, to visit him at eastern war headquarters for a conference concerning the American note warning Germany to have regard for the safety of lives and ships at sea. The note was the outgrowth of the recent German declaration that waters about Great Britain, after February 18, would be within the zone of war.

It is regarded as probable that Mr. Gerard, with the consent of the American government, will accept the invitation.

The American ambassador has had a conference with Herr VonJagow, the German minister of foreign affairs, at the request of the latter. Nothing has been made public regarding the conference, but it is learned that the foreign office is now preparing an answer to the American note and the idea is entertained in certain quarters that Germany may suggest that the United States send an American warship to convoy American merchantmen through the danger zone, thus guaranteeing the neutrality of the vessels.

NOW PUTS IT UP TO BRITON

Not Reply to American Note.

It was stated that the note received by the ambassador today from his foreign office and promptly carried by him personally to the state department was not a reply to the recent note to Germany in regard to the war zone decree. A more comprehensive and detailed reply to that communication is expected soon, although it was not known officially here when it might be looked for.

Today's note from Germany, it was pointed out, constitutes a sort of intermediary reply, possibly presented to this government because of the fact that the date when the war zone decree goes into effect, February 18, is so close at hand.

If the Evidence of the Deity of Christ Was Strong Enough To Convince Thomas, It Ought to Be Strong Enough to Convince You, Declares Dr. Lyon.

THE DEITY OF CHRIST.

John 20:28—"And Thomas answered and said unto Him, My Lord and my God."

In His company of apostles, Jesus chose every type and phase of human character. There was the intense, impetuous Peter; the precise, austere James; the matter-of-fact Andrew; the earnest, loving John; the business man, Matthew; the zealous Simon; and also the skeptic Thomas. Now I would not imply that Thomas represents the highest type of character, but I do hold that Thomas represents a very frequently found type. Wherever he is spoken of in the Scripture, it is with some expression of pessimism or doubt. When Jesus broke the news to His disciples of the death of Lazarus, Thomas exclaimed, "Let us go and die with him." And then as recorded in the fourteenth chapter of John, Jesus declared, "Whither I go ye know, and the way ye know." Thomas speaks forth and says, "Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?" Those three words, "We know not," give us the key to the character of Thomas.

Later when Mary came from the empty tomb and declared that Jesus had arisen from the dead, Thomas doubted. He remained away from the meeting when Jesus appeared to the disciples, and when they told him they had seen the Lord, he still protested and said, "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe." Let us note now the kindness of Jesus for the doubter. Eight days later when Thomas met with the other disciples, Jesus appeared in their midst and said to the doubter, "Reach hither thy finger and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing." Then Thomas exclaimed, in the words of our text, "My Lord and my God."

I wish this morning to organize this audience into a jury and to present to you some lines of evidences regarding the deity of Jesus Christ. The first line of testimony I would present is from prophecy. There are more than three hundred prophecies in old testament Scripture relating to the coming Messiah, and these prophecies have been centered and fulfilled in Jesus. It was foretold by Abraham of what race Christ should come, and by Jacob from what tribe. The Messiah was not to be of the lineage of the first born son Reuben, nor from the youngest son Benjamin, nor from the favorite son Joseph, but from the tribe of Judah. It was prophesied by Isaiah from what family the Christ should spring, that He was to be from the stock of Jesse. It was foretold by Micah in what city the Christ was to be born, that it was to be in Bethlehem, and it was predicted by Daniel when the Christ was to come.

You, as students of history, know of the four great world empires which followed in succession, Babylonia, Persia, Macedonia and Rome. Daniel likens these to four beasts. In speaking of the fourth beast he calls it the fourth kingdom upon the earth, and then proceeds to describe another kingdom which would arise. The kingdom of the Most High, is an everlasting kingdom. This is the kingdom of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Our second line of evidence we would draw from the teachings of Christ. His recorded utterances occupy but a small volume. They can be read almost at a single sitting, and yet they are the quintessence of truth. Thousands of books have been written with these words as their theme, and yet their wisdom has never been exhausted. There is something in these sayings of Jesus simple enough to interest the youngest child, and something profound enough to attract and satisfy the wisest sage. No one has ever scaled their highest heights, or sounded their lowest depths. These teachings were true and applicable to the first century; they are just as true and applicable to the twentieth century. In His utterances Jesus made certain definite claims.

First of all, He claimed pre-existence. He said, "Before Abraham was, I am"; and again, "What and if ye should see the Son of man ascending where He was before"; and later in that prayer, as recorded in the seventeenth chapter of John's gospel, Jesus exclaimed, "Glorify thou Me, oh Father, with the glory I had with Thee before the world was." This fact of His pre-existence marks a distinct contrast between Jesus and every other life which ever trod this earth. Someone has well said, "Be careful about your definitions." Note the distinct difference between the divinity of Christ and the deity of Christ. There are many who will acknowledge that Christ was divine. They say He was a Son of God, but in the next breath they will add: "So are we all sons of God. That is, Jesus was only one among many."

But His sonship was a difference not only in degree, but in kind. His pre-existence really separated Him from all others. You could not imagine any of the greatest men of history claiming pre-existence. Imagine a Julius Caesar, or a Napoleon, or an Alexander the Great, or a Bismarck, or a Gladstone, or a Washington offering a prayer like that, "Glorify Thou Me, oh Father, with the glory I had with Thee before the world was." What with others would seem the rankest absurdity and incongruity, appears perfectly natural and right with Jesus. Well does the apostle John begin his gospel with the statement, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was God, the same was in the beginning with God, and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld Him, the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."

The next fact that separates Jesus from all others who ever trod this earth, is His sinlessness. He said, "Which one of you convinceth Me of sin?" Other men have spoken great truths, but their lives and their words did not correspond. Rousseau, for example, gave many excellent suggestions regarding the training of children, and yet he himself put his children in an orphan asylum and never went to see them. But with Jesus, His words and works were the natural outflow of His life. If He had said He was a sinner, He would have falsified, and then He would have been a sinner. Moreover Jesus claimed omnipotence. He said, "All power is given to Me in heaven and on earth." He declared He could bring to His aid, if He desired, twelve legions of angels.

Someone says, "But what difference does it make who Jesus was, as long as He spoke great truths and performed wonderful miracles?" Now, let us see about that. A few years ago an explorer returned from the Arctic regions declaring that he had discovered the north pole. When he arrived in Denmark the people accorded him great honors, and when he reached New York he was greeted with great enthusiasm. Afterwards he stated that it was a matter of doubt whether he discovered the north pole or not. Supposing a man would come to this city claiming to be the crown prince of Germany, and the German-American citizens would receive him most hospitably and give him a royal welcome and a great banquet in his honor. This man might utter many great truths, but supposing after he left the city they would find that he was the son of a blacksmith down in southern Missouri. How long could he hold the confidence and the admiration of the people? Do you not see that it is impossible to separate the personality of the man himself from his words and deeds?

Now, either these claims are true, or else they are false. If they are true, then Jesus was no mere man. He was indeed and in truth very God of very God. But if He is not what He claimed to be then He was one of the worst humbugs and impostors the world has ever seen. Between these two positions there is no neutral ground.

Note furthermore, that Jesus claimed unity with the Father. He said, "I and My Father are one." Philip had uttered a universal longing of human hearts when he exclaimed, "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us." We can detect a tinge of sadness and surprise in the answer of Jesus, "Have I been so long with you and hast thou not known Me, Philip?" "He that has seen Me hath seen the Father." Could you imagine Shakespeare, or Bacon, or Victor Hugo, or Emmerson, or any other person who ever lived, say, "He that has seen Me has seen God Himself"? The thought would be so unreasonable as to be ridiculous. Yet with Jesus it appears perfectly natural and right. If you hold to the hypothesis that Jesus was merely a man, by that you are not going to satisfy the demands of reason, for you will find yourself confronted with a hundred difficulties and problems, where you would meet but one in accepting Jesus, according to His own claims and terms.

The next line of evidence of the deity of Christ which we would bring is from his works. Every great miracle which Jesus performed in the material world has a spiritual significance and also a beneficent purpose. Each act is a type of some great work of grace which He performs in the inner life. For example, as He stilled the tempest on the sea, so Jesus calms the storm of the human heart. As He fed the hungry with the loaves and fishes, so also He gives to men the bread of life. Each act of physical healing is a clear type of some form of spiritual disease, which illustrates how He heals the maladies of the soul. There are three instances recorded where Christ raised the dead to life. The first was the daughter of Jairus, the second was the son of the widow at Nain, and the third was Lazarus. In the first instance the breath had just left the body. This was typical of those who have only begun the life of sin. In the second instance they had already started to the cemetery when Jesus met them, laid His hand on the coffin and said, "Young man, I say unto thee, arise." This is the type of those who have started and proceeded some way on the downward career. In the third case, that of Lazarus, the body had been dead and in the grave four days. This is an example of those who have been dead in trespasses and sins. Jesus healed and raised them all.

Now, we come to the greatest miracle of Jesus, His own resurrection. Paul throws down the challenge and is content to rest the claims of Christ's deity upon this one fact. He makes a belief in the resurrection the basis of true Christian faith. Said he, "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord, and believe in thine heart that God has raised from the dead, thou shalt be saved." No matter what other great works Jesus wrought, if He remained in that tomb in Joseph's garden, and did not come forth from the dead, then He was not in the completest sense what He claimed to be.

There is no fact of history capable of such abundant proof as the resurrection of Jesus Christ. There is not a weak link in the chain of evidence. You can call to the witness stand, if you please, His enemies. Every lawyer will admit that the strongest evidence that can be obtained in any case is that which he can elicit from the witnesses called by the opposition. You will remember that the chief priest, after the death of Jesus, went to the Roman governor and said to him, "This deceiver said when He was alive that after three days He would arise from the dead. We fear that His disciples will steal away His body while we sleep and then give out the report that He has arisen, and the result will be that the second condition will be worse than the first." In response to this the governor gave orders to seal the tomb of Jesus with the Roman seal, and also that a guard of soldiers should be placed on watch at the tomb. As students of Roman history, you know that for any one to break the Roman seal without authority meant death, and of one thing you may be sure Rome always enforced her laws. A Roman guard consisted of four soldiers, who remained on duty for three hours, then were relieved by another guard who remained on duty four hours. Then the guard had nine hours for rest and sleep before they came on duty again.

You know also that for a Roman soldier to go to sleep at his post meant the punishment of certain death. You might imagine of one soldier going to sleep on duty. You might even imagine of two soldiers going to sleep, or even of three, but to suppose that all four soldiers of the guard would go to sleep at the post under penalty of death, and on duty only three hours, would be to stretch your credulity to the breaking point. Moreover, with the great cataclysm of nature that must have occurred, and the disturbance when that stone was rolled away would awaken any soldier, if this were done by human act. When the stone was rolled away and Jesus had arisen, the soldiers went to the chief priests and told them what had happened, and they gave them money and told them to give out that Christ's disciples stole away His body while they slept. Renan, the French infidel, said the faith of Christianity was centered about an empty tomb. We accept the challenge. Not until the fact of that empty tomb in Joseph's garden has been accounted for has anyone a right to claim to be an unbeliever.

A lawyer, when a crime is committed, always looks in a suspected perpetrator for a sufficient motive. The disciples of Jesus had no motive for stealing away His body. They did not comprehend as clearly as His enemies did, what He meant when He said, "Destroy this temple and in three days I will build it again." No one was nearer to Jesus than Mary Magdalene, and yet she was overcome with surprise when she went down to that tomb that first Easter morning to annoint the body of Jesus, and found the stone rolled away and the grave empty. We are told that Nicodemus and Joseph spent a large sum of money, equal to thousands of dollars in the values of our day, to purchase costly ointments to embalm the body. If they had had the least idea that Jesus was going to come forth from the grave on the third day, they never would have spent that sum, neither would they have wrapped the body in a hundred pounds weight of ointments, for in place of being a help to resurrection, all those wraps and weights would naturally prove a hindrance.

We are told that when the disciples came and inspected the empty tomb they found the grave clothes folded and the napkin which was upon His face folded and laid in a place by itself. Did this look like the work of body snatchers, when right there by the tomb were the Roman soldiers eager to throw a spear through anyone who would dare to molest the dead body?

Let us cite just another proof of resurrection, among many which might be stated. When Jesus was crucified, all His disciples forsook Him and fled. Their hopes were shattered, they were disheartened and discouraged. What power and influence could have been strong enough to have brought together again that band of scattered disciples, and inspire them with a faith and give them strength and courage to go out during the first century to testify for Christ? In the first chapter of his first epistle, the apostle Peter reveals the secret when he says, "There has been begotten in us again a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." You can challenge any skeptic to find any other act or motive strong enough to have accomplished these results. And the central message of their testimony, after the disciples went out during the first century, was to witness to the resurrection of Jesus. Paul declared in the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians that after Jesus arose from the dead He appeared to as many as five hundred people at one time, of whom many were living when Paul recorded this statement.

Two great English lawyers, West and Littleton, were both unbelievers. West said to his friend, "Littleton, if we can destroy the faith of Christians in two beliefs, that of the conversion of Saul of Tarsus, and also the resurrection of Jesus Christ, we can overthrow Christianity. If you will take Saul's conversion and disprove it, I will do the same with the resurrection of Jesus." They agreed. Months afterwards, when they came together, West said, "Littleton, how did you come out?" He replied, "I did not come out at all as I expected to. I thought I could write a treatise on the conversion of Saul, who became the apostle Paul, that would disprove it entirely. I said to myself, 'As I begin this investigation I must disabuse my mind of all prejudice and face the facts as I find them.' I am convinced that Saul was converted on the Damascus road, as it is recorded in the Acts of the Apostles, and moreover I have received Paul's Christ as my Christ. How did you come out?" "It is strange," replied Mr. West, "that our experiences would be so similar. I have devoted much time and thought these months to making a careful investigation of the evidences regarding the resurrection of Jesus. There is not a single weak link in that chain of testimony. Not only am I convinced that Jesus Christ arose from the grave, but also I have received Him as my personal Savior and Lord." These two lawyers wrote their books, which are still extant in English libraries, but in place of being arguments against the deity of Christ and Christian faith they are strong witnesses in its support.

If time would permit, I would like to introduce a line of evidence which is even stronger yet, and that is regarding the life of Jesus. The greatest thing that Christ ever said or what He did was what He was. You cannot classify Him among the great historians and statesmen and philosophers. He is in a class by Himself. He has no second. He is the one universal Man. He is the most ancient of the ancients, and the most modern of the moderns. It is the glory of Jesus that He can be everything to everybody. Paul expressed it well when he said, "It pleases the Father that in all things Jesus should have the pre-eminence."

But the evidence and argument which seemed to me even more convincing than all these was regarding the influence of the words and works, the life and death of Jesus Christ upon the centuries since. Our faith in Christ rests not only upon what He was, but what He is. Eliminate everything from the history of the last twenty centuries that centers in Christ and the cross, and you would have left but a poor, emasculated remnant. Take out of music and art everything that relates to the religion of Christ, and what would remain? Take out of literature all that deals with Christ and Christian faith, and the remainder would be pitiable for its poverty. Well did Lowell say, "Show me a spot on this earth ten miles square where manhood is respected, where womanhood is honored, where civilization is advanced, and I will show you a place where Jesus Christ, the Son of God, has first gone and paved the way." The idea of Jesus Christ being merely a man has never sent its messengers around the world to uplift heathen and savage people. That has been the work of the missionaries, who firmly believed in Jesus as a crucified and a risen Savior.

It was the consideration of this truth that was the means of my own conversion. Although reared in a Christian home, my early life was spent in a community where the predominant influence was Unitarian, and I went away to school to a state university an unbeliever. During the first two years of my college course I doubted and denied the facts of orthodox Christianity. One day during a discussion upon this subject with a Christian friend, he asked me if I would not go with him the next Sunday to the mission Sunday school, and see the power of the gospel of Christ in active operation. I smiled as I replied, "Oh, no, I do not care to go to Sunday school. I gave that up years ago." But when he came around to my room the next Sunday afternoon, he was so courteous and earnest that I was loath to refuse him. On our way out to the mission that afternoon he told me how it happened to be started. It was among the Bohemians on the outskirts of that college town. A young Bohemian, a teacher of natural science in the high school, an infidel, seeing the pitiable condition of his own people and desirous to do something to help them, formed a plan to speak to them on Sunday afternoons on subjects connected with natural science. He talked upon birds and plants and animals, sometimes in English and sometimes in Bohemian, and aroused considerable interest. But before long he had told them everything that he knew upon these subjects that were simple, that they could understand. When he got into more abstract and complex matters they lost interest and the attendance dropped off. Finally he had to close the doors and quit.

It was then that some of the Christian students of the university conceived the plan of starting a Sunday school in that community. It had been running perhaps two years when I visited it. This young man, with whom I went, was the superintendent, and in going about that hour from class to class, and noting the interest and instruction, I plainly saw that those people were being lifted to a higher life. On our way home, this young man said to me, "Well, Lyon, what did you think of it?" I said, "You are doing a good work there; keep it up. Anything that tends to help people I am in favor of." "Well," said he, "I want to ask you a question. What other principle or power is there that will meet these tests of being permanent, vital and effective, that you can take to any individual or any class of people and lift them to a higher life, but the gospel of the crucified and risen Son of God?" "Oh," I replied, "that is all right, but there are many other principles just as good." "Well, what are they?" he asked; "don't answer this hastily. Think over it." I confess I was not willing to answer. I had nothing that I could point to specifically that would take the place of the religion of Christ. I was willing to admit that as a rule where we found football and our wind gave out in the middle of a game. I wanted to "play for time."

For weeks I ransacked the university library, looking up different ethical and philosophical movements. I was seeking to find something which would prove a satisfactory substitute for Christianity. I found a great many enterprises which started out with good prospects and intentions, but they would not meet the first test of being permanent. Also they lacked vitality. They were like the egg which the chemist made. In every particular it seemed just like a hen's egg, and he even put the lining of membrane inside the shell, but when he put it into an incubator along with a hen's egg, the one hatched a chicken, but the other one didn't. I was very much dissatisfied with my investigations. I wanted no more to do with that young man. But as fortune would have it, not long afterward as I was out for a walk after supper I met him. He greeted me cordially and turned around to walk along with me. In a few moments he turned the conversation to our former subject, and he asked, "Well, what have you found that will take the place of the gospel of Christ?" I replied reluctantly, "I have found nothing that satisfies me. I found many movements which started out with good prospects, but they failed to meet those tests." "Now, Lyon," said he, "you have been in the logic class; you have here a major premise and a minor premise. You declared to me in a previous conversation that you were going to live to do what good you could. Now, by your own admission, you declare that you can find nothing that will take the place of the gospel of Jesus Christ, nothing that is permanent, vital and effective, that you can take to an individual or a class of people to lift them to a higher life. If you are honest and sincere, what ought to be your attitude toward the gospel of Christ?" I had heard sermons since childhood, but they had had little impression on my mind. Here was an argument that I could not answer. I parried its force as best I could, but it was an arrow that struck the mark.

Some weeks afterward, Mr. S. M. Sayford, of Boston, who was for ten years an evangelist for college students, came to our university. I went to hear Mr. Sayford speak to the students about a higher plane of Christian living. The next day this young man came to see me and said, "Would you not like to meet Mr. Sayford personally?" I said, "Why, yes, I would like to congratulate him upon the excellent talk he gave to you fellows last night, scoring your shortcomings." He greeted me cordially and said, "Well, Lyon, are you a Christian?" I replied, "I think I am as good a Christian as the other fellows are." You see, I was trusting in my own self-righteousness. "Do you believe in Jesus?" "Oh, I believe He was a good man." I retorted. "Well, He was not a good man if He was a liar." "Oh, no, I do not believe He was a liar. I believe He spoke the truth." "Where did you get that impression?" he asked. I did not want to say from the Bible, so I said, "Josephus speaks about it." "Only a few lines," he replied. "Well, then, there are the gospels," I added. "Oh," he said, "do you believe the gospels?" "Well," I said, "I accept them as history, the same as I do Herodotus, or Plutarch, or Gibbon." "Then, let us see what the gospels say about Christ," said he. So for an hour we sat there, side by side, reading passages from the gospel account of the life of Jesus. Frequently I interrupted his reading by saying, "All that seems reasonable, but I do not believe the resurrection." At last he turned to me and said, "Lyon, do you not believe that Jesus Christ arose from the dead?" I replied, "I will have to acknowledge for the first time in my life, I believe that is true."

"Then if Jesus Christ rose from the dead, He was no mere man," added Mr. Sayford, "He was what He claimed to be, the Son of God." "Yes," said I, "that is true, too." "Then if He is the Son of God, He is worthy to be your Savior. Will you not accept Him?" I grasped his hand and replied, "I will." From that moment to the present, I have never had the least doubt upon this subject of the Godship of Jesus.

Still there was a struggle to come. I had been known in that university as an unbeliever, and it was not easy to step out before hundreds of my college friends, admitting that I had been on the wrong track, and confessing my faith in Christ. But I got no real peace or joy until I did. And if I have done anything to make this old world better, it has been since that time.

"Oh," says some one, "if I could have been in that upper room when Jesus entered, in the presence of His disciples, if I could have thrust my finger into the nail prints and my hand into the wounded side, then I would have believed." My friend you were not there, but you had an attorney on the ground. Thomas went to the limit of unbelief. He doubted that you and I might not doubt. If the evidence was strong enough to convince him that Jesus had risen, and caused him to go forth with an earnest testimony to this fact, even, as tradition says, to a martyr's death; if the evidence was strong enough to convince that supremest of skeptics, Thomas, it ought to be strong enough to convince you and me. Shall we not then this morning acknowledge our allegiance to Him, before angels bow in homage and from our hearts exclaim, with Thomas, "My Lord and my God."

Economy

Isn't scrimping one's food, or subsisting on an unpalatable diet, but it's cutting out indigestibles, surplus quantities; and planning meals to balance up essential food values.

The ordinary diet is generally deficient in some of these values, such as the mineral elements, the lack of which is often responsible for anemia, listlessness, nervous breakdown, and general inefficiency.

A daily ration of

Mrs. Clem J. Lamont, of West Main street, gave the first of two beautiful bridge parties of this week, this afternoon, with valentine appointments. The general plan of coloring was red and emphasizing the color and the valentine idea were festoons of red paper hearts of different sizes in all the rooms, while pots of blooming plants, ferns and vases of flowers were arranged tastefully. When a supper of tempting preparation was served in several courses the card tables were decorated with crystal vases of red roses, smilax and Japanese lilies. Valentine tally cards for the tables and individual score cards were other pretty things of this delightful auction bridge affair, which nearly thirty ladies enjoyed.

Mrs. Herbert W. Fee was given a post-nuptial party this afternoon by Miss Marie Landenberger, at her home in Fairfield avenue. Auction bridge was the amusement. The lovely decorations were in yellow, that color appearing wherever possible, in tally cards, in lovely flowers and in the refreshments served after the game. Jonquils, tulips and other spring flowers filled the vases and offset any sign of the dreary skies that one got on her way to the party. There were players for six tables and the guests were Mrs. Fee's particular young friends.

BUNDLE DAY TOMORROW

Fort Wayne Giving Clothing and Bedding to Unemployed.

Bundle day means that out of your closets and trunks of out-grown clothing or partly worn clothing and from your stored away bedding you can find something to make a bundle to give to the people of this city who by reason of lack of employment are without funds to buy many things much needed. The time to give is today and tomorrow and the bundles, which should be marked with contents and ages suitable to give the contents to, will be left at some one of the numerous drug stores mentioned in the papers and will be collected and distributed on Wednesday. The central station is the storeroom in the Shoaff building, formerly occupied by Dallas F. Green. W. C. Dodds, manager of the Jefferson theater, has not only offered the theater as a place of depositing bundles, but also will furnish some of the automobiles tomorrow to use in collecting. The demand for warm clothing is especially needed just now. Many people can give if they will think to do so. The Quaker [illegible]

AT THE NEW PALACE

A typical B. F. Keith bill of vaudeville that is vaudeville inaugurated the fourth big week at the New Palace this afternoon when the varied and novel program headed by John F. Conroy and his diving models opened a week's engagement. The Conroy attraction is unquestionably the greatest act of its character every attempted on the stage with a setting that alone cost $3,500 and requires from ten to twelve hours to erect. The Marvelous Manchurians, the greatest Chinese acrobats in the world; Charles E. Evans and Helene Phillips in "A Forgotten Combination," a little one-act farce; Herman Timberg, the versatile comedian of "School Days" fame; Frank Mullane, the celebrated character actor; Clark and McCullough, a pair of burlesquers, and a wealth of other attractions serve to make this new bill one of the New Palace's best.

AT THE EMPRESS.

A real show and one that appeals to all the people in the city, is now on view at the Empress theatre. This show for the first half of the week has a bunch of real live acts. For instance, there is Fort Wayne's favorite, Happy Jack Gardner and his company, in "A Close Call," a real novelty in the way of sketches, that first shows the outside of a theatre and then one of the dressing rooms where Gardner is seen making up as a black face comedian. After this he comes out and does a regular black face act. Later he is again seen in his dressing room. A mighty interesting story runs through the sketch.

The Broadway Four sing and pull some funny stuff that is really funny, and also make one of the biggest hits ever made by an act of this character in this city.

AT THE TEMPLE.

The Temple this week is presenting a Columbia wheel burlesque show of unusual excellence in "The Girls From the Follies," featured by Harry Steppe. The "Girls" present a two-act musical farce, "The Lady Pirates," and a series of high class vaudeville specialties. The chorus contains about the prettiest bunch of girlies that ever have appeared in a Temple show. If you want to enjoy a really wholesome laugh, a laugh that will make you forget your troubles, don't fail to see Steppe drill his awkward squad in this show. Harry Steppe, the principal comedian, as a laugh producer, is second to none. He handles his material well and his dancing is superbly funny.

AT THE LYRIC.

"413" is back at the Lyric; the most spectacular melodrama ever projected onto a screen has been booked back for today only by Manager Harry Fitzpatrick in response to the insistent demands of the movie fans who watned to see it again or keenly regretted having missed it on its first appearance at the Lyric. The struggle in the locomotive cab and the train wreck are two of the best bits of realism ever filmed.

The Lyric today also is offering two big comedy numbers with this "413" melodrama. "The Gang's New Member" and "Two Dinky Little Dramas of a Non-Serious Mind" taken from one of George Ade's "Fables in Slang."

AT THE JEFFERSON.

GABY DESLYS IN "HER TRIUMPH"

World Famous Danseuse Charms in Brilliant Photoplay.

Gaby Deslys, the lovely and artistic little dancer, who leaped from comparative obscurity into the brilliance of fame's lime-light, in almost the twinkling of an eye, came to the Jefferson last evening and scored a veritable triumph in a magnificent photo-drama produced under the direction of the Famous Players company. "Her triumph" furnishes ample opportunities for Gaby to display the marvelous dancing ability which has made this branch of her personal art so pronouncedly celebrated. Gaby is given able assistance in both her dancing and acting by Harry Pilcer and a cast of some two or three hundred others.

Following Gaby on the morrow comes Wilton Lackaye, the noted character actor, in an important visualization of Israel Zangwill's play, "The Children of the Ghetto." On Wednesday and Thursday John Emerson appears in a charming love story by Martha Morton, "The Bachelor's Romance."

AT THE COLONIAL

"THE PRICE HE PAID"

Ella Wheeler Wilcox's Renowned Poem Picturized Into Morality Drama.

The Humanology company, of New York City, an association of sociologists, have taken the famous poem of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's, "The Price He Paid," and in five telling reels of motion pictures have given to the youth of America a photographic object lesson that bites deep into an evil that is one of the greatest immoral conventions in the world. The play resembles Brieux's "Damaged Goods" in theme, somewhat, although the story is not by any means so sordid—the bitter facts are there, however, and the person who can leave a theatre after seeing this stirring drama and not carry with them profound impressions is surely perverted.

"The Price He Paid" remains at the Colonial for this day only, being followed on the morrow by Charles Richman in "The Idlers." Richman is assisted by a notable cast, including Claire Whitney, Catherine Countiss and Stuart Holmes.

ITALY FACES A NEW PERIL FROM FLOODS

Rome, Italy, Feb. 15—Italy, having just passed through a period of grave anxiety as a result of destructive earthquakes, is now facing a new peril in the form of floods. Everywhere streams are out of their banks, due to heavy rain storms which have continued for several days. In the low lying quarters the people have been driven from their homes or are prisoners in the upper stories of their houses. The military authorities have taken cognizance of the situation and troops have been sent to aid in rescue work and to provide food to sufferers cut off from supplies.

In Rome the river Tiber is more than fifty feet out of its normal banks and is rising at the rate of two inches an hour. The one bright spot is that the weather early today showed signs of clearing and this gives hope that the waters will soon recede.

The Leonine city, as the vatican quarter of Rome is called, is in the low [illegible] has not reached the apostolic palace or St. Peter's. Pope Benedict is taking a sympathetic interest in the situation and has instructed all the parish priests to display the greatest energy in aiding their distressed parishioners. The pope himself apent a good deal of his time Sunday in watching the rising waters in the quarter just below the palace.

Two hundred patients in the hospital near the vatican have been removed to upper floors of the building because of the flood. Some fear is expressed that the rising water may cause the building to collapse.

Great anxiety is felt today for the famous St. Angelo bridge, built over 100 years before Christ, as it is inundated and water also surrounds the imposing basilica of St. Paul's. The Sublicus bridge, the structure supposed to have been defended by Horatius and five companions [illegible]

GO TO INVESTIGATE BAD PISTOL BATTLE
Manchester, Ky., Feb. 15.—A squad of officers left here today to investigate a report that two men had been shot and killed, and a third fatally wounded during a pistol battle Sunday at a remote point near the Knox county line.
Ten men are said to have quarreled over differences at cards. In the fusillade of shots that followed, it is reported that Letcher and Beverly White, members of a prominent southwestern Kentucky family, were killed, and Beverly Bailey was so badly wounded he cannot recover.

"In a carnival riot at Panama City between Panamians, soliders and Americans, twenty-three Americans were wounded, two from gunshot wounds. One Panama policeman was killed and two wounded."
Gen. Edwards also reported he was investigating with Panama officials and it was hard to fix the blame.

HINTS AT BLOODY PURPOSE IN MIND

Tom Dolan Says He Will Do Something That Will Hang Him.

After being given a fine of $10 and costs and ten days in jail by Judge Kerr in the city court, Monday morning, Tom Tolan was led back to a cell where he bewailed the fate that had linked him to his wife and said that as soon as he was out of jail he would stage a dark and horrid deed that would bring him right back to court and that hanging would be the penalty. He was penalized on a charge of disorderly conduct following a bitter all-night quarrel with his wife. He had called the police and when Night Stationmaster Bert Brown went to the Tolan home on East Wayne street to quiet affairs, Tolan cut loose with such an indescribably foul line of talk that he was arrested. Twenty-five days in jail will probably cool his mind.

Robbed His Kind Friend.

Martin Thompson, of Garrett, Ind., who has been hanging around Fort Wayne for two or three weeks, went to the home of Rank Emery, 820 Wells street, where he was a roomer when living in this city, and asked permission to use Mr. Emery's shaving outfit to fix himself up nice and neat. He was accommodated and sat down at a sewing machine on which was placed a shaving mirror. Mr. Emery was absent from the room most of the time. After Thompson had gone a pocketbook containing $13.39 was found to be missing from the drawer of the machine. Chief Lenz was notified of the theft and later arrested Thompson on Clay street. Thompson made an elaborate and complex denial on the witness stand, but appearances were all against him and he was fined $10 and costs and given twenty days in jail.

Stole an Overcoat.

Harry Allen, employed as a timekeeper of a gang of linemen working on the Pennsylvania railroad at Warsaw, stole an overcoat from the barroom of the Centlivre hotel Saturday night and was arrested by Officer Charles Eisenhut just as he was about to take a midnight train to go on to Pittsburg, to which city he had an employe's pass. Allen said he had left one eastbound train here to get a shave, had fell in with friends and got drunk. He asserted that he had left his overcoat in a saloon and took the one he stole to get even. The garment was the property of Francis Brandon, a guest at the Centlivre. Allen drew $10 and costs and ten days on a petit larceny charge.

Other City Court Cases.

Pat O'Brien, the aged inebriate who signalized a spree Saturday by smashing about $90 worth of plate glass windows in Jack Brown's saloon, 106 East Columbia street, was continued until Tuesday on a charge of malicious trespass.

Of a big mess of drunks the following were disposed of: John Burke, $1 and costs; Bill Horstman, $5 and costs; John Thomas, $1 and costs; Harry Lamb, $5 and costs; John Affolder, $5 and costs; Charles Miller and Tom Davis, continued to the 18th inst. under bond; Ed Sullivan, Albert Kerchner, George Rogers, Tod Cass, Duffy Gonger, Fred Salmon and Charles Keely, turned loose.

Earl Sudestrom, an 18-year-old lad who said he had run away from home in Chicago because his mother made him scrub floors at home, was allowed to go out and find a farmer friend of his family, where he said he believed he could get work. The man he was looking for lives west of the city.

Dave Black, who peddles medicine and keeps drunk, was up on a loitering charge and was given permission to leave town.

Harry Black, a youth from Tiffin, O., where his father is a policeman, was continued until Friday under $200 bond. A drunk charge against him will be changed to obtaining money by false pretense or larceny. He flim-flammed several saloon keepers with a short change game.

George R. Hudson, the farm hand who after losing his job with W. S. Scherer, a farmer living north of Robison park, came to the city and kept up a prolonged debauch on funds he obtained by negotiating checks to which he had signed Scherer's name, was continued until the 18th under $500 bond. Hudson is on the verge of tremens following his terrible debauch.

Ray Jackson, who was arrested while trying to pawn an $80 diamond ring, was continued on a loitering charge, pending the arrival of an officer from Fulton county, Ohio, where Jackson is wanted for burglary. Jackson is also wanted in Wabash county, Indiana, on a similar charge.

WILL RUN SPECIAL CAR.

Electric Railway Association to Meet at Indianapolis.

A special car will be run out of Fort Wayne over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line for Indianapolis on the afternoon of February 24 on account of the annual meeting of the Central Electric Railway association to be held at that place on February 25 and 26. The special car will have on board the representatives from the interurban lines in Northern Indiana and Northern Ohio. Officials of the Fort Wayne interurban lines will attend the meeting.

The ladies of the K. of L. of S. will give a public pedro party in the Buffalo hall, 120 West Berry street on Thursday afternoon.

ITEM WELCOMED BY MANY MEN

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act naturally and rationally as others do because the treatment consisting of grain tablets can be obtained and taken without the knowledge of any one. If the reader has any of the symptoms, and decides to try it just go to any large well stocked drug store and ask for three-grain Cadomene Tablets, and then take according to the directions which accompany each sealed tube. The tonic-invigorating power is soon felt and the joy of a healthy body experienced. These tablets, originally dispensed by prominent physicians and pharmacists, now are packed with full directions for self administration, so that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing them.

NO FURTHER DANGER OF ANOTHER FLOOD

The rivers in Fort Wayne are gradually going down and all danger of a flood at this time seems to be over. The gauge Monday morning stood at 15.8 after reaching a stage of nearly seventeen feet at noon hour Sunday.

According to O. J. Wyatt, 646 Baltes avenue, whose house is the first to be surrounded by water when the streams overflow and who keeps in close touch with the situation whenever the rivers begin to rise, says there is no longer any cause for alarm. Two or three houses on Baltes avenue are still surrounded by water.

No rain is in sight, according to Forecaster W. S. Palmer, clear weather being predicted for Monday night and Tuesday.

Spring Fashion Notes

In America it is every woman's duty to buy just as nearly as possible all that she can afford to buy, thus helping American workers in factories and stores.

We connot look to Paris this season for styles. There are new and beautiful ideas in plenty designed in America for American women, as they should be.

In woman's apparel the military note prevails, modified to make it feminine, not masculine.

The new skirts have a trim effect fitting closely about the hips with a flare or ripple about the ankles. Some are two and one-half yards wide, some five yards, according to the material.

New blouses and waists are no longer cut away at the neck. If they are they are to be worn with net guimpes that have standing collars. Many new waists of fine white washable fabrics with dainty embroidery are shown.

Black and white is in high favor. The clean-looking shepherd's checks make refined and becoming suits. One of the smart new wrinkles is to have a blouse or waist made for one's two-piece suits to match the jacket lining. The new checked and figured silks are specially appropriate for this clever idea.

For summer dresses the new American made cottons in white and colors are bewitchingly fetching. They will make anybody look dainty and feminine. Look at any picture of the nicest grandmother you know when she was young, make your frock something like hers and you will be "in the picture."

Millinery features are small sailor poke, toque, tricorne and military shapes, liseri straw and other braids. Small floral trimmings and compact feather effects.

Popular shades this season are of the neutral or soft character, such as sand, putty and tan. Various shades of blue from navy to Dutch and other colors in soft tones are in demand.

Spring Dress Goods

In dress fabrics for Spring the choice of selection is larger than ever before. The beautiful new weaves are now shown in a complete range of colors. Among the popular weaves will be found, Serges, Silk and Wool Poplins, Silk and Wool Crepes, Needle Cloth, stripe effects, Crepe Poplin, Melrose, Gaberdine, Shepherd Checks, etc. The favorite new shades are Delaware Pink, Nevada Silver, Tuxedo Brown, Palm Beach Sand, Mountain Blue, Piping Rock, Oregon Green, Newport Tan and Gettysburg Gray.

We offer very special qualities at

$1, $1.25 and $1.50 a Yard

Spring beauty in wash dress fabrics will be on display in all their freshness this week. It's not too early to begin planning the Spring and Summer wardrobe and we are sure that the atractiveness of these new Spring fabrics will tempt you to buy while the dew of freshness is on them. Among the new fabrics will be found Palm Beach cloth, reception voile, silk poplin, crepe de chine, Irish poplin, fancy voile, etc., in styles and prices that will please.

CARRY TWO FROM BUILDING.

While walking on East Berry street Saturday evening at 8:45 o'clock Sergeant of Police David Blum and Charles McCoy, engineer at No. 3 engine house, saw smoke rolling from the windows of the second story of the Loesch building at 124 East Berry street. They dashed up the stairway and through the smoke filled corridors to the third floor, where they found Miss Juanita Sloane and Mrs. Carrie Schull panic stricken, and carried them to safety.

The blaze had its origin in a small room on the second floor of the building used by the Olympic Candy Kitchen as a store house for candy boxes, paper bags and [illegible]

STATE TITLE GAME AT CONCORDIA GYM

Zanesville and Indianapolis to Hook Up for Independent Championship.

Zanesville will meet the Em-Roes of Indianapolis at Concordia college gym on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 27, in one of the series that will decide the championship of the state of Indiana.

Manager C. E. Weaver has just completed negotiations for this affair and he and his flying squadron are confident that they can land the title.

There is little doubt of the prowess of the Em-Roes as the club has cleaned up the best in Indiana and is regarded in basketball circles as the cream of the clubs in the state.

Manager Weaver and some of the members of his club have watched the club in action and they expect a tough series but are going into the battle with all the confidence on earth.

Two or three games will be arranged in the meantime to keep the players on edge and it is likely that one of them will be against the Lyceum outfit.

JUNIOR LEAGUE STANDING.

Teams.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
B. Maroons	5	1	.833
O. P.'s	5	1	.833
Rexalls	4	1	.800
Nationals	4	1	.800
Aeolians	2	4	.333
Olympics	2	4	.333
Bachelors	1	5	.168
Wayne Knits	0	6	.000

The results of last week's games follow: Olympics won from Wayne Knits 18 to 16; T. O. P.'s from Aeolians 23 to 19; Maroons from Bachelors 18 to 4; Rexalls from Olympics 26 to 9; Maroons from Aeolians 47 to 20; T. O. P.'s from Bachelors 23 to 20. The last three were postponed games and the Rexall-National contest was postponed.

Bauerle is now eligible to play with the T. O. P.'s, Henline with the Wayne Knits, Degitz with the Maroons and Mox Irmscher with the Nationals. New names that have been submitted to Secretary Getz are Art Ross, eligible to play with the Rexalls on Feb. 23, and F. Schulte with the Olympics Feb. 25.

The pairings for this week's games are: Rexalls vs. Bachelors, T. O. P.'s vs. Nationals, Wayne Knits vs. Aeolians and Olympics vs. Maroons.

There has been some talk of dividing the season in two parts but because of the ties at the top of the standing column this procedure was deemed unwise and a straight schedule will be played.

A junior league game is on for Monday night at St. Paul's auditorium when the Nationals and Rexalls play a postponed game. There will be a preliminary which will start at 8 o'clock. Thursday night the Nationals play the T. O. P.'s in the preliminary to the St. Paul's-St. Mary's contest.

Game With University.

Manager Fischer, of the Concordia college five, announces that he has booked the Capital university team of Columbus, O., for Saturday night of this week at the college gym. The Capital squad won quite handily from the Concordians a year ago, but this winter's outfit at the college is considerably stronger and will at least hustle the seminarians from the Ohio city. The Capital university club has a large following in this city and one of the local Lutheran churches has purchased a block of one hundred seats and will be represented at the game with hopes of seeing the seminarians slip across another victory at the expense of the clever Concordian crowd. The local students are extremely anxious to win this match and they will put in some strenuous practice periods in preparation for this game.

Issue Challenge.

The Shawnee Juniors challenge the Rexall Juniors for a game to be played at the St. Paul's gym, corner Washington and Fairfield. Telephone 7477 red and ask for Joe.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton).

Clark Griffith, the "old fox," leader of the Washington team, is a type of manager unlike any other. In spite of the fact that most of the prophets have decided that Grif's chance for a pennant with his present team is growing more and more dim, he may fool them and bring back a club that appears to be fading away without achieving a championship.

He first showed up in baseball twenty-three years ago, a little, dark skinned fellow with big eyes who seemed too small to be a real pitcher. He was about 17 then, and came from Normal, Ill., just outside of Bloomington.

He had been taught the art of pitching by "Hoss" Radbourne, one of the greatest of the veterans. He went to Milwaukee, back to Chicago, was sent to Portland, and after a great season there came back to Chicago, where for years he was recognized as the master pitcher of the craft, the headiest, wisest of them all. He developed and used the slow ball beyond all others, using also a sort of emery ball achieved by scuffling the ball against his spikes.

He was the "anarchist" of the team, always leader in fighting for the players. He was the leader of the players' union in 1897, and in 1900 jumped to Comiskey's new Chicago team, the White Sox, to manage it.

Then he took the New York Highlanders, came within one game of a pennant and faded away. Cincinnati tried him and he failed, and went to Washington. There he became part owner and, changing utterly from his viewpoint of the player, became one of the most violent opponents of anything savoring of rival organizations or higher salaries.

As a manager Grif has but one fault. His memory is too long. If a player makes a blunder on April 27 Grif will remember it and throw it up to the player in October. The strain of managing appears to have rasped his nerves. His hair turned gray in one season at Cincinnati, and he holds the record of taking twenty-eight drinks of water in four minutes in a crisis of a game.

He has one great ambition; desire to win a pennant for Washington; and one great passion—loyalty to his old friends.

Outside of baseball Grif is one of the most popular of the men of the game, quick witted, clever in repartee and appreciative.

LYCEUM WILL TAKE CRACK AT GERMANS

Manager 'Gene Lennart has just completed arrangements under which the Ottawa Germans will play the Lyceum five at St. Patrick's hall on Tuesday evening of this week.

This is the same team that has beaten Concordia and St. Mary's Athletics this season and is looked upon as one of the strongest of the independent organizations in this vicinity.

ESCAPE FROM PRISON

Celebrated by Lawton-Wayne Post, G. A. R., Saturday Afternoon.

Members of Lawton-Wayne post, Grand Army of the Republic, celebrated the escape of Comrade Stephen Chase, who served as corporal of company K, 12th Indiana volunteers, from confederate prisons. As is his custom Comrade Chase gave a banquet and a most delightful afternoon was enjoyed. He gave a thrilling account of his experiences in confederate prisons.

Recognized Advantages.

You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for coughs and colds. It does not suppress a cough, but loosens and relieves it. It aids expectoration and opens the secretions, which enables the system to throw off a cold. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

JOE CONNOLLY HAD BATTLE IN MAJORS

Took Him a Long Time to Rise and Get a Berth He Could Hold.

New York, Feb. 15.—Joe Connolly, slugger-in-chief of the Boston Braves, and the hard-hitting hero of the miracle man's world's champions, is one of three natives of Massachusetts on the roll of that immortal aggregation of ball players. Joseph is usually credited to Rhode Island, but, like Mitchell and Maranville, he made his mundane debut in the Old Bay state. South Smithfield boasts of being Joe's birthplace, but he started his baseball career across the state line at Woonsocket, R. I., where he played with semi-pro clubs.

Connolly was 27 years old Monday. He first got into the limelight while playing with a Providence club in a state baseball tournament. Joe was largely instrumental in winning the honors for Providence, and his fame was noised abroad. It spread, indeed, as far as Ohio, and resulted in an offer from the Zanesville club, which Joe accepted. He played part of the season of 1910 with the Ohio team, and then went to Terre Haute, Ind., where he made a great reputation for himself. Like most incipient ball players, Joe wanted to shine in the box, but he was early convinced that a twirler he was an excellent outfielder.

Connolly's next rise in the world was with the Montreal club. The Cubs bought him from Terre Haute, but sent him to the Canadian metropolis for further seasoning. By 1912 Joe was considered ripe for another chance in the big show and he had a trial trip with Washington. The Senators turned him over to the Braves and in Boston Joe really arrived. Last season he was the only Boston regular to bat over the .300 mark, and he was responsible for a no inconsiderable proportion of the runs which gave Boston the National league championship and the chance to go against the Athletics for the world's baseball honors.

Connolly and George Whitted are the optimists of the Braves. When it comes to facing adversity with a smile Joe and George are there with the goods. The sunny smiles of this pair of charter members of the O. B. Joyjul club have illuminated many a dark day for their fellow Braves.

The wild night life and glittering lights of the great cities of which he makes the rounds in the good old summer time have no attractions for Joe. The back to the farm stuff has hit him hard, and when not engaged in practicing his profession he spends his time in the bucolic pursuits of an agriculturalist on his farm near Woonsocket.

Connolly is 5 feet 6½ inches in altitude. He isn't any speed demon in getting around the bases, and his fielding, while good, is not spectacular. His throwing arm might be better but his swatting eye puts him in a class by himself among the Braves. He bats left handed. Stallings usually takes him out of the lineup when the opposing pitcher is a southpaw. He did this in the second game of the world's series when old Freddie Plank was on the mound for the Athletics. In the three games he played in the memorable series Joe's batting eye wasn't functioning quite as well as usual, and he got only one hit in nine trips to bat.

Connolly has had a long, hard fight to get to the top of the baseball ladder, but, now that he is perched on the pinnacle, he may be expected to remain quite some time.

"FORGET BASEBALL IN WINTER;" BAUM'S TIP TO OTHER PITCHERS

(Special Correspodence).

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—A pitcher who can heave through forty games without a single error, who is the oldest gunner in point of service in the Coast league, and who has twirled for twelve years with a record never under .500, ought to get an attentive audience of fans and fellow players when he has some "dope" to impart.

That's the record of Charles "Spide" Baum, leading pitcher with the San Francisco Seals.

And here is a warning "Spide" issues to others of his profession during the winter season:

"A pitcher should never touch a ball after the season closes he should get away in the hills and forget baseball. I have seen many prominent pitchers ruin their careers by too much playing.

"A pitcher has to work just as hard in an exhibition game as he does in a championship contest. There is the same strain. He may open all right in the spring, despite his winter's work, but along in July and August when the race gets hot he will find that he is not there.

Baum tells about the close fraternity between pitchers and the fellowship of batters.

"When a new batter enters the league," says Baum, "and starts hitting you should see the pitchers get busy. Every place we stop we pitchers exchange notes. Once around the circuit and we know what the batter likes. And once we get onto him he goes down in the book and we feed him everything he is supposed not to like.

"It's strange how pitchers band together like that, but the batters exchange notes themselves and I guess it's about 50-50."

"Spide" emphasizes the necessity for regarding every batsman your enemy on the diamond even though he might be your best friend off the grounds.

Chas. Baum

"I recall a game in Altoona," he complained, "when a friend catcher came to bat and I tipped him off to what was coming. He landed a nice two-base hit. I wasn't bothered because it was the ninth inning and I was three runs ahead. But the next fellow hit, and the next, so that before I got the side out I was beaten 4 to 3. That taught me a lesson."

"I pitch my hardest to my best friends for in this game it's a case of protect yourself first."

How to Prevent Bilious Attacks.

"Coming events cast their shadows before." This is especially true of bilious attacks. Your appetite will fail, you will feel dull and languid. If you are subject to bilious attacks take three of Chamberlain's Tablets as soon as these symptoms appear and the attack may be warded off. For sale by all dealers. —Adv.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

WABASH AGENTS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Prominent Points on Peru Division Will Be Represented Here.

The freight agents and freight warehouse foremen of the important points of the Peru division of the Wabash will attend a meeting at the Anthony hotel next Wednesday, called for the discussion of the over, short and damaged freight question, which is one of the most perplexing problems the freight and claims department of a railroad has to contend with. Notices of the meeting were issued from the office of Supt. E. A. Sollitt and they announce that Freight Claim Agent G. A. McFarland and P. H. Mattimoe, inspector of warehouses and handling of freight, of St. Louis, will be at the meeting and take part in the discussions. The following freight agents will also be at the meeting: W. L. Childers, of Toledo; C. P. Porter, of Napoleon; O. E. Wilson, of Defiance; G. W. Tillock, of New Haven; J. T. McPartland, of Fort Wayne; O. D. Keller, of Huntington; J. L. Brown, Wabash; H. S. Sweet, Peru; A. C. Naylor, Logansport; F. H. Elliott, Delphi; R. B. Hamilton, Lafayette; William Heasman, of Attica, and C. W. Greenman, Danville. The party will take dinner at the Anthony and follow it with a business session.

$20,000,000 MELON.

Mail Order Houses Get Cash and Railroads the Smell.

Ralph Peters, chairman of the committee on railway mail pay, has just issued a pamphlet containing the opinions of the editors of some of the leading newspapers on the subject of railway compensation for carrying the government mails. One of the articles is a communication from Gerard published recently by the Philadelphia Public League. It reads as follows:

"Richard Mansfield told me that when he was a poor lad in London he would stand outside a bakery shop and dine on the savory smell of pies, cakes and new bread.

"I can now behold, at least, 200 railroad presidents feasting on the aroma that rises from that $20,000,000 melon which a mail order house has cut. The presidents get nothing more substantial out of this banquet than the smell, but they take a genuinely personal interest in that.

"And why shouldn't they, since they paid for it? Yes, that melon came very largely out of their own pockets, or rather the pockets of the railroads over which they preside.

"This is how it happened: Mail order trade was never so brisk as since the parcel post went into effect. You can buy anything from a needle to a steel rail from these houses, and nearly all the articles are carried by mail to the purchasers.

"By a piece of neat jugglery, the post-office department evades payment for most of the parcel post business, so that the railroads have carried free a large part of the material which made that $20,000,000 melon ripe for distribution.

"Behind these railroad presidents stand about 2,000,000 railroad security owners. Their only portion of the melon which they provided is an occasional sound of money jingling in somebody else's pocket.

"No, dear reader, I cannot reproduce here what these 2,000,000 folks say about this arrangement."

Concerning the compensation for carrying the mails over the Panama railroad, Mr. Peter's pamphlet says:

"The Panama railroad has only one stockholder—the government of the United States. The railroads operating in the United States are owned by hundreds of thousands of citizens, who hold their stocks and bonds. The Panama railroad in the last fiscal year received more than $2.77 for each ton of mail carried one mile. This is shown by figures in its annual report. The postoffice department has estimated that the railroads of the United States receive approximately 10 cents for each ton of mail carried a mile. The rate paid the government-owned Panama railroad for carrying the mails is therefore about 28 times as great as the average rate paid the privately owned railroads of the United States."

ANOTHER RAILROAD NIGHT

Men Engaged in That Vocation Will Attend Tabernacle Saturday.

Secretary A. J. Cash, of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., has completed arrangements for another demonstration by the railroad and shop employes of the city at the tabernacle next Saturday night. He wants every railroad man in the city to take part in the demonstration and suggests that if they cannot reach the Y. M. C. R. rooms in time for the start of the parade that they meet it somewhere along the line or at the tabernacle door and they will be assured a good seat. The Pennsylvania employes—on the road, in the shops and in the offices—are greatly interested in the proposed demonstration and if the weather is favorable they will turn out over 1,200 strong. The foremen and assistant foremen of the various departments of the shops are becoming interested and are making personal invitations to the men to turn out Saturday night. Supt W. M. Wardrop and Master Mechanic E. E. Griest approve the movement and will give it aid in all possible manner. Although the night was one of the most disagreeable of the winter, the parade of railroad men to the tabernacle Saturday night, February 6, was the largest of the campaign.

HORSE CAUGHT IN BRIDGE.

Badly Hurt and Had to Be Killed to End Its Suffering.

At 10 o'clock last night some railroad men found a horse wedged in the ties of the Pennsylvania overhead bridge south of Lindenwood cemetery so badly injured that it could not recover and it was shot to end its suffering. At the time the animal was discovered a westbound freight train was approaching and had to be flagged to prevent striking the horse. It proved to be the property of Bock & Watson, proprietors of the livery stable at 508 South Harrison street. Yesterday afternoon two men hired a rig and some hours later went to the livery stable and told the attendants there that they had left the horse tied to a post in the rolling mills district and when they returned to the spot the horse and buggy were gone. It appears that the horse got loose and wandered away and in trying to cross the bridge, with the buggy, fell and hurt itself. The owners claim that they had recently refused $165 for the horse.

TWO INTERESTING LECTURES.

E. J. Brobst, of Schenectady, N. Y., will lecture on "Automobile Self Starters and Lighting Systems" before the Fort Wayne section of the American Institute of Eelectrical Engineers" at the Commercial club rooms Wednesday night. Mr. Brobst is the engineer for this department of the General Electric company and no person is better qualified to talk on auto starter subjects than he. Another lecture booked for this week that will be of special interest will be given at the assembly hall at the Fort Wayne Electric works under the auspices of the Electro-Technic club by E. M. E. Humphries, of Lynn, Mass., next Friday night. He will tell of his travels over the United States, illustrating parts of the talk with lantern slides. Mr. Humphries is the lamp specialist for the General Electric works and he will also look after some business for the company while here. On the same evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dean do some sand moulding, making life like statues out of sand. This entertainment will be for members of the club only.

FEDERATION MEETING ANNULLED.

It has been announced that the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will not hold the regular meeting next Monday night on account of the mass meeting at the tabernacle in the interest of the co-operative store movement inaugurated some weeks ago. Not all of the unions have approved the movement and the mass meeting will attract greater attention on that account, it is believed. Among the opponents are the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, who voted against the plan last Thursday. They will be represented at the mass meeting by Messrs. Christian Hessen, Emil Poinsett, George Feucheter, Oscar Hoover and J. H. Rhodes. The union took in two members at the meeting Thursday.

OFF ON ACCOUNT OF INJURIES.

J. L. Sinclair, machinist at the Pennsylvania erecting shop, slipped Saturday and severely wrenched his back. He will not be able to work for several days. Julius Doriot, apprentice in the erecting room, sustained injuries to his back which have put him out of commission for several days. Mr. Doriot is a member of the Bachelor basket ball team and sustained his injuries Saturday night while in a game with the T. O. P. team at the James Smart school hall.

CELEBRATED HIS BIRTHDAY.

There was a family gathering yesterday at the home of Foreman P. J. Scheid, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, in celebration of the birth anniversary of Frank Scheid, of Toledo, a son of P. J. Scheid. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scheid, who came down from Toledo Saturday night, returned to that city this morning. Mr. Scheid is general foreman of the Pennsylvania round house at that point.

MOVING TO MANSFIELD.

Assistant Master Mechanic E. E. Dildine, of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania, is moving his family to Mansfield today. He has sold the pleasant house at 2330 Webster street which was his home when a resident of Fort Wayne. The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Dildine is a matter of deep regret to a large circle of friends in this city.

ICE HOUSE IS FULL.

Ninety carloads o ice have been stored in the Pennsylvania ice houses at the east yards, which completes the harvest for 1915. The ice came from Lake Nottawa, in Michigan, and is the finest lot ever harvested by the company. Three thousand and six hundred tons were put into the ice houses.

TWO INJURED MEN RECOVER.

Fred Lenz, the blacksmith, who had a hand injured when a piece of steel lodged in the flesh a week ago, reported for work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning. Otto Miller also resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning. He had the end of a finger crushed two weeks ago.

WIFE IS RECOVERING.

Mrs. W. R. Richardson, who had been very ill for some time, is now well on the road to recovery and Mr. Richardson has resumed his duties as train dispatcher for the Pennsylvania after an absence of ten days on account of the illness of his wife.

STOREKEEPERS HERE TOMORROW.

The division storekeepers of the Pennsylvania Northwest system will be here tomorrow for a two or three days' session. Division Storekeeper C. P. Cherry, of this city, who will preside at the meeting, returned from a week at Columbus and Pittsburg last night.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The Building Trades council will have a meeting tonight.

Fred Lepper, the Pennsylvania patternmaker, is sick and off duty.

J. C. Grable, yard engineer of the Pennsylvania, is sick and off duty.

After an illness of two weeks, Michael Creigh is on duty again in the Pennsylvania machine shop.

A. E. Menefee, apprentice in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is at work again after a week's illness.

Machinist L. J. McCulloch is absent from his machine in the Pennsylvania shops today on account of sickness.

Mrs. John J. Lynch, wife of the Pennsylvania pipefitter, has gone to Detroit to spend a few days with relatives.

John Rupp and W. Koehlinger, who had been sick, resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning.

Machinist Ed Harsh, who had a finger badly hurt some days ago, reported for work in the Pennsylvania shop this morning.

W. P. Dittoe, purchasing agent of the Nickel Plate, was here on business with the Bass Foundry and Machine company Saturday.

Guests in the city over Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Frost, of Toledo. Some years ago Mr. Frost was yardmaster for the Wabash at this point.

William Kiep, a clerk for Trainmaster Ogden Pierce, of the Nickel Plate, was the guest at Indianapolis of Leo Lauer, a student in a school of pharmacy, over Sunday.

General Foreman H. T. Hogan, who had been suffering from a severe cold two or three days, was able to resume his duties at the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning.

Agent Howell, of the Union News company, Pennsylvania passenger station, is on duty again after being sick a week. Mrs. Howell, who fell and injured a knee, has also recovered.

Oscar Rohrbaugh, chief clerk at the Wabash master mechanic's office, was presented with a daughter yesterday and in recognition of the honor, a box of cigars lies open to all callers on his desk.

The Carpenters and Joiners' union have elected Joseph Deahl a trustee to take the place of Ira Wickliffe, who has left the city. Two new members were added to the roll at the last meeting of the carpenters.

L. D. Redding, who is on the road in the interest of the United Garment Workers, spent Sunday with his family in Fort Wayne. At present Mr. Redding is working in this vicinity and can come home without interfering with his duties.

Mr. Burke Fleming, George Sweet and Norman Wilson, three of the old

WORE OUT WELCOME IN THREE MONTHS

William Hoover Lasted as Husband One-Quarter and Fell Down.

Mary M. Hoover tried out William Hoover as husband from June to September last year, and according to her divorce complaint just filed in the superior court, found him a failure. So she made no scruples of having had enough of him. She charges him with cruel and inhuman treatment, detailing that he failed to make proper and reasonable provision for her support, called her unkind names and otherwise used her as no good husband would treat a wife.

Says Wife Gets Drunk.

John Craig says in his complaint for divorce from Rosella Craig that she frequently associated with other men and visits wine rooms and gets drunk, and specifically sets out that she did so on the 13th of this month, going to Poirson's wine room with a man and getting intoxicated. He charges that she has become so infatuated with this sort of life she neglects to care for the plaintiff and for her two little children. He says she swore often at him and called him vile and foul names that he thinks wholly unfit to put in a complaint and then alleging her treatment of him last Saturday, when she told him to pack his traps and get out and get a divorce, gives a sample of her talk that raises curiosity as to what she said that was so much stronger he could nuot put it in his complaint. He asks the custody of two children, one aged 2 and the other 3 years.

Notes of the Courts.

Judge Eggeman in the circuit court has fixed Wednesday for the trial of Tracy Gratz, bound over to that tribunal from the city court on a charge of wife desertion and child neglect. He was arraigned late Saturday afternoon and pleaded not guilty. A letter to the circuit court from D. Gratz & Sons at Tecumseh, Mich., states that a job at $19 a week awaits the prisoner there if he will take it.

The suit of Timothy F. Mosely vs. S. Bash & Co. has been dismissed from the superior court.

In the case of Mary Tilbury vs. Charles Tilbury for divorce, the superior court has ordered the defendant to pay his wife $10 a month for support and $25 attorney's fees.

The Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company has been restrained by the superior court from paying the wages due Ancil Harshbarger, whose wife, Pearl Harshbarger, is suing him for divorce.

Judgment for $78.78 has been given the plaintiff under proceedings in the superior court for the foreclosure of a mortgage in the suit of the Tri-State Loan & Trust company vs. Frederick J. and Katie Semotan.

In the circuit court the suit of Jason D. Branstrator vs. George McAngus has been dismissed.

The last will and testament of the late Mary E. Hays has been filed for probate. Her entire estate is left to her son, Don D. Hays, who is named executor.

In his last will and testament just filed for probate, the late Jacob Rapp, of Arcola, devises his entire estate, real and personal, to his wife, Victoria Rapp.

The will of the late Solomon Kell, which has just been admitted to probate, leaves the estate of the decedent to be divided share and share alike among his children.

The superior court has directed the Bash Fertilizer & Chemical company to appear in that tribunal not later than Feb. 20 and file an affidavit detailing the assets and liabilities of that concern. E. W. Cook, receiver for the company, has asked permission of the court to expend $75 to employ an expert to appraise the value of stock on hand.

The supeerior court has granted an injunction in the divorce suit of Joseph Current vs. Minnie Current, restraining the plaintiff from molesting the defendant and has ordered him to pay her $10 a month during pendancy of the suit.

Judge Yaple in the superior court has modified the divorce decree in the case of Hazel Fry vs. Cleveland Fry, giving him the custody of a small son and permitting the mother to have the child one day each week.

The suit of Heit vs. the City of Fort Wayne and the Northern Indiana Traction company has been sent to Huntington county on a change of venue.

TO OIL COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

William Tonkel, county superintendent of roads, will have all of the county highways sprinkled with oil as soon as such work is made practicable by conditions of weather and for that purpose has purchased two sprinklers, which were furnished by Viberg & McMaken, of this city. The sprinklers are of a type that can be used either for oil or for water. The oil sprinklers may be detached when it is desired to use the machinery to water-bind the roads, work of which there is expected to be much during the coming spring and summer.

NEW CORPORATION.

ACTION ON WEISSER PARK NOT RESCINDED

Board Leaves Way Open for Appeal to Courts if It is Desired.

The board of park commissioners, while holding that the remonstrance against the resolution to enlarge and complete Weisser park is sufficient, has not rescinded action. The way has been left open for an appeal to the courts by those who favor the improvement, and it is understood that a mandamus to compel the park board to proceed with the improvements according to the resolution will be sought. At its meeting Saturday afternoon the park board decided in view of the narrow margin by which the remonstrance was found insufficient to close the issue so far as it was concerned by adopting a resolution to rescind all action, and this was done. Later, however, it was held that the question should be left open for an appeal to the courts and the resolution has not been made of entry in the minutes. This, according to an opinion by City Attorney Colerick, does not nullify the procedures taken for the improvement, but leaves the matter open for appeal and there is no recession. The status of the whole matter is that the board has held the remonstrance sufficient and there can be no further proceedings by the board for a period of one year unless the courts should be asked to intervene and mandate the board to proceed unlder its resolution.

After four weeks of hard and ceaseless work by the assessment bureau of the park department it was found that the remonstrance was twenty-five names short of a majority of the property owners in the southeast park district. The board in view of the probability that question as to these and other names would be raised, decided not to confirm the resolution on a margin so narrow and declared its attitude in the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Whereas, The remonstrators against the enlargement of Weisser park lack only a few votes in having a majority; and

"Whereas, These few votes might probably be supplied by a thorough canvass of the remonstrances; and

"Whereas, We do not wish to confirm the resolution in a case which is so extremely doubtful as the present one; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we rescind all action on Park Improvement Resolution No. 3."

It is announced by J. W. Menefee, one of the most active and aggressive of the leaders that headed the element favoring the improvement, that a formal request will be made upon the park board to reopen the proceedings and if this is denied, the courts will be invoked to mandate the board to do so. On the remonstrance are counted as valid thirty names of southeast park district property owners and their wives with no evidence that in any case the one had been given permission by the other to sign. No account has as yet been taken of the remonstrances and withdrawals filed with the board following the original time set for the hearing, which was at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of January 16.

The records of the park department and the township assessor's office show that in the southeast park district there are 3,177 property owners. The assessment bureau of the park department counted 1,563 names out of 2,247 filed with the remonstrance as effective, whereas to be valid the remonstrance should have 1,589 names.

The fight over the Weisser park matter has been the most stubborn and embittered that ever took place over the question of a public improvement in Fort Wayne.

WILL LOWER SEWER OUTLET.

The board of works and city engineer have made an inspection of the outlet of the Tecumseh avenue sewer in Lakeside and have decided that conditions in that region will be much improved by lowering the mouth of the sewer about four feet. THE MARKETS

LOWER PRICES ON WHEAT PREDICTED

Two of the three mills of the city reduced their paying price for wheat per bushel to $1.45 Saturday while the remaining one kept the price at $1.50, but today this price was also reduced to $1.45. The millers predict that another drop will be made in the quotations Tuesday and if this is the case they also state that the price of flour, which has caused 6 cent bread in many cities, will also be reduced in proportion to the drop of wheat prices. The bakers are anxiously awaiting the time when flour prices will lower.

There was a great range of prices paid for corn on the local markets Monday morning, ranging all the way from 75c to 85c a bushel. Eleven loads are reported a s having been weighed at the city scales and twenty loads of hay which brought from $15 to $16 a ton.

No oats appeared on the street Monday.

Although a cold wave in the weather promises to remain for a few days, commission men state that there will be no change in egg quotations as the heavy receipts of last week more than supplied the demand and that a large amount of the receipts were kept over so that even should the hens go on another strike for a few days there would be no change in prices.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Wheat developed strength today in consequence of signs that large sales had been made to exporters. It was said also that country offerings were smaller than has been recently the case. The market after opening ¼c off to a rise of 2c, scored an all around advance ranging 3½c above Saturday night's level.

Corn climbed with wheat. The opening, which varied from ⅛c down to ½c advance, was followed by a sharp general upturn.

Foreign demand for oats was on a liberal scale. Holders showed unwillingness to let go, and decidedly higher prices were soon in force.

Provisions sagged owing to a decline in the value of hogs. Trade was very slow.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 15.—Less tension in the international situation was denoted by the early movement of today's stock market. Americans were higher in London and this imparted some strength to the local situation, Canadian Pacific, Reading and American Smelting rising a point each with fractional gains in other active issues, including United States Steel. Trading was of the usual professional character and of moderate volume.

The early rise was of brief duration, prices falling back almost as easily as they had advanced. Steel, Reading, Union Pacific and others in the international list recorded losses of one to one and one-half points from their best of the first hour, and specialties howed imilar decline. Another drop in exchange on London to the lowest quotation in many years revived rumors of further gold imports from Canada. Bonds were heavy, with indications of foreign offerings.

tree diseases and pests, and also to destroy unhealthy swarms of bees; to limit the hours of stationary engineers to not more than eight hours a day or fifty-six hours a week; to change the method of appointing truancy officers by placing the selection in the hands of the county superintendent of schools, judge of the circuit court and superintendent of schools of the largest city in the county; to permit seining with a seine of two-inch or larger mesh in the months of July and August; to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors within ten miles of the state penal farm in Putnam county and to enable graduates of any college or university of recognized standing to obtain teachers' life licenses in similar manner as do graduates of the state normal school.

The Durham measure, providing for transfer of prisoners of the Indiana prison at Michigan City, or the reformatory at Jeffersonville, to the penal farm at the expense of the state, was among the bills passed. Other measures passed were the Reeves and Lyday bills, concerning procedure in the appellate court, and the Eschbach bill to enable childless widows and their step-children to give legal conveyances of real estate.

Favor Preserving Old Capital.

The joint committee of the two houses of the legislature which was appointed to view the old state capital at Corydon and report on the advisability of the state appropriating money to preserve it in its original form, will enter a favorable report. The committee, which was composed of Senators Lonz and Maston and Representatives Douglass Davis and Westfall, spent Sunday at Corydon and on their return expressed themselves in hearty accord with the movement inaugurated by the citizens of that town.

Taxation questions would be studied by an expert engaged for that purpose, if a bill that has been drawn by a joint committee of the state tax association and the state board of tax commissioners is approved by the two houses of the legislature. The governor has already given such a measure his endorsement.

Fnal Draft Made.

The final draft of the bill was made today and was considered at a conference between the governor and the committee. The bill provides that a commission of seven members shall be appointed to study the problem between now and the convening of the next legislature, at which time it will be expected to have bills prepared for the consideration of the legislature. This committee would hire an expert on tax problems as worked out in other states who would be in the regular employ of the state until he has finished the investigation and has gathered all necessary material for the commission. His salary would be determined by the commission, which would receive $5.000 for this purpose, the members of the commission, the bill states, shall serve without pay.

ENGLAND STILL TALKING.

London, Feb. 15 (12:10 p. m.).—The threatened submarine blockade of the ports of the British Isles is still an absorbing topic for English newspapersand the English people, and judging from dispatches reaching here from the continent, eGrmany is equally interested.

The report that James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, has been requested to meet the emperor at once on the eastrn battle front, is taken in London to mean that Berlin will probably make a prompt reply to the American note to Germany.

The foreign office announced definitely this afternoon that if the cargo of the American ship Wilhelmina should be diverted for the relief of the distress in Belgium the decisions to send her cargo to a British prize court would be reconsidered. Otherwise her cargo must be submitted to the decision of the court.

BANQUET FOLLOWS THE K. OF C. INITIATION

Fourth Degree Conferred on Ninety-one Knights Sunday Afternoon.

Two hundred and fifty members of the Knights of Columbus lodge attended the banquet given at the Anthony hotel Sunday evening following the exemplification of the fourth degree and the initiation of ninety-one knights into its ranks, Sunday afternoon at the lodge rooms on West Washington street.

The initiation exercises were noteworthy and were attended by many out of town knights. Edward F. Remmert, master for the district of Indiana, was in charge of the work. The delegation which attended Sunday afternoon included some of the most distinguished members of the order of the middle west. Early arrivals reached the city Saturday afternoon and evening.

Following the celebration of high mass at the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception in the morning the day's program opened at three o'clock Sunday afternoon with the exemplification of the fourth degree, which occupied three hours. The work was conferred on ninety-one men.

Members of the class included knights from cities in the vicinity of Fort Wayne. The members and their respective homes are:

Fort Wayne—Rev. John R. Quinlan, Rev. Joseph F. Delaney, Rev. Nicholas Keller, Rev. Edward H. Vurpillat, E. J. Disser, Peter A. Ofenloch, John F. O'Connor, E. J. Perrey, George Hikler, and A. J. Lassus.

Monroeville—Rev. oNrbert Felden, Dr. D. E. Kaufman and Dr. Meyers.

Hartford City—Rev. John C. Keller.

Fourteen from Huntington.

Decatur—Thomas Leonard, Lunis Meyer, Martin Smith, George Cochlin, Alphonse Koehne, William Bosse, Lawrence Vogelwede and Frank Barthel.

State Secretary Charles B. Cannon was a prominent member from Peru and candidates from that city were: M. P. Costin, William W. Welch, Joseph Kennedy and Fr. Thoennes.

Rev. Joseph Seimetz represented Logansport, and candidates from there were John Fitzgerald, John Moran, John Holland, William Hanley, Carl Schmitz and William Baker.

From Gary came M. F. Radigan, Thomas O'Donnell, N. Quinlan. Rev. Raphael Donnelly was a candidate from Hammond.

The banquet, which was served at the Anthony hotel, was a most elaborate affair and men prominent in all walks of life met in gladsome reunion, and after the inviting menu, participated in a general good time. Supreme Director William F. Fox, of Indianapolis, served as toastmaster. Oratory, music and song were enjoyed by all until a late hour. Those who responded to toasts and gave addresses were Rev. Julius A. Seimetz, of Decatur; E. F. Remmert, Rev. John R. Quinlan and Thomas P. Flynn, of Chicago, who gave a splendid address on the subject, "The Fourth Degree. Maurice C. Niezer, of this city, rendered several vocal selections. Miss Kessler's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

COTTON EXPORTS ARE NOW ABOVE NORMAL

Washington, Feb. 15.—Cotton exports were beyond normal proportions during January. The quantity was more than 300,000 bales greater than last year, according to the monthly report of the census bureau issued today. Cotton used was less than the usual January total, as 500,000 fewer spindles were operated during the month. Manufacturing establishments held less cotton January 31 than they did a year ago, but in independent warehouses the quantity on hand was greater by 1,800,000 bales.

Exports included 585,534 bales to the United Kingdom, 217,982 bales to Italy, 99,193 bales to Germany, 70,901 bales to France and 397,845 bales to all other countries.

The total reports for the six months ending January 31, were 2,500,000 bales less than during the period last year.

OPERATION WAS DEFERRED A WEEK

Paris, Feb. 15.—(4:45 a. m.)—Arthur Meyer, editor of the Gautois, has received a telegram from Maurice Bernhardt, the son of Sarah Bernhardt, the famous actress, announcing that the operation which his mother was to undergo on Saturday had been postponed at the last moment for a week. His mother's condition, he wires, is excellent.

Dispatches from Bordeaux late last night reported that Mme. Bernhardt underwent an operation for an affection of the knee at a hospital there. The actress, it was stated, had been suffering severely for many months and it was believed an operation would effect a complete cure.

EIGHT FILIPINOS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Manila, Feb. 15.—Eight of the men who were arrested charged with participation in the abortive uprising in the suburbs of Manila on the night of Dec. 23, were arraigned today and pleaded not guilty. Their trial has been set for March 5.

Disorder occurred at a number of Manila suburbs on the night of Dec. 23, with the chief seat of trouble at Navetas. The police and military were prepared and the trouble was quickly suppressed. Many arrests were made. Artemio Ricarte, who was banished from the islands by Governor Forbes, is said to have returned and was the leader of the seditionists.

GERMANS TO RECONSIDER IF FOOD BAN IS LIFTED

NOW PUTS IT UP TO BRITON

Germany Will Recede If England Allows Food to Come Through.

BERNSTORFF HANDS NOTE TO MR. BRYAN

ENGLAND TO HOLD OUT, SAYS CHURCHILL.

London, Feb. 15.—(5:05 p. m.)—In a statement to the house of commons today, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, intimated that further action would be taken by the allies to prevent the importation of foodstuffs in neutral ships to Germany.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, today presented to the state department a note from his government announcing that Germany stands ready to consider receding from its announced intention of attacking British merchantmen, if Great Britain will withdraw its efforts to prevent foodstuffs from going to Germany for the civilian population.

The note declares that Germany's plan to attack British merchantmen was a retaliatory measure adopted because of the alleged violation of international law by Great Britain in trying to starve the non-combatant population of Germany and that the latter government is ready to withdraw from its purpose as expressed in the naval war zone decree as far as it applies to merchant vessels as soon as Great Britain either of its own volition or as a result of representations from the neutrals expresses her willingness to return to the usual practices of international law on the question of foodstuffs.

Now Held to Be Warships.

The German note adds that the Berlin government has information that the English merchant vessels are being armed and have orders to sail in groups for protection and further that they would try to sink submarines. It declared that there was now no question of searching them, but the result would be that German ships would fight them because they are now held to be warships.

The note declared further that Great Britain, according to information of Germany, intended to use neutral flags and that therefore neutral shipping would be in danger in the war zone. It was urged, therefore, that meanwhile neutral shipping observe the request of Germany and go around the north of Scotland in the course which had been declared outside the war zone.

BLOOMINGTON HOPES TO SAVE UNIVERSITY

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—A delegation of eighty Bloomington citizens, headed by Mayor John G. Harris, invaded the state capitol today to work against the Van Auken bill to move Indiana university to Lafayette. The bill provides that Indiana university shall be consolidated with Purdue and shall be known as the University of Purdue. Senator Van Auken, author of the bill, and chairman of the finance committee to which the bill was referred, said this morning that a majority of his committee favored reporting the bill out of committee with a recommendation that it pass. He said he would call a public hearing on the measure some time this week.

NEW PHOTO OF THE COMPLETE LYON PARTY, ONE OF THE GREATEST EVANGELISTIC ORGANIZATIONS IN THE COUNTRY.

Dr. Milford H. Lyon has one of the most complete organizations of any evangelist in the country. Every member works in harmony, knows what to do and how to do it. Those in the picture are the following: Lower row (reading from left to right)—Mrs. Daisy Barr, Dr. Milford H. Lyon, Mrs. Lyon; upper row—Ray Upson, Loren G. Jones, Mrs. Jones, Fred Rapp, H. H. Pitzer and Guy Sutton.

Rumor of His Displeasure With Legislature is Untrue, He says

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Governor Ralston today entered a denial of the story circulated that he was displeased with the progress made by the legislature thus far. The fact that this legislature has not enacted as many laws as the body two years ago did for a corresponding period, does not necessarily mean that this body is behind in its work nor can it be taken as a criterion of the record that the present legislature will make for itself, declared the governor.

"Any statement printed to the effect that I am displeased with the work of this legislature is unwarranted," said the governor. "I have at no time given out any such statement. I believe that the record this legislature will establish will generally please the people of the state," he added.

The governor also expressed his approval of the manner in which the anti-lobby law has operated since going into effect. He said that he felt that the only persons who were displeased with it were a few lawyers representing corporations and who were forced to register.

He asserted that he would urge no matters of legislation at this time to the law making body, as he felt that the leaders there were capable of handling the important measures that have endorsement of the administration.

TOUGH DANCE GETS A BLOW

New Bill Bars Suggestive Language on Stage or in Audience.

LEGISLATURE IS AT WORK AGAIN

House Gets Big Start Over Senate by Mornng Session

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—Indecent dances in any public gathering place, and the use of obscene or suggestive language either on the stage or in the audience would be made a misdemeanor in Indiana if the bill which Representative Mendenhall, of Hendricks county, introduced in the lower house today is enacted into law.

Twelve other measures were presented, including the Griffith "land bank" bill, while five bills were passed and ordered sent to the senate. The senate was not in session this morning, this body having adjourned Saturday until this afternoon.

The Cleary bill, providing for the preservation of used and unused ballots, and the destruction of blue pencils immediately upon the close of polls at primary and general elections, was the most important of the measures passed. The Strange bill to simplify elections by provisions for voting a straight party ticket as is now done and also for candidates of other parties, without invalidating the ballot, was the only measure killed.

The Dance Bill.

The person promoting an exhibition at which a lewd dance is on the program would upon conviction be fined from $10 to $250 and the amusement license, which he holds would be revoked by the provisions of the Mendenhall bill, which also makes provision for prosecution of individuals giving the dance and those offending against common decency by use of obscene or suggestive language. The bill was referred to the public morals committee.

Some Other Bills.

Other bills presented provide for two or more persons incorporating railway employes insurance companies and to indemnify individuals up to $1,000 for loss of position; to permit members of fire departments, when in uniform, to ride on street cars free; to compel spraying of fruit trees, and taking other precautions against spread of injurious

THREE MORE COME IN AND CONFESS GUILT

New Trio in Terre Haute Mess Change Pleas to Guilty.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—Three more names were added today to the list of those pleading guilty to the federal indictment charging conspiracy to corrupt the election of November 3, 1913 in Terre Haute.

Thomas Brady and Jack Stingley appeared before Judge A. B. Anderson and changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty, and Harry Hickman, who was indicted December 24, 1914, but has evaded arrest until yesterday when he was taken in custody at Mecca, Ind., was the third to plead guilty.

This makes a total of 87 who have pleaded guilty and 29 not guilty.

The five republicans arrested on a separate indictment on February 10 will be arraigned on February 25. The trial of the twenty-nine, including Mayor Donn M. Roberts, and other city and county officials is set for March 8.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

TEN BILLION DOLLARS EXPENSES OF ALLIES.

London, Feb. 15.—In a statement explanatory of the arrangement made at the recent conference between the finance ministers of France and Russia and himself in Paris, David Lloyd George told the house of commons this afternoon that the expenditures of the allies of the war would be two billion pounds sterling, ten billion dollars, of which Great Britain was spending more money than were her two allies. The present war, Mr Lloyd-George said was the most expensive in material, men and money that had ever been waged.

HISTORIC STRUCTURES MENACED BY FLOODS

Rome, Feb. 15.——The flood waters in the streets around St. Peters have risen to a height of four feet and eleven inches. Several walls have collapsed, but without serious consequences. The great staircase of 300 steps in Rome leading from the Trastevere station to the Monteverde section, a hilly quarter of the city, is threatening to collapse because of undermining by the waters.

GERMANS NOW DRIVE AHEAD

Forces of Kaiser Making Headway Everywhere Says Berlin.

VIOLENT EXCHANGE OF CANNON FIRE

French Troops Use Skis in Attack on Germans on Mountain Side.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

German troops are advancing rapidly everywhere in East Prussia, the Berlin war office says in its statement today. In northern Poland also considerable gains are reported.

Petrograd military commentators assert that Russia will gain an advantage in falling back to her own territory by depriving Germany of the use of the railroads which she employed effectively in transporting troops along the front when the fighting was on German soil.

In French Lorraine the Germans achieved a local victory, occupying positions which the allies were able to recover only in part by a counter attack. Trench warfare continues with varying degrees of intensity elsewhere along the front and both the French and German was offices, in today's communications, claim small victories.

Berlin, Feb. 15.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—Winning of trenches by the Germans south of Ypres and near Sudelkopf are reported in the German official statement today. Several dozen prisoners were captured in the fighting near La Basse. In East Prussia, the Germans occupied Hiktupoenen, after driving out the enemy.

"German troops are advancing rapidly everywhere," says the statement.

Besides a number of prisoners, six guns were captured in the Vistula district, but in Poland there were no important changes.

Paris, Feb. 15.—(2:43 p. m.)—Germans bombarded the French trenches in Belium continuously and the heavy artillery of the allies damaged the mor-

7:30 p. m.—Song service led by Mr. Jones.

8:00 p. m.—Sermon by Dr. Lyon on "The Christian Soldier."

With only a few days remaining of the greatest religious campaign in the history of Fort Wayne, Dr. Lyon Sunday night in speaking to the Christians who remained for an after meeting, urged them to do their best work during the final week. Great results are anticipated. Christians were asked to take rear seats in the tabernacle that the sinner and unbeliever might have the best seats in the house.

There was a total of 127 decisions Sunday, twenty-two in the morning; forty-three in the afternoon and 127 in the evening. Dr. Lyon was greatly pleased with the day's work and is striving hard to bring the grand total up to the 5,000 mark. To accomplish this a total of 1,063 persons must take the stand during the next seven days.

"I repeat that I would be willing to drop dead on this platform if I could bring every unsaved soul in Fort Wayne to Christ," he declared. "Some of the most wicked men in this city have come out. There was a 'boozer' who took the stand the other night and I am told a saloonkeeper praised him for it and told him he had done the right thing. Tell that saloonkeeper I would like to grasp his hand."

Pupils Are Ridiculed.

"It pains my heart to hear of two or three teachers who have actually ridiculed pupils who have taken the stand for Christ," the evangelist exclaimed. "Such teachers are not fit to teach a sick cat. If I find that thing happens again, so help me God, I'll call out the names of those teachers from this platform."

Preliminary to the sermon Rev. D. H. Guild, pastor of the First M. E. church, made a plea for a liberal offering next Sunday, which will go to the evangelist. Rev. Guild explained that Dr. Lyon came to Fort Wayne without a guarantee and assumed half of the salaries of his helpers.

"I am sure every one who has come under the influence of this meeting will agree that Dr. Lyon should be well remunerated for his services," he said. "We pastors feel that the work he has done will last for years to come."

Overflow Meeting.

Hundreds were turned away from the tabernacle Sunday evening and it was necessary to hold an overflow meeting at the First Baptist church, which was presided over by Rev. H. H. Pitzer, assisted by Messrs. Upson and Sutton, who furnished the music. There was an attendance of about 400, which did not near represent the great number who could not gain admittance to the tabernacle.

There were a great many who went to the tabernacle early Sunday morning and remained throughout the entire day, taking their dinners and suppers with them.

The Unanswerable Question.

Dr. Lyon spoke Sunday evening on the subject of "The Unanswerable Question."

"I have a question that I cannot answer," he said. "It is a question you cannot answer. It is a question no soul on this earth nor the angels in heaven could answer. It is found in the words of our text, from Hebrews, 'How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?' A German rationalist lately gave as the fruit of his investigation for forty years of the Christian religion, not from the spiritual, but from the rational standpoint, that there was more evidence to substantiate the facts of the birth, the teachings, the works, the death and the resurrection of Jesus Christ than of any other facts of human history."

SOME FLASHES FROM DR. LYON'S SERMONS

It is a great thing when one realizes his massive littleness.

* * *

If the devil can't get a man any other way he packs him over with engagements.

* * *

If you are saved it will not be through force, but it will be through willingness.

* * *

You've got to come down off your high perch.

* * *

* * *

Isn't it strange you must be urged to do the thing you know you ought to do?

* * *

Your sins are not so much sins of commission as the sins of omission.

* * *

Gold is so cheap in heaven that they even pave the streets with it.

* * *

You don't need to antagonize the gospel of Jesus Christ to be lost; all you need to do is to neglect salvation.

* * *

Why don't you apply the same common sense to religion as you do to business?

FIREWORKS BALLOONS, NOT HOSTILE AIRMEN

But Canadians Refuse to Accept Explanation as Cause of Panic

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Young men, living in Morristown, on the American side of the international line, opposite Brockville, said today that shortly after 9 o'clock last night they sent up three fireworks balloons, each of which exploded high in the air above Brockville.

Ottawa, Ont., Canada., Feb. 15.—Reports today from Morristown were to the effect that it was believed there that these balloons were mistaken for aeroplanes by persons living across the line in Canada.

Residents of Brockville refuse to accept the statements made by young men of Morristown, N. Y., that balloons sent up by them last night were responsible for the report that aeroplanes had crossed the border at that point and were headed toward Ottawa. The Canadian press today received dispatches to the effect that responsible residents claimed they saw the aeroplanes cross the St. Lawrence from the United States last night and that they also saw them homeward bound at 1:30 a. m. today. The incident, it was said by the Dominion police, would be reported to the state department at Washington.

The chief of police of Ogdensburg, N. Y., twelve miles down the St. Lawrence from Brockville, had heard nothing of the passage of the aeroplanes over Brockville, or of excitement incident thereto. He said, however, that on Friday last a farmer living five miles from Ogdensburg had reported the passage of an aeroplane over his farm traveling in the direction of the Canadian border.

After receiving the report last night Premier Borden notified Col. A. P. Sherwood, commissioner of the dominion police. The lights around the parliament building, the royal mint and the residence of the governor-general were immediately ordered extinguished. This was the first time in its history that the mint has been darkened. Sharp-

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR DEAD OF MAINE

Washington, Feb. 15.—Memorial services for the dead of the battleship Maine were held in Arlington national cemetery today. Patriotic organizations and United States troops, marines and bluejackets participated.

A feature was the placing of floral tributes from President Wilson and the president of Cuba on the Maine anchor and mainmast. The third United States artillery fired a national salute during the ceremony.

Senate Orders Probe of Ship Bill Fight

Washington, Feb. 15.—Investigation of all charges of influence at work for and against the administration ship bill was ordered today by the senate.

Administration democrats and filibustering republicans voted for an investigation of the charges of lobbying by the so-called shipping trust and to inquire into any negotiations by administration officials to buy belligerent ships.

Vice President Marshall at once appointed Senators Walsh, Simmons, Reed, Burton and Weeks, three democrats and two republicans, to make the inquiry.

There are only fifteen working days left in the sixty-third congress. Some senators were of the opinion that such an investigation likely to be prolonged, made improbable the passage of the bill before March 4 and practically assured an extra session, if the president adhered to his determination to press the measure.

Talk of an extra session of congress was uppermost at the capital today, even overshadowing the administration ship bill. It seemed to be agreed on all sides that the developments of this week will decide. While the house democrats worked earnestly to clear the way for the caucus approval of the compromise ship bill tonight the senate waited and discussed processes for limiting debate. It seemed probable that a senate rule for speedy consideration of the compromise as it comes from the house might result. The republicans, however, continued to promise plenty of opposition.

Many people have room for business, society, politics and other things, but no room for the Christian life, he said.

"If you are going to rise religiously you've got to put forth the proper effort," he continued. "If some business men didn't pay any more attention to their business than they do to religion they would be bankrupt within thirty days. Why don't you apply the same common sense to religion as you do to business. You don't need to antagonize the gospel of Jesus Christ to be lost, all you need to do is to neglect salvation."

He said that salvation is for rich and poor; old and young; wise and ignorant; good and evil.

"Some of you people who are striving for gold will find when you get over to heaven that gold is so cheap that they even pave the streets with it," he declared.

At this point in the sermon Dr. Lyon stopped suddenly and exclaimed: "Don't let anyone go up and down these aisles and disturb this service for souls are at stake tonight."

Tells of Sister's Death.

Dr. Lyon told the following story of the death of his sister, which brought tears to many eyes:

"I tell this with reluctance, but it may help to bring some soul to Christ. While I was a growing boy at home, and not a Christian, my sister, three years older than myself, used to ask me to go to services with her. One Sunday evening she came in and said, 'Won't you go to church with me tonight?' I said, 'No, I won't go to church.' She replied, 'All right, Milford, I have asked you several times lately to go with me to different places, but you have refused; I'll never ask you to go again.' God knows the dear girl never did. Ten days later she was stricken with pneumonia and that dear soul went out. Many a time since that I have stood by that hillside grave and wept bitter tears."

Dr. Zartman Refused Admittance.

During the services Dr. Parley E. Zartman, extension secretary of the organization of evangelists, was refused admittance. "Let that fellow in," shouted Dr. Lyon stopping suddenly in his sermon. "He's a friend of mine." Dr. Zartman went around to the rear door and took a seat on the [illegible].

During the song service [illegible] sang as special numbers: "Wo[illegible]or Our Transgressions" and "All Hail Immanuel."

"I wish I could take this choir with me to the next stand," Mr. Jones told the members of the chorus at the close of the song service. One of the features of the song service was Mr. Jones' manipulation of his traps and drums.

Delegations of Business Men.

The business men of the city will meet at the court house Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock and will march to the tabernacle in a body, where seats will be reserved for them. If it is raining the court house will be opened for them and they can stand in the lobby. The business men are asked to meet at the north entrance to the court house.

A meeting will be held at the Bowser plant Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 2 o'clock on the time of the institution, at full pay for the men.

Sunday Afternoon.

At the meeting Sunday afternoon Rev. A. K. Zartman announced the names of the members of the committee which will have charge of the offering that will be taken next Sunday for Dr. Lyon. The committee is composed of the following: S. F. Bowser, chairman; A. H. Perfect, E. A. K. Hackett, Dr. S. H. Havice, J. O. Brown, William Lewis, L. H. Moore, J. M. McKay, C. H. Worden, E. F. Yarnelle, Morton S. Willson, William N. Ballou, Dr. William Easley, George Shidler, M. Williams, A. G. Burry, Dr. G. S. Bliss, H. E. Noble, J. W. Brewer, W. N. Beehtold and the ministers.

Rev. Zartman said that for the last three years the Ministerial association had been looking around for an evangelist to conduct a campaign in Fort Wayne. The association wanted to make no mistake and did not act hastily. Finally, he declared, a man was found who had the courage to come to Fort Wayne.

The minister declared that on Saturday night about 11 o'clock he saw an intoxicated man on the street. The fellow was mumbling to himself the word tabernacle over and over. He said he heard another man say that "if this thing continues much longer all saloons in Fort Wayne will have to go to hell."

The evangelist was praised for the great work he has been doing in Fort Wayne. He said Dr. Lyon had been working hard, as well as every member of his party, and is deserving of a liberal offering.

"We will never be able to repay Dr. Lyon and the members of his party for the work they have done in Fort Wayne," Rev. Zartman said in closing.

Story of a Business Man.

Dr. Lyon told the story of a business man's conversion Sunday afternoon, closing with a number of touching incidents that brought tears to the eyes of the majority of those in the audience. The evangelist took his text from the nineteenth chapter of Luke, the ninth and tenth verses: "And Jesus said unto him, this day is salvation come to this house for so much as he also is a son of Abraham.

"For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Conversion of Zacchaeus.

The speaker told of the great conversion of Zacchaeus, the business man. He was a busy man, but yet he had time to throw himself in the way of Christ and receive the great blessing which the Heavenly Father alone can give.

"I would rather have ten minutes of the busy man's time than a week's time of a lazy, listless man," the evangelist declared. "Sooner than you expect the cold, clammy hand of death will be laid on your shoulder and take you from your office, store or home." He told of one little girl saying: "Papa couldn't go to heaven for he couldn't leave the store long enough."

The evangelist declared it was a great thing when one realized his massive littleness. "You have got to come down off of your high perch," he said. "If you are saved it will not be through force but it will be through willingness."

It was a wonderfully convincing sermon and resulted in many going forward after the invitation was given.

"You folks who are sitting in front of me don't do a thing," the evangelist shouted while he was pleading for converts. "You don't ever cheer. Do something or hit the trail. What does it mean to you to be a Christian to stand there and soak up like a sponge!"

A wonderful testimony was given by a traveling man.

"I used to carry a whisky bottle around in my pocket for dry towns and would smoke from fifteen to twenty cigars a day," he said. "Since becoming a Christian I have no desire for these things. I have found there is a lot I can do."

Song Service.

Mr. Jones called two little girls and a little boy to the platform to sing alone. They were Evelyn Miller, 7 years old, daughter of Cyrus Miller, residing on rural route 9 out of Fort Wayne; Christina Moore, 5 years old, daughter of Olie Moore, residing at 231 East Woodland avenue, and Frederick Werremeyer, 8 years old, son of Prof. Daniel Werremeyer, 315 Federal place. Messrs. Sutton and Upson sang a duet, and Mr. Jones, in memory of the late Fanny Crosby, the blind song writer who died last week, sang "I Shall Know Him." Prayer was offered by Rev. Edward Montgomery.

Sunday Morning.

Dr. Lyon delivered one of the greatest sermons of the campaign Sunday morning at the union mass meeting at the tabernacle. He spoke on the subject, "The Deity of Christ." It was regarded by many as his masterpiece. The evangelist was to have delivered this sermon earlier in the campaign, but for some reason did not have the opportunity. It will be found in full in another part of The Sentinel. There were twenty-two decisions at this service.

Saturday Evening.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather there was another large attendance at the tabernacle Saturday night. Thirty-seven responded to the invitation.

Dr. Lyon delivered a short sermon on "Demas, the Deserter." He declared that the next ten years would decide whether America is to continue on the path of education, with its industries and culture, or fall by the wayside like all the great nations of the past.

The evangelist told the story of Demas' desertion of Paul, which was caused by his spiritual short-sightedness. Those living in cities are in great danger, he said. Too many people have a formal religion, a sort of a superficial one. They go to church on Sunday, go through a certain form of worship and expect that to last them during the remainder of the week.

"Why, friends, some care more for the things of the world than for Jesus Christ," he continued. "For instance, the girl the other night who said if she had to choose between the dance and Jesus Christ, she would take the dance."

The speaker said that in another city where he was conducting a series of meetings several society people warned him that if he didn't stop speaking so plainly they would see that he did not get much money.

"When it comes to choosing between what I am to get and the good I can do, you can take your money and go plumb to Cincinnati with it before I will stop saying what I think is right."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS, TAKE CASCARETS

No Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Cold or Constipation by Morning.

Geat a 10-cent box now.

Furred Tongue. Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good gentle cleansing, too.—Adv.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Adv.

He was a son of the late Peter Jackson, and when here was one of the best known men in the city. At one time he was employed in the Decatur municipal plant. Some years ago he went to California and located in the vicinity of Lockwood, where he engaged in ranching, and the raising of fine horses. OBITUARY.

Alexander Stanger was born in this city July 10, 1866. At the customary time he was baptized by Rev. Bowmann, of St. John's Lutheran church. He spent his boyhood days in and around Fort Wayne and after receiving the regular catechetical instruction was confirmed, when 17 years of age, by Rev. Dreyer, of Zion's Lutheran church, April 20, 1884. He learned the trade of masonry, and while at this occupation he is believed to have received the injury which brought on his demise. Four years ago he was hurt while helping in the erection of the James Smart school building. From that time on he had been ailing. Four weeks before his death he took pneumonia, and though he seemed at one time to recover, yet on last Thursday afternoon he suffered a relapse and passed quickly away Thursday evening, February 4, at 6 o'clock, just as the bells were ringing, to stand before his Creator and his Maker, at the age of 48 years, 6 months and 24 days, leaving to mourn him his mother, four sisters, four brothers and relatives. He was laid away in St. John's cemetery on Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. P. Meyer officiating.

A loved one from our home has gone,
The brother's voice now is stilled.
A chair is vacant in our home
That never, never can be filled.

BIG CHIEF CROKER AND INDIAN BRIDE RESTING ON THE TRAIL.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Croker

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and straggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.—Adv

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Luke 8:40-52.

40 And it came to pass, that, when Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him.

41 And, behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue; and he fell down at Jesus' fee, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying. But as he went the people thronged him.

43 And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neithercould be healed of any,

45 And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me.

47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace.

49 While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not: believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept, and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth.

The Legislature's Progress.

With less than four weeks of the present legislative session remaining, it is apparent that a good deal more speed than has yet been shown will have to be developed if the legislative calendar is to be cleared and if serious and intelligent consideration is to be given to measures already awaiting attention. Desks are now piled so high that there is small show for the passage of any bills that may be introduced hereafter.

In the two houses there has been a total of 789 bills introduced since the session began, and of this vast volume but five have been passed and sent to the governor for his signature. The Davis anti-lobby measure holds first place in popular interest among this number. The senate has passed 71 measures, while the house has sent up but 53 bills for the concurrence of the senate. Considerably more than half the grand total of bills still remains in the hands of committees to which they were referred, and upon the slowness with which the committees are reporting is placed blame for delay. Among those still hanging in the balance are those regarding direct primary, registration, workmen's compensation, legislative apportionment, proposed amendments to the constitution and others of like importance. Nothing but speed and continuous attention to business will enable the legislature to complete its task within the constitutional limit of time yet remaining.

Rev. Dr. Milford H. Lyon and his party of evangelistic workers have launched into the seventh and final week of the remarkable union evangelistic campaign in Fort Wayne, and the uniformly large audiences and the widespread interest show how deeply Fort Wayne has been stirred religiously by the tabernacle services. Rev. Dr. Lyon is at the head of a wonderful organization, but more than that the evangelist's individual efforts in Fort Wayne have shown him to be a preacher of unusual power and force, a student, a thinker, a logician and a pulpit orator of marked versatility and resourcefulness. He hits hard, and behind every blow is all the force and earnestness of a soul that has been militantly consecrated to the exalted work in which it is engaged.

Senator Adams charges that in voting to kill the bill of Senator Ballou, of Lagrange, reducing the salary and number of deputy game wardens some of the democrats in the Indiana legislature were merely performing in accordance with orders received from "higher up." The public is indulging in the hope that Senator Adams will be a little more specific. Just who "higher up" is giving orders to Indiana legislators nowadays?

Happily the rivers have begun to recede without touching the top notch in Fort Wayne, but another time the streams may not be so considerate. And a stage of 16.8 feet is ample to emphasize the fact that flood prevention is still a very live issue, however much we may have been lulled into fancied security.

Predictions are freely made in some quarters that Governor Ralston has a bludgeon in pickle for that racing commission bill legalizing betting in Indiana if it ever reaches his desk for signature. Once in awhile it is still possible to find a good guesser. Let us hope; let us hope.

GETTING THE HABIT.

(New York Press.)

"Buy It Now" doesn't mean buy it next month or next spring or next summer. It means buy at once, and get the benefits in better business next month, next spring and next summer.

It needs no argument to demonstrate that the country loses a vast amount of wealth by failing to produce it. The man who is idle consumes, but does not produce; consumes less than he otherwise would, but yet consumes. If his labor is worth $2 a day he adds $2 a day to the wealth of the community every day he works, and as employment is the normal, natural, proper condition of the working community it is apparent that every day of extensive unemployment means a vast loss in wealth, a loss which must be met by drawing upon existing stores.

If there are 5,000,000 unemployed workers in the country whose potential daily contribution of wealth is only $1.25 a day it means more than $6,000,000 a day sacrificed by reason of their idleness.

The point about "Buy It Now" is that employment is the most contagious thing in the world - except perhaps unemployment. Set a man at work laying brick, and he sets another man at work manufacturing and another transporting them. These set others at work producing the things they consume; and the endless chain is immediately pulling with ever-increasing power for prosperity.

Nobody doubts that times are going to be better, that new stocks of goods will be demanded, new buildings occupied, more materials required. It is just a question whether we shall wait a year for things to improve themselves or shall go to work now and improve them on the spot. There is only one answer. Prosperity would be here a week after everybody agreed that it was here.

Buy it now! Do it now! Build it now! Hire him now!

MOTOR CARS AND COST OF LIVING.

(Toledo Blade.)

It is estimated that 80,000,000 acres of farmland are devoted exclusively to raising feed for horses and mules. Though population is increasing, though more and more land is put to use, these 80,000,000 acres may prove the high mark for that particular purpose.

Many things have tended to keep up the demand for horseflesh throughout a period in which substitutes for horseflesh, the automobile and the auto-truck, have been in course of development. But there must come a point where the demand begins to decrease. For horse and mule traction cannot long maintain itself against motor traction. The competition is too strong. Invention is too ingenious and too determined and too successful. The automobile is supplanting horses in a thousand places for light and rapid transportation. The auto-truck, less rapidly, but no less surely, is being applied to the heavier transport of industry. It is inevitable that most of the carrying and hauling for which horses and mules are now depended upon, will some day and not far distant, be performed by engine-driven vehicles.

As the competition begins to make itself felt in the horse and mule markets, there will be less breeding of these animals. In turn, there will be less raising of feed for them. But the acres will not lie idle. They will be put to raising food for human beings. Thus the automobile and the auto-truck will play no small part in solving the cost of living.

The Land and Improvement company is offering a prize of $25 to the person who submits the best name for its new park across the river.

Joseph H. Brimmer, the Fort Wayne artist and sign writer, was fifty-three years old the 13th inst. He is good natured enough for thirty.

Fred H. Meyer has leased the stables on East Wayne street formerly occupied by the A. C. Perrin livery concern, and will open the business soon.

Thomas Greer has resigned his position in the county treasurer's office to take effect tomorrow. He will be succeeded by Christian Piepenbrink.

Carl Peter Swain has accepted a position as representative of the United Press at Logansport and will have charge of that press bureau's office in that city.

M. L. Jones, who now devotes his attention to photographers' supplies, has placed a new sign. It has an electrical attachment for the display of express cards. It is ingenious and reflects credit on J. H. Thompson, the electrician.

The invitations and bill of fare for the grand opening of the C. L. Centlivre new brewery Thursday afternoon were without doubt the most elaborate cards for that purpose ever issued by a Fort Wayne concern. It is said that $500 was spent on this feature alone.

COMMENT IS BIT CAUSTIC

German Press Continues to Discuss Recent American Notes.

MONTAG ZEITUNG RATHER DEFIANT

Belittles Army and Calls American Threats Ridiculous.

Amsterdam, Feb. 15.—The Montag Zeitung of Berlin, according to a dispatch reaching here from the German capital, in an article referring to the stand of the United States asks what harm America can do to Germany.

"She has no army," this paper says, "and her fleet would not dare to approach nearer our shores than does the English. The expulsion of Germans from America would mean her ruin. America's threats are simply ridiculous and it is more than ridiculous for us to take them in earnest."

This paper says it is the intention of Emperor William to be at Cuxhaven, on the North sea, on the 18th of February.

COMMENT IN BERLIN.

Berlin, Feb. 15.—The newspapers of Berlin continue commenting today upon the recent diplomatic exchanges by the United States and Great Britain and Germany concerning the protection of American shipping on the coast of the British isles. Generally they characterize the American note to Great Britain as too mild when compared with the note to Germany, but they make use of this note to support their contention that Great Britain is to blame for the situation. The Kreuz Zeitung says:

"The American note properly takes the British government to task for the contemptuous misuse of the American flag, a course which menaces the safety of neutral shipping. Therefore it is more difficult to understand what the American government wants of us. The German people will not be able to forget the questions addressed to us or the form of their asking. Our position has not changed in the slightest degree since February 4. The United States has two ways to protect herself from harm. The first is to stop Great Britain's misuse of the American flag and the second is to keep her ships and people and contraband of war out of the war zone. If she adopts this method she will not only avoid harm, but bring a quick end to the war."

The Lokal Anzeiger says: "It is evident that the United States is pressing the matter with the same forcibleness in London as in Berlin. The British have now been told fairly and squarely that the entire responsibility is upon them if American lives or property are sacrificed through misuse of the flag. There is no difference in the tone of the two notes."

On the other hand, the Morgen Post has a different opinion and calls the American note to Great Britain notably different from the German "in its soft and flute-like tone."

The Tages Zeitung says that the United States in its note to Great Britain with "helpful care" leaves England a "convenient door of escape." This paper says it does not understand why neutral powers will not see they are sawing off the branch on which they sit when they do not protest with all the means at their disposal at this disgrace of neutrality which foreshadows their destruction.

"Why do not the neutrals, with the United States at their head, demand of all the warring parties that they follow the London declaration in all its particulars. In that event the British North sea blockade would become inoperative; the contraband question would be controlled internationally and the course of action Germany intends to pursue after February 18 would no longer be necessary. "The United States should take this step," the Tages Zeitung says in conclusion, "for the reason that the expressed purpose of the declaration of London is the protection of the rights of neutrals."

Herb Tellev, of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Chicago this morning to see his aunt, Mrs. E. J. Burus, who is said to be dangerously sick. The patient was formerly a resident of Fort Wayne, going to Chicago a dozen or more years ago when her husband became the manager of the Ogden Gas company.

BULLETS FALL VERY NEAR KING NICHOLAS

Cettinje, Montenegro, Feb. 15.—The members of the royal family of Montenegro were subjected yesterday in their residence at Rieka to machine gun fire from two Austrian aeroplanes. Rieka is a village near Lake Scutari, where the royal family passes the winter. King Nicholas, the queen and the princesses watched the aerial raiders from their palace windows. Several of the bullets fired from the aeroplanes fell near them.

The Austrian fleet on Sunday morning made a sortie from the gulf of Cattaro and commenced the bombardment of the port of Antivari, Montenegro.

INVITES GERARD TO FRONT

German Emperor Would Discuss Note With American Ambassador.

Berlin (via London), Feb. 15.—Emperor William, it is reported, has summoned James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, to visit him at eastern war headquarters for a conference concerning the American note warning Germany to have regard for the safety of lives and ships at sea. The note was the outgrowth of the recent German declaration that waters about Great Britain, after February 18, would be within the zone of war.

It is regarded as probable that Mr. Gerard, with the consent of the American government, will accept the invitation.

The American ambassador has had a conference with Herr VonJagow, the German minister of foreign affairs, at the request of the latter. Nothing has been made public regarding the conference, but it is learned that the foreign office is now preparing an answer to the American note and the idea is entertained in certain quarters that Germany may suggest that the United States send an American warship to convoy American merchantmen through the danger zone, thus guaranteeing the neutrality of the vessels.

NOW PUTS IT UP TO BRITON

Not Reply to American Note.

It was stated that the note received by the ambassador today from his foreign office and promptly carried by him personally to the state department was not a reply to the recent note to Germany in regard to the war zone decree. A more comprehensive and detailed reply to that communication is expected soon, although it was not known officially here when it might be looked for.

Today's note from Germany, it was pointed out, constitutes a sort of intermediary reply, possibly presented to this government because of the fact that the date when the war zone decree goes into effect, February 18, is so close at hand.

THE FINAL WEEK OF OUR CLEARANCE SALE!

If the Evidence of the Deity of Christ Was Strong Enough To Convince Thomas, It Ought to Be Strong Enough to Convince You, Declares Dr. Lyon.

THE DEITY OF CHRIST.

John 20:28—"And Thomas answered and said unto Him, My Lord and my God."

In His company of apostles, Jesus chose every type and phase of human character. There was the intense, impetuous Peter; the precise, austere James; the matter-of-fact Andrew; the earnest, loving John; the business man, Matthew; the zealous Simon; and also the skeptic Thomas. Now I would not imply that Thomas represents the highest type of character, but I do hold that Thomas represents a very frequently found type. Wherever he is spoken of in the Scripture, it is with some expression of pessimism or doubt. When Jesus broke the news to His disciples of the death of Lazarus, Thomas exclaimed, "Let us go and die with him." And then as recorded in the fourteenth chapter of John, Jesus declared, "Whither I go ye know, and the way ye know." Thomas speaks forth and says, "Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?" Those three words, "We know not," give us the key to the character of Thomas.

Later when Mary came from the empty tomb and declared that Jesus had arisen from the dead, Thomas doubted. He remained away from the meeting when Jesus appeared to the disciples, and when they told him they had seen the Lord, he still protested and said, "Except I shall see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe." Let us note now the kindness of Jesus for the doubter. Eight days later when Thomas met with the other disciples, Jesus appeared in their midst and said to the doubter, "Reach hither thy finger and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing." Then Thomas exclaimed, in the words of our text, "My Lord and my God."

I wish this morning to organize this audience into a jury and to present to you some lines of evidences regarding the deity of Jesus Christ. The first line of testimony I would present is from prophecy. There are more than three hundred prophecies in old testament Scripture relating to the coming Messiah, and these prophecies have been centered and fulfilled in Jesus. It was foretold by Abraham of what race Christ should come, and by Jacob from what tribe. The Messiah was not to be of the lineage of the first born son Reuben, nor from the youngest son Benjamin, nor from the favorite son Joseph, but from the tribe of Judah. It was prophesied by Isaiah from what family the Christ should spring, that He was to be from the stock of Jesse. It was foretold by Micah in what city the Christ was to be born, that it was to be in Bethlehem, and it was predicted by Daniel when the Christ was to come.

You, as students of history, know of the four great world empires which followed in succession, Babylonia, Persia, Macedonia and Rome. Daniel likens these to four beasts. In speaking of the fourth beast he calls it the fourth kingdom upon the earth, and then proceeds to describe another kingdom which would arise. The kingdom of the Most High, is an everlasting kingdom. This is the kingdom of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Our second line of evidence we would draw from the teachings of Christ. His recorded utterances occupy but a small volume. They can be read almost at a single sitting, and yet they are the quintessence of truth. Thousands of books have been written with these words as their theme, and yet their wisdom has never been exhausted. There is something in these sayings of Jesus simple enough to interest the youngest child, and something profound enough to attract and satisfy the wisest sage. No one has ever scaled their highest heights, or sounded their lowest depths. These teachings were true and applicable to the first century; they are just as true and applicable to the twentieth century. In His utterances Jesus made certain definite claims.

First of all. He claimed pre-existence. He said, "Before Abraham was, I am"; and again, "What and if ye should see the Son of man ascending where He was before"; and later in that prayer, as recorded in the seventeenth chapter of John's gospel, Jesus exclaimed, "Glorify thou Me, oh Father, with the glory I had with Thee before the world was." This fact of His pre-existence marks a distinct contrast between Jesus and every other life which ever trod this earth. Someone has well said, "Be careful about your definitions." Note the distinct difference between the divinity of Christ and the deity of Christ. There are many who will acknowledge that Christ was divine. They say He was a Son of God, but in the next breath they will add: "So are we all sons of God. That is, Jesus was only one among many."

But His sonship was a difference not only in degree, but in kind. His pre-existence really separated Him from all others. You could not imagine any of the greatest men of history claiming pre-existence. Imagine a Julius Caesar, or a Napoleon, or an Alexander the Great, or a Bismarck, or a Gladstone, or a Washington offering a prayer like that, "Glorify Thou Me, oh Father, with the glory I had with Thee before the world was." What with others would seem the rankest absurdity and incongruity, appears perfectly natural and right with Jesus. Well does the apostle John begin his gospel with the statement, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was God, the same was in the beginning with God, and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld Him, the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."

The next fact that separates Jesus from all others who ever trod this earth, is His sinlessness. He said, "Which one of you convinceth Me of sin?" Other men have spoken great truths, but their lives and their words did not correspond. Rousseau, for example, gave many excellent suggestions regarding the training of children, and yet he himself put his children in an orphan asylum and never went to see them. But with Jesus, His words and works were the natural outflow of His life. If He had said He was a sinner, He would have falsified, and then He would have been a sinner. Moreover Jesus claimed omnipotence. He said, "All power is given to Me in heaven and on earth." He declared He could bring to His aid, if He desired, twelve legions of angels.

Someone says, "But what difference does it make who Jesus was, as long as He spoke great truths and performed wonderful miracles?" Now, let us see about that. A few years ago an explorer returned from the Arctic regions declaring that he had discovered the north pole. When he arrived in Denmark the people accorded him great honors, and when he reached New York he was greeted with great enthusiasm. Afterwards he stated that it was a matter of doubt whether he discovered the north pole or not. Supposing a man would come to this city claiming to be the crown prince of Germany, and the German-American citizens would receive him most hospitably and give him a royal welcome and a great banquet in his honor. This man might utter many great truths, but supposing after he left the city they would find that he was the son of a blacksmith down in southern Missouri. How long could he hold the confidence and the admiration of the people? Do you not see that it is impossible to separate the personality of the man himself from his words and deeds?

Now, either these claims are true, or else they are false. If they are true, then Jesus was no mere man. He was indeed and in truth very God of very God. But if He is not what He claimed to be then He was one of the worst humbugs and impostors the world has ever seen. Between these two positions there is no neutral ground.

Note furthermore, that Jesus claimed unity with the Father. He said, "I and My Father are one." Philip had uttered a universal longing of human hearts when he exclaimed, "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us." We can detect a tinge of sadness and surprise in the answer of Jesus, "Have I been so long with you and hast thou not known Me, Philip?" "He that has seen Me hath seen the Father." Could you imagine Shakespeare, or Bacon, or Victor Hugo, or Emmerson, or any other person who ever lived, say, "He that has seen Me has seen God Himself"? The thought would be so unreasonable as to be ridiculous. Yet with Jesus it appears perfectly natural and right. If you hold to the hypothesis that Jesus was merely a man, by that you are not going to satisfy the demands of reason, for you will find yourself confronted with a hundred difficulties and problems, where you would meet but one in accepting Jesus, according to His own claims and terms.

The next line of evidence of the deity of Christ which we would bring is from his works. Every great miracle which Jesus performed in the material world has a spiritual significance and also a beneficent purpose. Each act is a type of some great work of grace which He performs in the inner life. For example, as He stilled the tempest on the sea, so Jesus calms the storm of the human heart. As He fed the hungry with the loaves and fishes, so also He gives to men the bread of life. Each act of physical healing is a clear type of some form of spiritual disease, which illustrates how He heals the maladies of the soul. There are three instances recorded where Christ raised the dead to life. The first was the daughter of Jairus, the second was the son of the widow at Nain, and the third was Lazarus. In the first instance the breath had just left the body. This was typical of those who have only begun the life of sin. In the second instance they had already started to the cemetery when Jesus met them, laid His hand on the coffin and said, "Young man, I say unto thee, arise." This is the type of those who have started and proceeded some way on the downward career. In the third case, that of Lazarus, the body had been dead and in the grave four days. This is an example of those who have been dead in trespasses and sins. Jesus healed and raised them all.

Now, we come to the greatest miracle of Jesus, His own resurrection. Paul throws down the challenge and is content to rest the claims of Christ's deity upon this one fact. He makes a belief in the resurrection the basis of true Christian faith. Said he, "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord, and believe in thine heart that God has raised from the dead, thou shalt be saved." No matter what other great works Jesus wrought, if He remained in that tomb in Joseph's garden, and did not come forth from the dead, then He was not in the completest sense what He claimed to be.

There is no fact of history capable of such abundant proof as the resurrection of Jesus Christ. There is not a weak link in the chain of evidence. You can call to the witness stand, if you please, His enemies. Every lawyer will admit that the strongest evidence that can be obtained in any case is that which he can elicit from the witnesses called by the opposition. You will remember that the chief priest, after the death of Jesus, went to the Roman governor and said to him, "This deceiver said when He was alive that after three days He would arise from the dead. We fear that His disciples will steal away His body while we sleep and then give out the report that He has arisen, and the result will be that the second condition will be worse than the first." In response to this the governor gave orders to seal the tomb of Jesus with the Roman seal, and also that a guard of soldiers should be placed on watch at the tomb. As students of Roman history, you know that for any one to break the Roman seal without authority meant death, and of one thing you may be sure Rome always enforced her laws. A Roman guard consisted of four soldiers, who remained on duty for three hours, then were relieved by another guard who remained on duty four hours. Then the guard had nine hours for rest and sleep before they came on duty again.

You know also that for a Roman soldier to go to sleep at his post meant the punishment of certain death. You might imagine of one soldier going to sleep on duty. You might even imagine of two soldiers going to sleep, or even of three, but to suppose that all four soldiers of the guard would go to sleep at the post under penalty of death, and on duty only three hours, would be to stretch your credulity to the breaking point. Moreover, with the great cataclysm of nature that must have occurred, and the disturbance when that stone was rolled away would awaken any soldier, if this were done by human act. When the stone was rolled away and Jesus had arisen, the soldiers went to the chief priests and told them what had happened, and they gave them money and told them to give out that Christ's disciples stole away His body while they slept. Renan, the French infidel, said the faith of Christianity was centered about an empty tomb. We accept the challenge. Not until the fact of that empty tomb in Joseph's garden has been accounted for has anyone a right to claim to be an unbeliever.

A lawyer, when a crime is committed, always looks in a suspected perpetrator for a sufficient motive. The disciples of Jesus had no motive for stealing away His body. They did not comprehend as clearly as His enemies did, what He meant when He said, "Destroy this temple and in three days I will build it again." No one was nearer to Jesus than Mary Magdalene, and yet she was overcome with surprise when she went down to that tomb that first Easter morning to annoint the body of Jesus, and found the stone rolled away and the grave empty. We are told that Nicodemus and Joseph spent a large sum of money, equal to thousands of dollars in the values of our day, to purchase costly ointments to embalm the body. If they had had the least idea that Jesus was going to come forth from the grave on the third day, they never would have spent that sum, neither would they have wrapped the body in a hundred pounds weight of ointments, for in place of being a help to resurrection, all those wraps and weights would naturally prove a hindrance.

We are told that when the disciples came and inspected the empty tomb they found the grave clothes folded and the napkin which was upon His face folded and laid in a place by itself. Did this look like the work of body snatchers, when right there by the tomb were the Roman soldiers eager to thrust a spear through anyone who would dare to tamper with that tomb?

Let us cite just another proof of resurrection, among many which might be stated. When Jesus was crucified, all His disciples forsook Him and fled. Their hopes were shattered, they were disheartened and discouraged. What power and influence could have been strong enough to have brought together again that band of scattered disciples, and inspire them with a faith and give them strength and courage to go out during the first century to testify for Christ? In the first chapter of his first epistle, the apostle Peter reveals the secret when he says, "There has been begotten in us again a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." You can challenge any skeptic to find any other act or motive strong enough to have accomplished these results. And the central message of their testimony, after the disciples went out during the first century, was to witness to the resurrection of Jesus. Paul declared in the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians that after Jesus arose from the dead He appeared to as many as five hundred people at one time, of whom many were living when Paul recorded this statement.

Two great English lawyers, West and Littleton, were both unbelievers. West said to his friend, "Littleton, if we can destroy the faith of Christians in two beliefs, that of the conversion of Saul of Tarsus, and also the resurrection of Jesus Christ, we can overthrow Christianity. If you will take Saul's conversion and disprove it, I will do the same with the resurrection of Jesus." They agreed. Months afterwards, when they came together, West said, "Littleton, how did you come out?" He replied, "I did not come out at all as I expected to. I thought I could write a treatise on the conversion of Saul, who became the apostle Paul, that would disprove it entirely. I said to myself, 'As I begin this investigation I must disabuse my mind of all prejudice and face the facts as I find them.' I am convinced that Saul was converted on the Damascus road, as it is recorded in the Acts of the Apostles, and moreover I have received Paul's Christ as my Christ. How did you come out?" "It is strange," replied Mr. West, "that our experiences would be so similar. I have devoted much time and thought these months to making a careful investigation of the evidences regarding the resurrection of Jesus. There is not a single weak link in that chain of testimony. Not only am I convinced that Jesus Christ arose from the grave, but also I have received Him as my personal Savior and Lord." These two lawyers wrote their books, which are still extant in English libraries, but in place of being arguments against the deity of Christ and Christian faith they are strong witnesses in its support.

If time would permit, I would like to introduce a line of evidence which is even stronger yet, and that is regarding the life of Jesus. The greatest thing that Christ ever said or what He did was what He was. You cannot classify Him among the great historians and statesmen and philosophers. He is in a class by Himself. He has no second. He is the one universal Man. He is the most ancient of the ancients, and the most modern of the moderns. It is the glory of Jesus that He can be everything to everybody. Paul expressed it well when he said, "It pleases the Father that in all things Jesus should have the pre-eminence."

But the evidence and argument which seemed to me even more convincing than all these was regarding the influence of the words and works, the life and death of Jesus Christ upon the centuries since. Our faith in Christ rests not only upon what He was, but what He is. Eliminate everything from the history of the last twenty centuries that pertains to Christ and His gospel, and you would have left but a poor, emasculated remnant. Take out of music and art everything that relates to the religion of Christ, and what would remain? Take out of literature all that deals with Christ and Christian faith, and the remainder would be pitiable for its poverty. Well did Lowell say, "Show me a spot on this earth ten miles square where manhood is respected, where womanhood is honored, where civilization is advanced, and I will show you a place where Jesus Christ, the Son of God, has first gone and paved the way." The idea of Jesus Christ being merely a man has never sent its messengers around the world to uplift heathen and savage people. That has been the work of the missionaries, who firmly believed in Jesus as a crucified and a risen Savior.

It was the consideration of this truth that was the means of my own conversion. Although reared in a Christian home, my early life was spent in a community where the predominant influence was Unitarian, and I went away to school to a state university an unbeliever. During the first two years of my college course I doubted and denied the facts of orthodox Christianity. One day during a discussion upon this subject with a Christian friend, he asked me if I would not go with him the next Sunday to the mission Sunday school, and see the power of the gospel of Christ in active operation. I smiled as I replied, "Oh, no, I do not care to go to Sunday school. I gave that up years ago." But when he came around to my room the next Sunday afternoon, he was so courteous and earnest that I was loath to refuse him. On our way out to the mission that afternoon he told me how it happened to be started. It was among the Bohemians on the outskirts of that college town. A young Bohemian, a teacher of natural science in the high school, an infidel, seeing the pitiable condition of his own people and desirous to do something to help them, formed a plan to speak to them on Sunday afternoons on subjects connected with natural science. He talked upon birds and plants and animals, sometimes in English and sometimes in Bohemian, and aroused considerable interest. But before long he had told them everything that he knew upon these subjects that were simple, that they could understand. When he got into more abstract and complex matters they lost interest and the attendance dropped off. Finally he had to close the doors and quit.

It was then that some of the Christian students of the university conceived the plan of starting a Sunday school in that community. It had been running perhaps two years when I visited it. This young man, with whom I went, was the superintendent, and in going about that hour from class to class, and noting the interest and instruction, I plainly saw that those people were being lifted to a higher life. On our way home, this young man said to me, "Well, Lyon, what did you think of it?" I said, "You are doing a good work there; keep it up. Anything that tends to help people I am in favor of." "Well," said he, "I want to ask you a question. What other principle or power is there that will meet these tests of being permanent, vital and effective, that you can take to any individual or any class of people and lift them to a higher life, but the gospel of the crucified and risen Son of God?" "Oh," I replied, "that is all right, but there are many other principles just as good." "Well, what are they?" he asked; "don't answer this hastily. Think over it." I confess I was not willing to answer. I had nothing that I could point to specifically that would take the place of the religion of Christ. I was willing to do as we used to when we played football and our wind gave out in the middle of a game. I wanted to "play for time."

For weeks I ransacked the university library, looking up different ethical and philosophical movements. I was seeking to find something which would prove a satisfactory substitute for Christianity. I found a great many enterprises which started out with good prospects and intentions, but they would not meet the first test of being permanent. Also they lacked vitality. They were like the egg which the chemist made. In every particular it seemed just like a hen's egg, and he even put the lining of membrane inside the shell, but when he put it into an incubator along with a hen's egg, the one hatched a chicken, but the other one didn't. I was very much dissatisfied with my investigations. I wanted no more to do with that young man. But as fortune would have it, not long afterward as I was out for a walk after supper I met him. He greeted me cordially and turned around to walk along with me. In a few moments he turned the conversation to our former subject, and he asked, "Well, what have you found that will take the place of the gospel of Christ?" I replied reluctantly, "I have found nothing that satisfies me. I found many movements which started out with good prospects, but they failed to meet those tests." "Now, Lyon," said he, "you have been in the logic class; you have here a major premise and a minor premise. You declared to me in a previous conversation that you were going to live to do what good you could. Now, by your own admission, you declare that you can find nothing that will take the place of the gospel of Jesus Christ, nothing that is permanent, vital and effective, that you can take to an individual or a class of people to lift them to a higher life. If you are honest and sincere, what ought to be your attitude toward the gospel of Christ?" I had heard sermons since childhood, but they had had little impression on my mind. Here was an argument that I could not answer. I parried its force as best I could, but it was an arrow that struck the mark.

Some weeks afterward, Mr. S. M. Sayford, of Boston, who was for ten years an evangelist for college students, came to our university. I went to hear Mr. Sayford speak to the students about a higher plane of Christian living. The next day this young man came to see me and said, "Would you not like to meet Mr. Sayford personally?" I said, "Why, yes, I would like to congratulate him upon the excellent talk he gave to you fellows last night, scoring your shortcomings." He greeted me cordially and said, "Well, Lyon, are you a Christian?" I replied, "I think I am as good a Christian as the other fellows are." You see, I was trusting in my own self-righteousness. "Do you believe in Jesus?" "Oh, I believe He was a good man." I retorted. "Well, He was not a good man if He was a liar." "Oh, no, I do not believe He was a liar. I believe He spoke the truth." "Where did you get that impression?" he asked. I did not want to say from the Bible, so I said, "Josephus speaks about it." "Only a few lines," he replied. "Well, then, there are the gospels," I added. "Oh," he said, "do you believe the gospels?" "Well," I said, "I accept them as history, the same as I do Herodotus, or Plutarch, or Gibbon." "Then, let us see what the gospels say about Christ," said he. So for an hour we sat there, side by side, reading passages from the gospel account of the life of Jesus. Frequently I interrupted his reading by saying, "All that seems reasonable, but I do not believe the resurrection." At last he marshalled the Scripture evidence upon that subject until I was forced to admit that the proof and testimony seemed beyond dispute.

Then he turned to me and said, "Lyon, do you not believe that Jesus Christ arose from the dead?" I replied, "I will have to acknowledge for the first time in my life, I believe that is true."

"Then if Jesus Christ rose from the dead, He was no mere man," added Mr. Sayford, "He was what He claimed to be, the Son of God." "Yes," said I, "that is true, too." "Then if He is the Son of God, He is worthy to be your Savior. Will you not accept Him?" I grasped his hand and replied, "I will." From that moment to the present, I have never had the least doubt upon this subject of the Godship of Jesus.

Still there was a struggle to come. I had been known in that university as an unbeliever, and it was not easy to step out before hundreds of my college friends, admitting that I had been on the wrong track, and confessing my faith in Christ. But I got no real peace or joy until I did. And if I have done anything to make this old world better, it has been since that time.

"Oh," says some one, "if I could have been in that upper room when Jesus entered, in the presence of His disciples, if I could have thrust my finger into the nail prints and my hand into the wounded side, then I would have believed." My friend you were not there, but you had an attorney on the ground. Thomas went to the limit of unbelief. He doubted that you and I might not doubt. If the evidence was strong enough to convince him that Jesus had risen, and caused him to go forth with an earnest testimony to this fact, even, as tradition says, to a martyr's death; if the evidence was strong enough to convince that supremest of skeptics, Thomas, it ought to be strong enough to convince you and me. Shall we not then this morning acknowledge our allegiance to Him, before angels bow in homage and from our hearts exclaim, with Thomas, "My Lord and my God."

Mrs. Clem J. Lamont, of West Main street, gave the first of two beautiful bridge parties of this week, this afternoon, with valentine appointments. The general plan of coloring was red and emphasizing the color and the valentine idea were festoons of red paper hearts of different sizes in all the rooms, while pots of blooming plants, ferns and vases of flowers were arranged tastefully. When a supper of tempting preparation was served in several courses the card tables were decorated with crystal vases of red roses, smilax and Japanese lilies. Valentine tally cards for the tables and individual score cards were other pretty things of this delightful auction bridge affair, which nearly thirty ladies enjoyed.

Mrs. Herbert W. Fee was given a post-nuptial party this afternoon by Miss Marie Landenberger, at her home in Fairfield avenue. Auction bridge was the amusement. Jonquils, tulips and other spring flowers filled the vases and offset any sign of the dreary skies that one got on her way to the party. There were players for six tables and the guests were Mrs. Fee's particular young friends.

Miss Flossie Erhart and Miss Fern Elder gave a bus party on Saturday evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gebhart, several miles west of the city. All enjoyed a very pleasant time. Games were played and the prize winners were Miss Anna Sherzinger and George Waldschmidt. A splendid supper was served. There were present Misses Flossie Erhart, Fern Elder, Eva Elder, Bessie Kennedy, Rose Offerle, Carrie Haag, Florence Sites, Bertha Griner, Anna Sherzinger, Nora Creek, Bernadine Harkenrider, Flora Beverforder, Goldie Hessinger, and Jack Boschet, George Waldschmidt, Kurt Stahn, William Rentschler, Fred Barva, Fred Piepenbrick, Charles Gebhart, Carroll Elder, Ross Kennedy, Mr. Tracey, Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Porter.

Kreisler Date Is April 12.

The arrangements for having the famous violinist, Fritz Kreisler, give a concert in this city on April 12 are progressing rapidly. Mr. Kreisler will probably play in the New Palace. Tickets are to be on sale at once as the necessity of Mr. Kingman, under whose management the artist appears, is to know upon what he can depend in the way of an audience. Mr. Kreisler has been playing to big houses in Chicago and his appearance in Fort Wayne will be a great musical event.

BUNDLE DAY TOMORROW

Fort Wayne Giving Clothing and Bedding to Unemployed.

Bundle day means that out of your closets and trunks of out-grown clothing or partly worn clothing and from your stored away bedding you can find something to make a bundle to give to the people of this city who by reason of lack of employment are without funds to buy many things much needed. The time to give is today and tomorrow and the bundles, which should be marked with contents and ages suitable to give the contents to, will be left at some one of the numerous drug stores mentioned in the papers and will be collected and distributed on Wednesday. The central station is the storeroom in the Shoaff building, formerly occupied by Dallas F. Green. W. C. Dodds, manager of the Jefferson theater, has not only offered the theater as a place of depositing bundles, but also will furnish some of the automobiles tomorrow to use in collecting. The demand for warm clothing is especially needed just now. Many people can give if they will think to do so. The Sophie B. Wright circle of young women is in charge of the collecting and distributing.

AT THE NEW PALACE

A typical B. F. Keith bill of vaudeville that is vaudeville inaugurated the fourth big week at the New Palace this afternoon when the varied and novel program headed by John P. Conroy and his diving models opened a week's engagement. The Conroy attraction is unquestionably the greatest act of its character every attempted on the stage with a setting that alone cost $3,500 and requires from ten to twelve hours to erect. The Marvelous Manchurians, the greatest Chinese acrobats in the world; Charles E. Evans and Helene Phillips in "A Forgotten Combination," a little one-act farce; Herman Timberg, the versatile comedian of "School Days" fame; Frank Mullane, the celebrated character actor; Clark and McCullough, a pair of burlesquers, and a wealth of other attractions serve to make this new bill one of the New Palace's best.

AT THE EMPRESS.

A real show and one that appeals to all the people in the city, is now on view at the Empress theatre. This show for the first half of the week has a bunch of real live acts. For instance, there is Fort Wayne's favorite, Happy Jack Gardner and his company, in "A Close Call," a real novelty in the way of sketches, that first shows the outside of a theatre and then one of the dressing rooms where Gardner is seen making up as a black face comedian. After this he comes out and does a regular black face act. Later he is again seen in his dressing room. A mighty interesting story runs through the sketch.

The Broadway Four sing and pull some funny stuff that is really funny, and also make one of the biggest hits ever made by an act of this character in this city.

AT THE TEMPLE.

The Temple this week is presenting a Columbia wheel burlesque show of unusual excellence in "The Girls From the Follies," featured by Harry Steppe. The "Girls" present a two-act musical farce, "The Lady Pirates," and a series of high class vaudeville specialties. The chorus contains about the prettiest bunch of girlies that ever have appeared in a Temple show. If you want to enjoy a really wholesome laugh, a laugh that will make you forget your troubles, don't fail to see Steppe drill his awkward squad in this show. Harry Steppe, the principal comedian, as a laugh producer, is second to none. He handles his material well and his dancing is superbly funny.

AT THE LYRIC.

"413" is back at the Lyric; the most spectacular melodrama ever projected onto a screen has been booked back for today only by Manager Harry Fitzpatrick in response to the insistent demands of the movie fans who watned to see it again or keenly regretted having missed it on its first appearance at the Lyric. The struggle in the locomotive cab and the train wreck are two of the best bits of realism ever filmed.

The Lyric today also is offering two big comedy numbers with this "413" melodrama. "The Gang's New Member" and "Two Dinky Little Dramas of a Non-Serious Mind" taken from one of George Ade's "Fables in Slang."

AT THE JEFFERSON.

GABY DESLYS IN "HER TRIUMPH"

World Famous Danseuse Charms in Brilliant Photoplay.

Gaby Deslys, the lovely and artistic little dancer, who leaped from comparative obscurity into the brilliance of fame's lime-light, in almost the twinkling of an eye, came to the Jefferson last evening and scored a veritable triumph in a magnificent photo-drama produced under the direction of the Famous Players company. "Her triumph" furnishes ample opportunities for Gaby to display the marvelous dancing ability which has made this branch of her personal art so pronouncedly celebrated. Gaby is given able assistance in both her dancing and acting by Harry Pilcer and a cast of some two or three hundred others.

Following Gaby on the morrow comes Wilton Lackaye, the noted character actor, in an important visualization of Israel Zangwill's play, "The Children of the Ghetto." On Wednesday and Thursday John Emerson appears in a charming love story by Martha Morton, "The Bachelor's Romance."

AT THE COLONIAL

"THE PRICE HE PAID"

The Humanology company, of New York City, an association of sociologists, have taken the famous poem of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's, "The Price He Paid," and in five telling reels of motion pictures have given to the youth of America a photographic object lesson that bites deep into an evil that is one of the greatest immoral conventions in the world. The play resembles Brieux's "Damaged Goods" in theme somewhat, although the story is not by any means so sordid—the bitter facts are there, however, and the person who can leave a theatre after seeing this stirring drama and not carry with them profound impressions is surely perverted.

"The Price He Paid" remains at the Colonial for this day only, being followed on the morrow by Charles Richman in "The Idlers." Richman is assisted by a notable cast, including Claire Whitney, Catherine Countiss and Stuart Holmes.

Coffins are being made of paper in France, cheapness and lightness being their advantage.

ITALY FACES A NEW PERIL FROM FLOODS

Rome, Italy, Feb. 15—Italy, having just passed through a period of grave anxiety as a result of destructive earthquakes, is now facing a new peril in the form of floods. Everywhere streams are out of their banks, due to heavy rain storms which have continued for several days. In the low lying quarters the people have been driven from their homes or are prisoners in the upper stories of their houses. The military authorities have taken cognizance of the situation and troops have been sent to aid in rescue work and to provide food to sufferers cut off from supplies.

In Rome the river Tiber is more than fifty feet out of its normal banks and is rising at the rate of two inches an hour. The one bright spot is that the weather early today showed signs of clearing and this gives hope that the waters will soon recede.

The Leonine city, as the vatican quarter of Rome is called, is in the lower part of the town and this section is generally flooded. The water, however, has not reached the apostolic palace or St. Peter's. Pope Benedict is taking a sympathetic interest in the situation and has instructed all the parish priests to display the greatest energy in aiding their distressed parishioners. The pope himself spent a good deal of his time Sunday in watching the rising waters in the quarter just below the palace.

Two hundred patients in the hospital near the vatican have been removed to upper floors of the building because of the flood. Some fear is expressed that the rising water may cause the building to collapse.

Great anxiety is felt today for the famous St. Angelo bridge, built over 300 years before Christ, as it is inundated and water also surrounds the imposing basilica of St. Paul's. The Sublicius bridge, the structure supposed to have been defended by Horatius and two companions, is also under water. This is the oldest bridge in Rome, having been built in the year 639 B. C.

GO TO INVESTIGATE BAD PISTOL BATTLE
Manchester, Ky., Feb. 15.—A squad of officers left here today to investigate a report that two men had been shot and killed, and a third fatally wounded during a pistol battle Sunday at a remote point near the Knox county line.
Ten men are said to have quarreled over differences at cards. In the fusillade of shots that followed, it is reported that Letcher and Beverly White, members of a prominent southwestern Kentucky family, were killed, and Beverly Bailey was so badly wounded he cannot recover.

ONE KILLED, 25 HURT IN CARNIVAL RIOTS
Washington, Feb. 15.—One Panama policeman was killed and twenty-five persons—twenty-three of them Americans—were wounded in the carnival riot at Panama. Major General Wood today forwarded to Secretary Garrison this report of Brig. Gen. Edwards, in command of the zone forces:
"In a carnival riot at Panama City between Panamians, soliders and Americans, twenty-three Americans were wounded, two from gunshot wounds. One Panama policeman was killed and two wounded."
Gen. Edwards also reported he was investigating with Panama officials and it was hard to fix the blame.

HINTS AT BLOODY PURPOSE IN MIND

Tom Dolan Says He Will Do Something That Will Hang Him.

After being given a fine of $10 and costs and ten days in jail by Judge Kerr in the city court, Monday morning, Tom Tolan was led back to a cell where he bewailed the fate that had linked him to his wife and said that as soon as he was out of jail he would stage a dark and horrid deed that would bring him right back to court and that hanging would be the penalty. He was penalized on a charge of disorderly conduct following a bitter all-night quarrel with his wife. He had called the police and when Night Stationmaster Bert Brown went to the Tolan home on East Wayne street to quiet affairs, Tolan cut loose with such an indescribably foul line of talk that he was arrested. Twenty-five days in jail will probably cool his mind.

Robbed His Kind Friend.

Martin Thompson, of Garrett, Ind., who has been hanging around Fort Wayne for two or three weeks, went to the home of Rank Emery, 820 Wells street, where he was a roomer when living in this city, and asked permission to use Mr. Emery's shaving outfit to fix himself up nice and neat. He was accommodated and sat down at a sewing machine on which was placed a shaving mirror. Mr. Emery was absent from the room most of the time. After Thompson had gone a pocketbook containing $13.30 was found to be missing from the drawer of the machine. Chief Lenz was notified of the theft and later arrested Thompson on Clay street. Thompson made an elaborate and complex denial on the witness stand, but appearances were all against him and he was fined $10 and costs and given twenty days in jail.

Stole an Overcoat.

Harry Allen, employed as a timekeeper of a gang of linemen working on the Pennsylvania railroad at Warsaw, stole an overcoat from the barroom of the Centlivre hotel Saturday night and was arrested by Officer Charles Eisenhut just as he was about to take a midnight train to go on to Pittsburg, to which city he had an employe's pass. Allen said he had left one eastbound train here to get a shave, had fell in with friends and got drunk. He asserted that he had left his overcoat in a saloon and took the one he stole to get even. The garment was the property of Francis Brandon, a guest at the Centlivre. Allen drew $10 and costs and ten days on a petit larceny charge.

Other City Court Cases.

Pat O'Brien, the aged inebriate who signalized a spree Saturday by smashing about $90 worth of plate glass windows in Jack Brown's saloon, 106 East Columbia street, was continued until Tuesday on a charge of malicious trespass.

Of a big mess of drunks the following were disposed of: John Burke, $1 and costs; Bill Horstman, $5 and costs; John Thomas, $1 and costs; Harry Lamb, $5 and costs; John Affolder, $5 and costs; Charles Miller and Tom Davis, continued to the 18th inst. under bond; Ed Sullivan, Albert Kerchner, George Rogers, Tod Cass, Duffy Gonger, Fred Salmon and Charles Keely, turned loose.

Earl Sudestrom, an 18-year-old lad who said he had run away from home in Chicago because his mother made him scrub floors at home, was allowed to go out and find a farmer friend of his family, where he said he believed he could get work. The man he was looking for lives west of the city.

Dave Black, who peddles medicine and keeps drunk, was up on a loitering charge and was given permission to leave town.

Harry Black, a youth from Tiffin, O., where his father is a policeman, was continued until Friday under $200 bond. A drunk charge against him will be changed to obtaining money by false pretense or larceny. He flim-flammed several saloon keepers with a short change game.

George R. Hudson, the farm hand who after losing his job with W. S. Scherer, a farmer living north of Robison park, came to the city and kept up a prolonged debauch on funds he obtained by negotiating checks to which he had signed Scherer's name, was continued until the 18th under $500 bond. Hudson is on the verge of tremens following his terrible debauch.

Ray Jackson, who was arrested while trying to pawn an $80 diamond ring, was continued on a loitering charge, pending the arrival of an officer from Fulton county, Ohio, where Jackson is wanted for burglary. Jackson is also wanted in Wabash county, Indiana, on a similar charge.

WILL RUN SPECIAL CAR.

Electric Railway Association to Meet at Indianapolis.

A special car will be run out of Fort Wayne over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line for Indianapolis on the afternoon of February 24 on account of the annual meeting of the Central Electric Railway association to be held at that place on February 25 and 26. The special car will have on board the representatives from the interurban lines in Northern Indiana and Northern Ohio. Officials of the Fort Wayne interurban lines will attend the meeting.

ITEM WELCOMED BY MANY MEN

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act naturally and rationally as others do-because the treatment consisting of grain tablets can be obtained and taken without the knowledge of any one. If the reader has any of the symptoms, and decides to try it just go to any large well stocked drug store and ask for three-grain Cadomene Tablets, and then take according to the directions which accompany each sealed tube. The tonic-invigorating power is soon felt and the joy of a healthy body experienced. These tablets, originally dispensed by prominent physicians and pharmacists, now are packed with full directions for self administration, so that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing them.

The ladies of the K. of L. of S. will give a public pedro party in the Buffalo hall, 120 West Berry street on Thursday afternoon.

NO FURTHER DANGER OF ANOTHER FLOOD

The rivers in Fort Wayne are gradually going down and all danger of a flood at this time seems to be over. The gauge Monday morning stood at 15.8 after reaching a stage of nearly seventeen feet at noon hour Sunday.

According to O. J. Wyatt, 646 Baltes avenue, whose house is the first to be surrounded by water when the streams overflow and who keeps in close touch with the situation whenever the rivers begin to rise, says there is no longer any cause for alarm. Two or three houses on Baltes avenue are still surrounded by water.

No rain is in sight, according to Forecaster W. S. Palmer, clear weather being predicted for Monday night and Tuesday.

Spring Fashion Notes

In America it is every woman's duty to buy just as nearly as possible all that she can afford to buy, thus helping American workers in factories and stores.

We cannot look to Paris this season for styles. There are new and beautiful ideas in plenty designed in America for American women, as they should be.

The new skirts have a trim effect fitting closely about the hips with a flare or ripple about the ankles. Some are two and one-half yards wide, some five yards, according to the material.

New blouses and waists are no longer cut away at the neck. If they are they are to be worn with net guimpes that have standing collars. Many new waists of fine white washable fabrics with dainty embroidery are shown.

Black and white is in high favor. The clean-looking shepherd's checks make refined and becoming suits.

One of the smart new wrinkles is to have a blouse or waist made for one's two-piece suits to match the jacket lining. The new checked and figured silks are specially appropriate for this clever idea.

For summer dresses the new American made cottons in white and colors are bewitchingly fetching. They will make anybody look dainty and feminine. Look at any picture of the nicest grandmother you know when she was young, make your frock something like hers and you will be "in the picture."

Millinery features are small sailor poke, toque, tricorne and military shapes, liseri straw and other braids. Small floral trimmings and compact feather effects.

Popular shades this season are of the neutral or soft character, such as sand, putty and tan. Various shades of blue from navy to Dutch and other colors in soft tones are in demand.

Spring Dress Goods

In dress fabrics for Spring the choice of selection is larger than ever before. The beautiful new weaves are now shown in a complete range of colors. Among the popular weaves will be found, Serges, Silk and Wool Poplins, Silk and Wool Crepes, Needle Cloth, stripe effects, Crepe Poplin, Melrose, Gaberdine, Shepherd Checks, etc. The favorite new shades are Delaware Pink, Nevada Silver, Tuxedo Brown, Palm Beach Sand, Mountain Blue, Piping Rock, Oregon Green, Newport Tan and Gettysburg Gray.

We offer very special qualities at

$1, $1.25 and $1.50 a Yard

Spring beauty in wash dress fabrics will be on display in all their freshness this week. It's not too early to begin planning the Spring and Summer wardrobe and we are sure that the atractiveness of these new Spring fabrics will tempt you to buy while the dew of freshness is on them. Among the new fabrics will be found Palm Beach cloth, reception voile, silk poplin, crepe de chine, Irish poplin, fancy voile, etc., in styles and prices that will please.

TWO INSTITUTES TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Annual Meetng of Farmers of Scipio and Jackson Townships Are Next.

Two farmers' institute meetings are scheduled to be held this week. On Wednesday the farmers of Scipio township will meet in the North Scipio M. E. church, the principal speakers being J. A. Driscol, of Liberty; Mrs. Morton W. Fordice, of Russellville, and C. Henry, county agent of Allen county.

The farmers of Jackson township will meet at Townly on Thursday at which time Mr. Henry will be one of the principal speakers.

Two meetings are scheduled for next week, the first at Leo in Cedar Creek township on Tuesday and the second at Hunfertown in Perry township on Wednesday. Mr. Henry will speak at both meetings.

A movement is on foot for two more institutes for next year in Wayne and Milan townships. At the present time there are only ten institutes out of twenty townships.

Completes Dates.

Mr. Henry has completed the dates for the lectures to be delivered in Allen county on March 4 and 5 by D. O. Thompson, of Purdue university, state secretary of stallion registration. The schedule is as follows: Thursday, March 4, 9:30 a. m., Blume school, St. Joseph township; 2 p. m., Center schoolhouse, Adams township; 7:30 p. m., school No. 2, Jefferson township; Friday, March 5, 9:30 a. m., Huntertown M. CARRY TWO FROM BUILDING.

While walking on East Berry street Saturday evening at 8:45 o'clock Sergeant of Police David Blum and Charles McCoy, engineer at No. 3 engine house, saw smoke rolling from the windows of the second story of the Loesch building at 134 East Berry street. They dashed up the stairway and through the smoke filled corridors to the third floor, where they found Miss Juanita Sloane and Mrs. Carrie Schull panic stricken, and carried them to safety.

The blaze had its origin in a small room on the second floor of the building used by the Olympic Candy Kitchen as a storehouse for candy boxes, paper bags and supplies. What was not burned was ruined by water, and A. D. Politis, the proprietor, estimates his loss at $300.

STATE TITLE GAME AT CONCORDIA GYM

Zanesville and Indianapolis to Hook Up for Independent Championship.

Zanesville will meet the Em-Roes of Indianapolis at Concordia college gym on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 27, in one of the series that will decide the championship of the state of Indiana.

Manager C. E. Weaver has just completed negotiations for this affair and he and his flying squadron are confident that they can land the title.

There is little doubt of the prowess of the Em-Roes as the club has cleaned up the best in Indiana and is regarded in basketball circles as the cream of the clubs in the state.

Manager Weaver and some of the members of his club have watched the club in action and they expect a tough series but are going into the battle with all the confidence on earth.

Two or three games will be arranged in the meantime to keep the players on edge and it is likely that one of them will be against the Lyceum outfit.

JUNIOR LEAGUE STANDING.

Teams.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
P. B. Maroons	5	1	.833
T. O. P.'s	5	1	.833
Rexalls	4	1	.800
Nationals	4	1	.800
Aeolians	2	4	.333
Olympics	2	4	.333
Bachelors	1	5	.166
Wayne Knits	0	6	.000

The results of last week's games follow: Olympics won from Wayne Knits 13 to 10; T. O. P.'s from Aeolians 23 to 19; Maroons from Bachelors 18 to 4; Rexalls from Olympics 26 to 9; Maroons from Aeolians 47 to 20; T. O. P.'s from Bachelors 23 to 20. The last three were postponed games and the Rexall-National contest was postponed.

Bauerle is now eligible to play with the T. O. P.'s, Henline with the Wayne Knits, Degitz with the Maroons and Mox Irmscher with the Nationals. New names that have been submitted to Secretary Getz are Art Ross, eligible to play with the Rexalls on Feb. 23, and F. Schulte with the Olympics Feb. 25.

The pairings for this week's games are: Rexalls vs. Bachelors, T. O. P.'s vs. Nationals, Wayne Knits vs. Aeolians and Olympics vs. Maroons.

There has been some talk of dividing the season in two parts but because of the ties at the top of the standing column this procedure was deemed unwise and a straight schedule will be played.

A junior league game is on for Monday night at St. Paul's auditorium when the Nationals and Rexalls play a postponed game. There will be a preliminary which will start at 8 o'clock. Thursday night the Nationals play the T. O. P.'s in the preliminary to the St. Paul's-St. Mary's contest.

Game With University.

Manager Fischer, of the Concordia college five, announces that he has booked the Capital university team of Columbus, O., for Saturday night of this week at the college gym. The Capital squad won quite handily from the Concordians a year ago, but this winter's outfit at the college is considerably stronger and will at least hustle the seminarians from the Ohio city. The Capital university club has a large following in this city and one of the local Lutheran churches has purchased a block of one hundred seats and will be represented at the game with hopes of seeing the seminarians slip across another victory at the expense of the clever Concordian crowd. The local students are extremely anxious to win this match and they will put in some strenuous practice periods in preparation for this game.

Issue Challenge.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton).

Clark Griffith, the "old fox," leader of the Washington team, is a type of manager unlike any other. In spite of the fact that most of the prophets have decided that Grif's chance for a pennant with his present team is growing more and more dim, he may fool them and bring back a club that appears to be fading away without achieving a championship.

He first showed up in baseball twenty-three years ago, a little, dark skinned fellow with big eyes who seemed too small to be a real pitcher. He was about 17 then, and came from Normal, Ill., just outside of Bloomington.

He had been taught the art of pitching by "Hoss" Radbourne, one of the greatest of the veterans. He went to Milwaukee, back to Chicago, was sent to Portland, and after a great season there came back to Chicago, where for years he was recognized as the master pitcher of the craft, the headiest, wisest of them all. He developed and used the slow ball beyond all others, using also a sort of emery ball achieved by scuffling the ball against his spikes.

He was the "anarchist" of the team, always leader in fighting for the players. He was the leader of the players' union in 1397, and in 1900 jumped to Comiskey's new Chicago team, the White Sox, to manage it.

Then he took the New York Highlanders, came within one game of a pennant and faded away. Cincinnati tried him and he failed, and went to Washington. There he became part owner and, changing utterly from his viewpoint of the player, became one of the most violent opponents of anything savoring of rival organizations or higher salaries.

As a manager Grif has but one fault. His memory is too long. If a player makes a blunder on April 27 Grif will remember it and throw it up to the player in October. The strain of managing appears to have rasped his nerves. His hair turned gray in one season at Cincinnati, and he holds the record of taking twenty-eight drinks of water in four minutes in a crisis of a game.

He has one great ambition; desire to win a pennant for Washington; and one great passion—loyalty to his old friends.

Outside of baseball Grif is one of the most popular of the men of the game, quick witted, clever in repartee and appreciative.

LYCEUM WILL TAKE CRACK AT GERMANS

Manager 'Gene Lennart has just completed arrangements under which the Ottawa Germans will play the Lyceum five at St. Patrick's hall on Tuesday evening of this week.

This is the same team that has beaten Concordia and St. Mary's Athletics this season and is looked upon as one of the strongest of the independent organizations in this vicinity.

ESCAPE FROM PRISON

Members of Lawton-Wayne post, Grand Army of the Republic, celebrated the escape of Comrade Stephen Chase, who served as corporal of company K, 12th Indiana volunteers, from confederate prisons. As is his custom Comrade Chase gave a banquet and a most delightful afternoon was enjoyed. He gave a thrilling account of his experiences in confederate prisons.

Recognized Advantages.

You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for coughs and colds. It does not suppress a cough, but loosens and relieves it. It aids expectoration and opens the secretions, which enables the system to throw off a cold. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers. —Adv.

JOE CONNOLLY HAD BATTLE IN MAJORS

Took Him a Long Time to Rise and Get a Berth He Could Hold.

New York, Feb. 15.—Joe Connolly, slugger-in-chief of the Boston Braves, and the hard-hitting hero of the miracle man's world's champions, is one of three natives of Massachusetts on the roll of that immortal aggregation of ball players. Joseph is usually credited to Rhode Island, but, like Mitchell and Maranville, he made his mundane debut in the Old Bay state. South Smithfield boasts of being Joe's birthplace, but he started his baseball career across the state line at Woonsocket, R. I., where he played with semi-pro clubs.

Connolly was 27 years old Monday. He first got into the limelight while playing with a Providence club in a state baseball tournament. Joe was largely instrumental in winning the honors for Providence, and his fame was noised abroad. It spread, indeed, as far as Ohio, and resulted in an offer from the Zanesville club, which Joe accepted. He played part of the season of 1910 with the Ohio team, and then went to Terre Haute, Ind., where he made a great reputation for himself. Like most incipient ball players, Joe wanted to shine in the box, but he was early convinced that a twirler he was an excellent outfielder.

Connolly's next rise in the world was with the Montreal club. The Cubs bought him from Terre Haute, but sent him to the Canadian metropolis for further seasoning. By 1912 Joe was considered ripe for another chance in the big show and he had a trial trip with Washington. The Senators turned him over to the Braves and in Boston Joe really arrived. Last season he was the only Boston regular to bat over the .300 mark, and he was responsible for a no inconsiderable proportion of the runs which gave Boston the National league championship and the chance to go against the Athletics for the world's baseball honors.

Connolly and George Whitted are the optimists of the Braves. When it comes to facing adversity with a smile Joe and George are there with the goods. The sunny smiles of this pair of charter members of the O. B. Joyful club have illuminated many a dark day for their fellow Braves.

The wild night life and glittering lights of the great cities of which he makes the rounds in the good old summer time have no attractions for Joe. The back to the farm stuff has hit him hard, and when not engaged in practicing his profession he spends his time in the bucolic pursuits of an agriculturalist on his farm near Woonsocket.

Connolly is 5 feet 6½ inches in altitude. He isn't any speed demon in getting around the bases, and his fielding, while good, is not spectacular. His throwing arm might be better but his swatting eye puts him in a class by himself among the Braves. He bats left handed. Stallings usually takes him out of the lineup when the opposing pitcher is a southpaw. He did this in the second game of the world's series when old Freddie Plank was on the mound for the Athletics. In the three games he played in the memorable series Joe's batting eye wasn't functioning quite as well as usual, and he got only one hit in nine trips to bat.

Connolly has had a long, hard fight to get to the top of the baseball ladder, but, now that he is perched on the pinnacle, he may be expected to remain quite some time.

"FORGET BASEBALL IN WINTER;" BAUM'S TIP TO OTHER PITCHERS

(Special Correspondence).

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—A pitcher who can heave through forty games without a single error, who is the oldest gunner in point of service in the Coast league, and who has twirled for twelve years with a record never under .600, ought to get an attentive audience of fans and fellow players when he has some "dope" to impart.

That's the record of Charles "Spide" Baum, leading pitcher with the San Francisco Seals.

And here is a warning "Spide" issues to others of his profession during the winter season:

"A pitcher should never touch a ball after the season closes he should get away in the hills and forget baseball. I have seen many prominent pitchers ruin their careers by too much playing.

"A pitcher has to work just as hard in an exhibition game as he does in a championship contest. There is the same strain. He may open all right in the spring, despite his winter's work, but along in July and August when the race gets hot he will find that he is not there.

Baum tells about the close fraternity between pitchers and the fellowship of batters.

"When a new batter enters the league," says Baum, "and starts hitting you should see the pitchers get busy. Every place we stop we pitchers exchange notes. Once around the circuit and we know what the batter likes. And once we get onto him he goes down in the book and we feed him everything he is supposed not to like.

"It's strange how pitchers band together like that, but the batters exchange notes themselves and I guess it's about 50-50."

"Spide" emphasizes the necessity for regarding every batsman your enemy on the diamond even though he might be your best friend off the grounds.

Chas. Baum

"I recall a game in Altoona," he explained, "when a friend catcher came to bat and I tipped him off to what was coming. He landed a nice two-base hit. I wasn't bothered because it was the ninth inning and I was three runs ahead. But the next fellow hit, and the next, so that before I got the side out I was beaten 4 to 3. That taught me a lesson."

"I pitch my hardest to my best friends for in this game it's a case of protect yourself first."

How to Prevent Bilious Attacks.
"Coming events cast their shadows before." This is especially true of bilious attacks. Your appetite will fail, you will feel dull and languid. If you are subject to bilious attacks take three of Chamberlain's Tablets as soon as these symptoms appear and the attack may be warded off. For sale by all dealers. —Adv.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

WABASH AGENTS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Prominent Points on Peru Division Will Be Represented Here.

The freight agents and freight warehouse foremen of the important points of the Peru division of the Wabash will attend a meeting at the Anthony hotel next Wednesday, called for the discussion of the over, short and damaged freight question, which is one of the most perplexing problems the freight and claims department of a railroad has to contend with. Notices of the meeting were issued from the office of Supt. E. A. Sollitt and they announce that Freight Claim Agent G. A. McFarland and P. H. Mattimoe, inspector of warehouses and handling of freight, of St. Louis, will be at the meeting and take part in the discussions. The following freight agents will also be at the meeting: W. L. Childers, of Toledo; C. F. Porter, of Napoleon; O. E. Wilson, of Defiance; G. W. Tillock, of New Haven; J. T. McPartland, of Fort Wayne; O. D. Keller, of Huntington; J. L. Brown, Wabash; H. S. Sweet, Peru; A. C. Naylor, Logansport; F. H. Elliott, Delphi; R. R. Hamilton, Lafayette; William Hessman, of Attica, and C. W. Greenman, Danville. The party will take dinner at the Anthony and follow it with a business session.

$20,000,000 MELON.

Mail Order Houses Get Cash and Railroads the Smell.

Ralph Peters, chairman of the committee on railway mail pay, has just issued a pamphlet containing the opinions of the editors of some of the leading newspapers on the subject of railway compensation for carrying the government mails. One of the articles is a communication from Gerard published recently by the Philadelphia Public League. It reads as follows:

"Richard Mansfield told me that when he was a poor lad in London he would stand outside a bakery shop and dine on the savory smell of pies, cakes and new bread.

"I can now behold, at least, 200 railroad presidents feasting on the aroma that rises from that $20,000,000 melon which a mail order house has cut. The presidents get nothing more substantial out of this banquet than the smell, but they take a genuinely personal interest in that.

"And why shouldn't they, since they paid for it? Yes, that melon came very largely out of their own pockets, or rather the pockets of the railroads over which they preside.

"This is how it happened: Mail order trade was never so brisk as since the parcel post went into effect. You can buy anything from a needle to a steel rail from these houses, and nearly all the articles are carried by mail to the purchasers.

"By a piece of neat jugglery, the post-office department evades payment for most of the parcel post business, so that the railroads have carried free a large part of the material which made that $20,000,000 melon ripe for distribution.

"Behind these railroad presidents stand about 2,000,000 railroad security owners. Their only portion of the melon which they provided is an occasional sound of money jingling in somebody else's pocket.

"No, dear reader, I cannot reproduce here what these 2,000,000 folks say about this arrangement."

Concerning the compensation for carrying the mails over the Panama railroad, Mr. Peter's pamphlet says:

"The Panama railroad has only one stockholder—the government of the United States. The railroads operating in the United States are owned by hundreds of thousands of citizens, who hold their stocks and bonds. The Panama railroad in the last fiscal year received more than $2.77 for each ton of mail carried one mile. This is shown by figures in its annual report. The postoffice department has estimated that the railroads of the United States receive approximately 10 cents for each ton of mail carried a mile. The rate paid the government-owned Panama railroad for carrying the mails is therefore about 28 times as great as the average rate paid the privately owned railroads of the United States."

ANOTHER RAILROAD NIGHT

Men Engaged in That Vocation Will Attend Tabernacle Saturday.

Secretary A. J. Cash, of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., has completed arrangements for another demonstration by the railroad and shop employes of the city at the tabernacle next Saturday night. He wants every railroad man in the city to take part in the demonstration and suggests that if they cannot reach the Y. M. C. R. rooms in time for the start of the parade that they meet it somewhere along the line or at the tabernacle door and they will be assured a good seat. The Pennsylvania employes on the road, in the shops and in the offices are greatly interested in the proposed demonstration and if the weather is favorable they will turn out over 1,200 strong. The foremen and assistant foremen of the various departments of the shops are becoming interested and are making personal invitations to the men to turn out Saturday night. Supt W. M. Wardrop and Master Mechanic E. E. Griest approve the movement and will give it aid in all possible manner. Although the night was one of the most disagreeable of the winter, the parade of railroad men to the tabernacle Saturday night, February 6, was the largest of the campaign.

HORSE CAUGHT IN BRIDGE.

Badly Hurt and Had to Be Killed to End Its Suffering.

At 10 o'clock last night some railroad men found a horse wedged in the ties of the Pennsylvania overhead bridge south of Lindenwood cemetery so badly injured that it could not recover and it was shot to end its suffering. At the time the animal was discovered a westbound freight train was approaching and had to be flagged to prevent striking the horse. It proved to be the property of Bock & Watson, proprietors of the livery stable at 508 South Harrison street. Yesterday afternoon two men hired a rig and some hours later went to the livery stable and told the attendants there that they had left the horse tied to a post in the rolling mills district and when they returned to the spot the horse and buggy were gone. It appears that the horse got loose and wandered away and in trying to cross the bridge, with the buggy, fell and hurt itself. The owners claim that they had recently refused $165 for the horse.

TWO INTERESTING LECTURES.

E. J. Brobst, of Schenectady, N. Y., will lecture on "Automobile Self Starters and Lighting Systems" before the Fort Wayne section of the American Institute of Eelectrical Engineers" at the Commercial club rooms Wednesday night. Mr. Brobst is the engineer for this department of the General Electric company and no person is better qualified to talk on auto starter subjects than he. Another lecture booked for this week that will be of special interest will be given at the assembly hall at the Fort Wayne Electric works under the auspices of the Electro Technic club by E. M. E. Humphries, of Lynn, Mass., next Friday night. He will tell of his travels over the United States, illustrating parts of the talk with lantern slides. Mr. Humphries is the lamp specialist for the General Electric works and he will also look after some business for the company while here. On the same evening Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dean do some sand moulding, making life like statues out of sand. This entertainment will be for members of the club only.

FEDERATION MEETING ANNULLED.

It has been announced that the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will not hold the regular meeting next Monday night on account of the mass meeting at the tabernacle in the interest of the co-operative store movement inaugurated some weeks ago. Not all of the unions have approved the movement and the mass meeting will attract greater attention on that account, it is believed. Among the opponents are the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, who voted against the plan last Thursday. They will be represented at the mass meeting by Messrs. Christian Hessen, Emil Poinsett, George Feucheter, Oscar Hoover and J. H. Rhodes. The union took in two members at the meeting Thursday.

OFF ON ACCOUNT OF INJURIES.

J. L. Sinclair, machinist at the Pennsylvania erecting shop, slipped Saturday and severely wrenched his back. He will not be able to work for several days. Julius Doriot, apprentice in the erecting room, sustained injuries to his back which have put him out of commission for several days. Mr. Doriot is a member of the Bachelor basket ball team and sustained his injuries Saturday night while in a game with the T. O. P. team at the James Smart school hall.

CELEBRATED HIS BIRTHDAY.

There was a family gathering yesterday at the home of Foreman P. J. Scheid, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, in celebration of the birth anniversary of Frank Scheid, of Toledo, a son of P. J. Scheid. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scheid, who came down from Toledo Saturday night, returned to that city this morning. Mr. Scheid is general foreman of the Pennsylvania round house at that point.

MOVING TO MANSFIELD.

Assistant Master Mechanic E. E. Dildine, of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania, is moving his family to Mansfield today. He has sold the pleasant house at 2230 Webster street which was his home when a resident of Fort Wayne. The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Dildine is a matter of deep regret to a large circle of friends in this city.

ICE HOUSE IS FULL.

Ninety carloads o ice have been stored in the Pennsylvania ice houses at the east yards, which completes the harvest for 1915. The ice came from Lake Nettawa, in Michigan, and is the finest lot ever harvested by the company. Three thousand and six hundred tons were put into the ice houses.

TWO INJURED MEN RECOVER.

Fred Lenz, the blacksmith, who had a hand injured when a piece of steel lodged in the flesh a week ago, reported for work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning. Otto Miller also resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning. He had the end of a finger crushed two weeks ago.

WIFE IS RECOVERING.

Mrs. W. R. Richardson, who had been very ill for some time, is now well on the road to recovery and Mr. Richardson has resumed his duties as train dispatcher for the Pennsylvania after an absence of ten days on account of the illness of his wife.

STOREKEEPERS HERE TOMORROW.

The division storekeepers of the Pennsylvania Northwest system will be here tomorrow for a two or three days' session. Division Storekeeper C. P. Cherry, of this city, who will preside at the meeting, returned from a week at Columbus and Pittsburg last night.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The Building Trades council will have a meeting tonight.

Fred Lepper, the Pennsylvania pattternmaker, is sick and off duty.

J. C. Grable, yard engineer of the Pennsylvania, is sick and off duty.

After an illness of two weeks, Michael Creigh is on duty again in the Pennsylvania machine shop.

A. E. Menefee, apprentice in the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is at work again after a week's illness.

Machinist L. J. McCulloch is absent from his machine in the Pennsylvania shops today on account of sickness.

Mrs. John J. Lynch, wife of the Pennsylvania pipefitter, has gone to Detroit to spend a few days with relatives.

John Rupp and W. Koehlinger, who had been sick, resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning.

Machinist Ed Harsh, who had a finger badly hurt some days ago, reported for work in the Pennsylvania shop this morning.

W. F. Dittoe, purchasing agent of the Nickel Plate, was here on business with the Bass Foundry and Machine company Saturday.

Guests in the city over Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Frost, of Toledo. Some years ago Mr. Frost was yardmaster for the Wabash at this point.

William Kiep, a clerk for Trainmaster Ogden Pierce, of the Nickel Plate, was the guest at Indianapolis of Leo Lauer, a student in a school of pharmacy, over Sunday.

General Foreman H. T. Hogan, who had been suffering from a severe cold two or three days, was able to resume his duties at the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning.

Agent Howell, of the Union News company, Pennsylvania passenger station, is on duty again after being sick a week. Mrs. Howell, who fell and injured a knee, has also recovered.

Oscar Rohrbaugh, chief clerk at the Wabash master mechanic's office, was presented with a daughter yesterday and in recognition of the honor, a box of cigars lies open to all callers on his desk.

The Carpenters and Joiners' union have elected Joseph Deahl a trustee to take the place of Ira Wickliffe, who has left the city. Two new members were added to the roll at the last meeting of the carpenters.

L. D. Redding, who is on the road in the interest of the United Garment Workers, spent Sunday with his family in Fort Wayne. At present Mr. Redding is working in this vicinity and can come home without interfering with his duties.

Air Brake Foreman George Swart and Machinist William Lang, of the Wabash shops, visited Machinist Richard Falconer at the Peru hospital yesterday. Mr. Falconer has been sick for several weeks and there is no perceptible improvement in his condition, though it is not serious.

Clayton H. Johnson, district president of the International Association of Machinists, will start on a tour of the state this week instructing machinists in the new by-laws that will be submitted to district meetings in Indianapolis March 28.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will appeal to Senators Kern and Shively and Congressman Cline to use their influence with the government and government contractors in behalf of union labor in the Panama canal zone. Colored labor from the surrounding country is being employed to the exclusion at times of white laborers, who are affiliated with the union.

It was rumored about the Wabash station this morning that the Wabash higher officials, including Receivers E. B. Prover and E. F. Jearney and General Manager S. E. Cotter, would be in Fort Wayne on an inspecting trip to familiarize the new receiver, Mr. Kearney, with the situation. Nothing officially could be learned of the coming of the officials and the rumor is probably not correct.

WORE OUT WELCOME IN THREE MONTHS

Mary M. Hoover tried out William Hoover as husband from June to September last year, and according to her divorce complaint just filed in the superior court, found him a failure. So she made no scruples of having had enough of him. She charges him with cruel and inhuman treatment, detailing that he failed to make proper and reasonable provision for her support, called her unkind names and otherwise used her as no good husband would treat a wife.

Says Wife Gets Drunk.

John Craig says in his complaint for divorce from Rosella Craig that she frequently associated with other men and visits wine rooms and gets drunk, and specifically sets out that she did so on the 13th of this month, going to Poirson's wine room with a man and getting intoxicated. He charges that she has become so infatuated with this sort of life she neglects to care for the plaintiff and for her two little children. He says she swore often at him and called him vile and foul names that he thinks wholly unfit to put in a complaint and then alleging her treatment of him last Saturday, when she told him to pack his traps and get out and get a divorce, gives a sample of her talk that raises curiosity as to what she said that was so much stronger he could not put it in his complaint. He asks the custody of two children, one aged 2 and the other 3 years.

Notes of the Courts.

Judge Eggeman in the circuit court has fixed Wednesday for the trial of Tracy Gratz, bound over to that tribunal from the city court on a charge of wife desertion and child neglect. He was arraigned late Saturday afternoon and pleaded not guilty. A letter to the circuit court from D. Gratz & Sons at Tecumseh, Mich., states that a job at $10 a week awaits the prisoner there if he will take it.

The suit of Timothy F. Mosely vs. S. Bash & Co. has been dismissed from the superior court.

In the case of Mary Tilbury vs. Charles Tilbury for divorce, the superior court has ordered the defendant to pay his wife $10 a month for support and $25 attorney's fees.

The Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company has been restrained by the superior court from paying the wages due Ancil Harshbarger, whose wife, Pearl Harshbarger, is suing him for divorce.

Judgment for $78.78 has been given the plaintiff under proceedings in the superior court for the foreclosure of a mortgage in the suit of the Tri-State Loan & Trust company vs. Frederick J. and Katie Semotan.

In the circuit court the suit of Jason D. Branstrator vs. George McAngus has been dismissed.

ACTION ON WEISSER PARK NOT RESCINDED

Board Leaves Way Open for Appeal to Courts if It is Desired.

The board of park commissioners, while holding that the remonstrance against the resolution to enlarge and complete Weisser park is sufficient, has not rescinded action. The way has been left open for an appeal to the courts by those who favor the improvement, and it is understood that a mandamus to compel the park board to proceed with the improvements according to the resolution will be sought. At its meeting Saturday afternoon the park board decided in view of the narrow margin by which the remonstrance was found insufficient to close the issue so far as it was concerned by adopting a resolution to rescind all action, and this was done. Later, however, it was held that the question should be left open for an appeal to the courts and the resolution has not been made of entry in the minutes. This, according to an opinion by City Attorney Colerick, does not nullify the procedures taken for the improvement, but leaves the matter open for appeal and there is no recession. The status of the whole matter is that the board has held the remonstrance sufficient and there can be no further proceedings by the board for a period of one year unless the courts should be asked to intervene and mandate the board to proceed under its resolution.

After four weeks of hard and ceaseless work by the assessment bureau of the park department it was found that the remonstrance was twenty-five names short of a majority of the property owners in the southeast park district. The board in view of the probability that question as to these and other names would be raised, decided not to confirm the resolution on a margin so narrow and declared its attitude in the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Whereas, The remonstrators against the enlargement of Weisser park lack only a few votes in having a majority; and

"Whereas, These few votes might probably be supplied by a thorough canvass of the remonstrances; and

"Whereas, We do not wish to confirm the resolution in a case which is so extremely doubtful as the present one; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we rescind all action on Park Improvement Resolution No. 3."

It is announced by J. W. Menefee, one of the most active and aggressive of the leaders that headed the element favoring the improvement, that a formal request will be made upon the park board to reopen the proceedings and if this is denied, the courts will be invoked to mandate the board to do so. On the remonstrance are counted as valid thirty names of southeast park district property owners and their wives with no evidence that in any case the one had been given permission by the other to sign. No account has as yet been taken of the remonstrances and withdrawals filed with the board following the original time set for the hearing, which was at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of January 16.

The records of the park department and the township assessor's office show that in the southeast park district there are 3,177 property owners. The assessment bureau of the park department counted 1,563 names out of 2,347 filed with the remonstrance as effective, whereas to be valid the remonstrance should have 1,589 names.

The fight over the Weisser park matter has been the most stubborn and embittered that ever took place over the question of a public improvement in Fort Wayne.

WILL LOWER SEWER OUTLET.

The board of works and city engineer have made an inspection of the outlet of the Tecumseh avenue sewer in Lakeside and have decided that conditions in that region will be much improved by lowering the mouth of the sewer about four feet. LOWER PRICES ON WHEAT PREDICTED

Two of the three mills of the city reduced their paying price for wheat per bushel to $1.45 Saturday while the remaining one kept the price at $1.50, but today this price was also reduced to $1.45. The millers predict that another drop will be made in the quotations Tuesday and if this is the case they also state that the price of flour, which has caused 6 cent bread in many cities, will also be reduced in proportion to the drop of wheat prices. The bakers are anxiously awaiting the time when flour prices will lower.

There was a great range of prices paid for corn on the local markets Monday morning, ranging all the way from 75c to 85c a bushel. Eleven loads are reported as having been weighed at the city scales and twenty loads of hay which brought from $15 to $18 a ton.

No oats appeared on the street Monday.

Although a cold wave in the weather promises to remain for a few days, commission men state that there will be no change in egg quotations as the heavy receipts of last week more than supplied the demand and that a large amount of the receipts were kept over so that even should the hens go on another strike for a few days there would be no change in prices.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Wheat developed strength today in consequence of signs that large sales had been made to exporters. It was said also that country offerings were smaller than has been recently the case. The market after opening ¼c off to a rise of 2c, scored an all around advance ranging 3⅛c above Saturday night's level.

Corn climbed with wheat. The opening, which varied from ⅛c down to ⅛c advance, was followed by a sharp general upturn.

Foreign demand for oats was on a liberal scale. Holders showed unwillingness to let go, and decidedly higher prices were soon in force.

Provisions sagged owing to a decline in the value of hogs. Trade was very slow.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 15.—Less tension in the international situation was denoted by the early movement of today's stock market. Americans were higher in London and this imparted some strength to the local situation. Canadian Pacific, Reading and American Smelting rising a point each with fractional gains in other active issues, including United States Steel. Trading was of the usual professional character and of moderate volume.

The early rise was of brief duration, prices falling back almost as easily as they had advanced. Steel, Reading, Union Pacific and others in the international list recorded losses of one to one and one-half points from their best of the first hour, and specialties showed similar decline. Another drop in exchange on London to the lowest quotation in many years revived rumors of further gold imports from Canada. Bonds were heavy, with indications of foreign offerings.

tree diseases and pests, and also to destroy unhealthy swarms of bees; to limit the hours of stationary engineers to not more than eight hours a day or fifty-six hours a week; to change the method of appointing truancy officers by placing the selection in the hands of the county superintendent of schools, judge of the circuit court and superintendent of schools of the largest city in the county; to permit seining with a seine of two-inch or larger mesh in the months of July and August; to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors within ten miles of the state penal farm in Putnam county and to enable graduates of any college or university of recognized standing to obtain teachers' life licenses in similar manner as do graduates of the state normal school.

The Durham measure, providing for transfer of prisoners of the Indiana prison at Michigan City, or the reformatory at Jeffersonville, to the penal farm at the expense of the state, was among the bills passed. Other measures passed were the Reeves and Lyday bills, concerning procedure in the appellate court, and the Eschbach bill to enable childless widows and their step-children to give legal conveyances of real estate.

Favor Preserving Old Capital.

The joint committee of the two houses of the legislature which was appointed to view the old state capital at Corydon and report on the advisability of the state appropriating money to preserve it in its original form, will enter a favorable report. The committee, which was composed of Senators Lanz and Maston and Representatives Douglass Davis and Westfall, spent Sunday at Corydon and on their return expressed themselves in hearty accord with the movement inaugurated by the citizens of that town.

Taxation questions would be studied by an expert engaged for that purpose, if a bill that has been drawn by a joint committee of the state tax association and the state board of tax commissioners is approved by the two houses of the legislature. The governor has already given such a measure his endorsement.

Final Draft Made.

The final draft of the bill was made today and was considered at a conference between the governor and the committee. The bill provides that a commission of seven members shall be appointed to study the problem between now and the convening of the next legislature, at which time it will be expected to have bills prepared for the consideration of the legislature. This committee would hire an expert on tax problems as worked out in other states who would be in the regular employ of the state until he has finished the investigation and has gathered all necessary material for the commission. His salary would be determined by the commission, which would receive $5,000 for this purpose, the members of the commission, the bill states, shall serve without pay.

Primary Cause for Worry.

A direct primary has perhaps given the members of the legislature more cause for worry than all other legislation combined. Early in the session it looked very doubtful if this question would be considered at all at this session. There was a feeling upon the part of a great many democrats that the law was not wanted by the people and that action could be easily avoided. Since that time supporters of the Jones-Rinear bill have busied themselves in bring sufficient pressure to bear on their colleagues until some sort of a primary law seems assured.

Closely following Senator Owen and Secretary of State Bryan, Senator Kern will come, it is said, here Tuesday to administer the finishing touches to the campaign made for the enactment of such a law.

While it is not known as to the sort of a primary he will recommend, there is a feeling that he will favor a law that would include all party candidates, such as the Jones-Rinear measure does. The Van Nuys primary bill provides only for the selection of convention delegates at a primary election.

It is generally understood that the senior senator from Indiana would prefer making a race for re-election to the United States senate in a primary election than before a state convention and has on several occasions publicly expressed his desire on this matter.

GERMANS NOW DRIVE AHEAD

tars of the enemy, according to the French official statement of today. The French occupied for 250 yards a German trench near La Basse. Energetic fighting continued in the Argonne without change in positions.

A heavy snow storm blew over the Vosges yesterday. French troops on skis executed a brilliant counter attack against the German position on the side of the mountain in the forest of Rempais.

ENGLAND STILL TALKING.

London, Feb. 15 (12:10 p. m.).—The threatened submarine blockade of the ports of the British Isles is still an absorbing topic for English newspapers and the English people, and judging from dispatches reaching here from the continent, eGrmany is equally interested.

The report that James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, has been requested to meet the emperor at once on the eastrn battle front, is taken in London to mean that Berlin will probably make a prompt reply to the American note to Germany.

The foreign office announced definitely this afternoon that if the cargo of the American ship Wilhelmina should be diverted for the relief of the distress in Belgium the decisions to send her cargo to a British prize court would be reconsidered. Otherwise her cargo must be submitted to the decision of the court.

THE WEATHER.

OFFICIAL FORECASTS.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature; lowest tonight, about 28 degrees.

For Indiana: Generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

For Ohio: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; colder in southeast portion tonight.

For Lower Michigan: Cloudy tonight and Tuesday except possibly snow flurries near the lakes; colder east portion tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The storm which was central over Kansas Saturday morning has moved directly northeastward and is central over northern Ontario this morning. Since Saturday it has given general rains over the upper Mississippi valley and the lake region, and snow over much of the northwest, heavy snow occurring over portions of the Dakotas and Minnesota. This morning fair weather prevails over practically all sections from the Mississippi valley to the Pacific coast, but some rains are reported from the Atlantic coast districts and some light snow from the lake region and the St. Lawrence valley.

The storm is being followed by colder weather which has overspread the central states and the plains states, with some zero temperatures over Montana, North Dakota and northern Minnesota.

The Maumee river has continued nearly stationary since Saturday at about 16.0 feet. It will fall during the next twenty-four hours.

The storm has passed beyond this section and fair weather can be expected tonight and Tuesday, with but slight changes in temperature. It will be slightly below freezing tonight.
